LexisNexis™ Scholastic Edition— News, Legal Research, Legislation, and Statistics

It's how high school researchers know how to find the answers they need.

When you add LexisNexis™ Scholastic Edition to your library's research resources, you help your students excel today...and when they get to college.

This easy-to-use, Web-based service delivers a cross-curricular mix of information from the most trusted, authoritative sources worldwide.

It's a great way to teach high school students how to find information they need to answer questions, prepare assignments, understand complex subjects, and more.

News

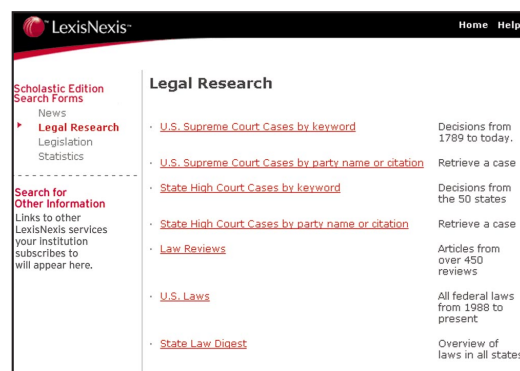

Excite students with up-to-the-minute news from around the world or access one of the most comprehensive news archives available:

- > More than 200 leading U.S., regional and international newspapers, including extensive archives of The New York Times and The Washington Post
- > Over 40 magazines with content ranging from general interest and news to specific subject areas, including Business Week, Economist, Ebony, Variety, and more
- > Breaking news from over 60 wire services, including such respected names as Associated Press, Business Wire, and PR Newswire
- > Hard-to-find broadcast transcripts from 30 respected sources, including the major television and radio networks
- > Foreign language news sources in Spanish, French, German, Italian, and Dutch

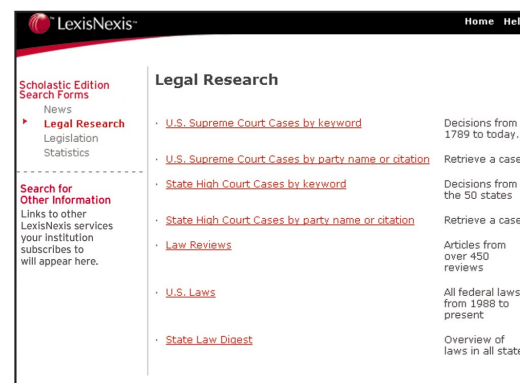

Legal Research

Expose students firsthand to the landmark federal decisions and individual state laws that shape the way we live:

- > U.S. Supreme Court cases from 1789 to today
- > State High Court cases from all 50 states
- > Law review articles from over 500 publications
- > All federal laws from 1988 to the present
- > State law digests from all 50 states

News—access a rich variety of authoritative sources

Legal Research—search federal and state law quickly and easily

“Having LexisNexis™ Scholastic Edition has brought prestige to our institution and given the edge to our nationally recognized debate team.”

Cynthia Montoya, Librarian
Green Valley H.S.

Legislation

Now students can easily follow the legislative process—from discussions and debate to votes and bill passage—and enjoy the excitement of federal and state government in action!

- > U.S. and state bills and tracking reports
- > Congressional Record with debates from the House and Senate floors
- > Profiles of members of Congress and Congressional voting records
- > State legislative calendars

Statistics

Find statistics fast with PowerTables™. Access over 30,000 tables of information from state, regional, and federal government agencies, as well as international organizations.

A sample of the sources that the tables are drawn from include:

- > Bureau of the Census
- > Consumer Product Safety Commission
- > Environmental Protection Agency
- > World Bank
- > National Science Foundation
- > Small Business Administration

Legislation—track the evolution of U.S. and state bills

Statistics—view tables from federal, state, and private data sources

“We had one marvelous experience with a student who was doing a paper on the economic effects of Mad Cow disease, and she was able to access articles from the time the disease was identified through today, in Europe and the U.S.—all with LexisNexis News.”

Phyllis DiBianco, Library Media Specialist
Scarsdale High School
Scarsdale, New York

“LexisNexis Scholastic Edition contains one of the best and most thorough search engines. Our debate team is able to do very specific, precise research with the product, and I particularly like the fact that it extends over so many different curricula, including law reviews, statistics, and news. The LexisNexis Customer Service and sales representatives are friendly and helpful—we especially appreciate it when we are on the road.”

Eric Emerson, Kinkaid Debate Coach
Houston, Texas
