One of the biggest challenges attorneys face in discovery is how to efficiently and effectively manage large discovery review projects. Structuring the document review by assigning reviewers and tracking the review progress can be an enormous challenge. With enhanced features in the Applied Discovery award-winning Online Review Application, these tasks are about to become easier.

ENHANCED CASE MANAGEMENT FOR CASE ADMINISTRATORS

Case administrators will have the ability to create reviewer profiles with a pre-defined access rights and assign those rights to different groups. Administrators will also have the ability to run reports to track productivity, progress of the review and customizable cross-reference reports for production.

INCREASED CONTROL FOR REVIEWERS

When many reviewers are involved in a case, attorneys must have the ability to protect their work product from being altered. Applied Discovery's Online Review Application will now allow reviewers the ability to lock their documents in order to prevent any changes.

ENHANCED SEARCH FUNCTIONALITY

One of the major benefits of reviewing documents electronically is the ability to search large document sets to quickly pinpoint critical documents or to organize document review teams. Applied Discovery is continually expanding search functionality and employing the most up-to-date search technology in order to provide the most precise search results.

P.S. WHITE PAPER: ELEMENTS OF A GOOD DOCUMENT RETENTION POLICY

In the wake of several court decisions leading to high dollar jury verdicts, law firms that want to stay competitive need to start thinking about how to advise their clients about the retention and preservation of information. The experts at Applied Discovery have developed a white paper to help law firms and their clients develop a good document retention policy. Click here to request a copy today.
