LexisNexis Research Feature	The LexisNexis Difference	Why You Can Be Confident
The Lexis Search Advisor Classification System	Covering 16,000 legal topics, Lexis Search Advisor provides the depth and breadth of coverage you need through a streamlined legal classification system built for 21st century practice of law. Topics are updated regularly to keep you current with new legal developments—an advantage over printed digests.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • The Lexis Search Advisor classification system is current, comprehensive and accurate. • When you're on a tight deadline, you can count on LexisNexis to help you sift through information to find the relevant results your assigning constituents require.
LexisNexis Headnotes & LexisNexis Case Summaries	LexisNexis Headnotes are drawn from the exact language of the court, not from editors' interpretations. To supplement these Headnotes, LexisNexis Case Summaries provide interpretations written by experienced attorney-editors, who also check grammar, spelling and context and work with the courts to make corrections. In addition, More Like This Headnote allows you to click once and easily expand the scope of your research.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • You can see a clear distinction between the actual opinion of the court and the opinions of our attorney-editors. • Combining both the black letter law and the applicable facts of the case allows you to more effectively apply the rules to other cases. • With superior content and easy linking, you can search the widest range of current, treated case law available.
Shepard's Citations Service	Only Shepard's gives you valuable depth of coverage with True Positive and Questioned Validity treatments. With Shepard's you can be sure not to miss instances where one jurisdiction ruled negatively on a case while another affirmed it. The Shepard's Summary brings key information you need to the top of the report—a feature other citators lack. And our integrated system allows you to Shepardize ® a case, then link directly to discussions in citing cases that are similar to issues in your case's LexisNexis Headnotes (which are found for both published and unpublished opinions). Shepard's provides the most current citations available with full history and treatment added typically within 24 – 28 hours of receipt of an opinion. Shepard's cites to several hundred law reviews and more than 800 Matthew Bender® treatises, providing you authoritative, informative and manageable information.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • With Shepard's, the premier citator, you have true depth of coverage, not just length of discussion. • Shepard's summaries can help you quickly and easily spot the information you need to make sound research decisions.

LexisNexis Research Feature	The LexisNexis Difference	Why You Can Be Confident
LexisNexis Premier Legal Content	LexisNexis provides you with 55%* more attorney-summarized federal and state cases from the past 10 years than the closest competitor. LexisNexis offers a complete collection of federal and state statutes with "Official Publisher" status in 17 jurisdictions. Add in the USCS and Lawyer's Edition—more LexisNexis exclusives. Legal analysis comes from leading authorities in their fields, such as Collier, Nimmer, Chisum, Gilson, Moore, Larson, Appleman and Weinstein. LexisNexis authoritative content is more court-cited than the analytical works of other publishers. Collier on Bankruptcy [®] , for example, is cited by the courts 16 times more than its leading competitor.*	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You're consulting the largest collection of enhanced case law and exclusive research sources available. You can move easily between case law, expert analysis and Shepard's Citations. LexisNexis research tools can help you quickly zero in on what matters for success.
LexisNexis News and Business Content	No research is complete until you've searched news and business resources at www.lexis.com . LexisNexis delivers more than 20,000 trusted news, business and financial sources from around the world (nearly double the resources of any other provider*); the top 100 U.S. newspapers like The Wall Street Journal and The New York Times ; trade and industry publications; key legal publications, such as the Testifying Expert ; and a public records collection with 3.8 billion documents—1.8 billion* more than the offerings of other leading online legal research competitors.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You can efficiently cover all the bases in your search for facts because many key sources are available together only on the LexisNexis services. You can use the SmartLinx[®] feature to connect public records information logically for simplified due diligence, witness background checks, conflict of interest searches and much more.
