SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

This series of Papers of the NAACP documents the activities of branch offices and state conferences in Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, the District of Columbia, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia. The files are arranged alphabetically by state and thereunder by city and span from 1956 to 1965.

The Branch Department files in this edition provide an important perspective on the functioning of local NAACP branches and state conferences during the high point of the post–World War II struggle for civil rights. The files contain correspondence from the national office to the branches as well as correspondence and reports generated at the local level and forwarded to the national office. The correspondence covers a wide variety of local matters such as branch elections, membership drives, fund-raising, factional disputes, local civil rights initiatives, planning for mass meetings, and relationships with other organizations. For example, a report from a workshop on branch administration held in North Carolina by Gloster B. Current includes statistics on memberships; founding dates for branches; and NAACP procedures for selecting branch leaders, for filing racial discrimination complaints, and for fund-raising (Reel 13, Frame 0293). A report prepared by Kelly M. Alexander of the Charlotte, North Carolina, branch entitled “Implementing an Effective NAACP Program in Charlotte, North Carolina,” covers plans for the branch in the areas of housing, voter registration, desegregation of hospitals and schools, and employment. The records of the Baltimore, Maryland, branch include scholar-activist August Meier’s criticisms of the branch leadership and replies by Lillie M. Jackson (Reel 9, Frame 0514). A letter from A. Maceo Smith, secretary of the Texas State Conference, attaches a report he wrote along with NAACP Southwest regional director U. Simpson Tate. The report, entitled “Some Criteria for Effective Inter-group Branch Action,” includes their suggestions on creating a climate of acceptance for desegregation (Reel 15, Frame 0577). Annual reports from the state conferences generally include summaries of major campaigns. The 1965 annual report from the Mississippi State Conference, for example, includes reports on demonstrations regarding employment and public accommodations, investigations of violence against civil rights activists, voter registration, and education. These are only a few examples of how the Branch Department files help to illuminate the functioning of NAACP branches in communities throughout the South.

The Coahoma County, Mississippi, branch is one of the best documented branches in this edition (Reel 10, Frame 0012 through Frame 0296). These files contain regular reports and correspondence about the freedom movement in Coahoma County written by branch leader Aaron Henry. Henry, a Clarksdale businessman and pharmacist, was one of the NAACP's many courageous and dynamic local leaders. In addition to leading the Coahoma County branch, in 1960, Henry was selected president of the Mississippi State Conference of NAACP branches, and in 1962 he helped to bring the Council of Federated Organizations to Coahoma County. Henry was also a key figure in the Mississippi Freedom Democratic Party, a political party originally formed to challenge the segregationist Mississippi delegation to the 1964 Democratic National Convention. Topics covered in Henry's reports and correspondence include an NAACP-led boycott of Clarksdale businesses, civil rights demonstrations, voter registration, and harassment and arrests of Henry and other local activists. Other records in the Coahoma County files include letters to the mayor of Clarksdale listing movement demands, testimony by Henry on conditions in Mississippi before the U.S. House Judiciary Committee, a detailed summary of events in Clarksdale entitled "The Clarksdale Story," and a report on economic conditions in the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta. Additional material on NAACP activity in Coahoma County, particularly the activities of Aaron Henry, can also be found in other parts of UPA's Papers of the NAACP. These include Supplement to Part 4, Voting Rights General Office Files, 1956–1965; Supplement to Part 16, Board of Directors Files, 1956–1965; Part 20: White Resistance and Reprisals; Part 21: NAACP Relations with the Modern Civil Rights Movement; Part 22: Legal Department Administrative Files, 1956–1965; and Part 23: Legal Department Case Files, 1956–1965, Series A: The South.

A series of letters from Helen L. Phelps, president of the Richmond, Kentucky, branch, to national director of branches Gloster B. Current includes references to two of the other major themes that can be found throughout this series of branch files: school desegregation and the NAACP's relations with other civil rights organizations. In an initial letter, Phelps makes a request for a special dispensation of funds to help the branch finance its school desegregation case. In several follow-up letters, Phelps summarizes many of the important aspects of the Richmond school situation. An August 15, 1961, letter also includes comments on the relationship between the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) and the NAACP and the relationship between whites and blacks in the city (Reel 7, Frame 0207).

In the decade following the NAACP's victory in Brown v. Board of Education, the association mobilized its network of local branches to press for the desegregation of public schools across the country. This edition contains assorted documents about many of these cases. For example, files from Baton Rouge, Louisiana (Reel 8, Frames 0001 and 0079), include several documents pertaining to that locale's school desegregation case. A resolution adopted at a branch meeting requests the national office to send one of its lawyers to assist the branch. The resolution states that without such help, the branch's membership and fund-raising drives would suffer. A subsequent letter from branch president Arthur L. Jelks Sr. inquires as to why the national office lawyers failed to meet with him. The files from the Virginia State Conference in this edition include many documents related to the school desegregation crisis in Prince Edward County, Virginia. For five years following the NAACP's victory in Brown v. Board of Education, the school board in Prince Edward County had managed to avoid desegregating the county's schools. In 1959, however, federal courts ruled that Prince Edward County schools needed to be desegregated. The school board tried to circumvent this decision by closing all of the public schools and opening a private school that only admitted white students. This edition includes correspondence, newspaper clippings, and speeches by NAACP leaders relating to the case. The Subject Index of this guide may be consulted for other documents relating to school desegregation. The complete files on the NAACP's national efforts in the area of school desegregation are the subject of UPA's Papers of the NAACP, Part 3: The Campaign for Educational Equality, 1913–1965.

Another important subject covered in some detail in this series of Branch Department files is the NAACP's relationship with other civil rights organizations. These organizations included CORE, the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee (SNCC), and the Council of Federated Organizations (COFO). These relationships encompassed both cooperation and friction. For example, a letter from NAACP executive director Roy Wilkins to Arthur J. Chapital Sr., president of the New Orleans branch, criticizes Chapital for working with CORE on lunch counter protests. Wilkins notes that many CORE staffers "spread stories and accusations about our 'deadness' and our 'old-fashioned techniques.'" Wilkins goes on to note that in spite of this rivalry, the NAACP came to the rescue of CORE activists in Jackson, Mississippi, by supplying them with three attorneys and by paying out approximately $400,000 in bail money. The files from Laurel, LeFlore County, and Pike County, Mississippi, and from the Mississippi State Conference contain materials pertaining to the NAACP's relationship with COFO. The NAACP's relationship with these and other civil rights organizations is the subject of UPA's Papers of the NAACP, Part 21: NAACP Relations with the Modern Civil Rights Movement.

The Branch Department files are also important because they highlight the leadership positions held by women at all levels of the association. On the national level, the correspondence of membership secretary Lucille Black indicates the many duties she performed in order to build the association's membership. At the state and local level, the work of many prominent female leaders is documented in this edition. These include Daisy Bates from Arkansas; Vivienne R. Chisholm and June T. Tennille from the District of Columbia; Fannie Fullerwood from Saint Augustine, Florida; Osceola A. Dawson and Helen L. Phelps from Kentucky; Doretha A. Combre from Louisiana; Lillie M. Jackson and Juanita Jackson Mitchell from Baltimore, Maryland; Vera Mae Pigea from Mississippi; Modjeska M. Simkins from South Carolina; and Lulu B. White and Christia V. Adair from Texas. At the regional level, Ruby Hurley was one of the NAACP's most dynamic leaders. Researchers interested in Hurley's activities as Southeast regional secretary should also consult Part 25: Branch Department Files, Regional Files and Special Reports of Papers of the NAACP.

The files from the state conferences provide further insight into the functioning of the NAACP on a state and local level. Proceedings from state conference annual meetings are an important source because they often include minutes of meeting sessions; typescripts of speeches presented at the meetings; and resolutions on crucial issues such as employment, voting rights, and school desegregation. Prominent NAACP leaders represented among the speakers at annual meetings include executive director Roy Wilkins, director of branches Gloster B. Current, North Carolina State Conference secretary Kelly M. Alexander, Kentucky State Conference president James A. Crumlin, and Mississippi State Conference president Aaron E. Henry. A full listing of materials pertaining to annual meetings can be found in the Subject Index of this guide under "Conferences and conventions, NAACP."

Part 27: Selected Branch Files, 1956–1965 represents a continuation of the Selected Branch Files from Part 12 (1912–1939) and Part 26 (1940–1955) of UPA's Papers of the NAACP.

While the Branch Department files do provide essential detail on local and state NAACP activity, researchers should be aware that the branch files can be used most effectively in conjunction with other parts of Papers of the NAACP. Especially relevant in this regard are Part 23: Legal Department Case Files, 1956–1965, and Part 25: Branch Department Files. The Legal Department Case Files document many of the local cases in great detail and the records in Part 25 include regular reports from regional field staff on activities at the local branch level. Other parts of UPA's Papers of the NAACP that provide additional information on the period from 1956 to 1965 are the following:

- Part 1: Meetings of the Board of Directors, Records of Annual Conferences, Major Speeches, and Special Reports, Supplements for 1956–1960 and 1961–1965
- Part 3: The Campaign for Educational Equality, Series D: Central Office Records, 1956–1965

- Supplement to Part 4, Voting Rights, General Office Files, 1956–1965
- Supplement to Part 5, Residential Segregation, General Office Files, 1956–1965
- Supplement to Part 13, The NAACP and Labor, 1956–1965
- Supplement to Part 16, Board of Directors Files, 1956–1965
- Supplement to Part 17, National Staff Files, 1956–1965

- Part 22: Legal Department Administrative Files, 1956–1965
- Part 24: Special Subjects, 1956–1965

UPA has also filmed several other collections that provide further documentation on the modern civil rights movement. These include:

SUBJECT INDEX

The following index is a guide to the major topics, personalities, and activities in this microform publication. The first number after an entry refers to the reel, while the four-digit number following the colon refers to the frame number at which a particular file folder containing information on the subject begins. Hence, 10: 0012 directs the researcher to the folder that begins at Frame 0012 of Reel 10. By referring to the Reel Index, which constitutes the initial section of this guide, the researcher will find the folder title, inclusive dates, and a list of Major Topics and Principal Correspondents, arranged in the order in which they appear on the film.

NAACP branches are indexed by city. NAACP state conferences are indexed by state. State conference entries include cross-references to the relevant branch locations.
