INTRODUCTION

The impact of the ante-bellum southern plantations on the lives of their black and white inhabitants, as well as on the political, economic, and cultural life of the South as a whole, is one of the most fascinating and controversial problems of present-day American historical research. Depending upon the labor of slaves who constituted the great majority of the American black population, the plantations were both homes and business enterprises for a white, southern elite. They were the largest, the most commercialized, and on the whole, the most efficient and specialized agricultural enterprises of their day, producing the bulk of the South's staple crops of tobacco, cotton, sugar, rice, and hemp. Their proprietors were entrepreneurs who aspired to and sometimes, after a generation or two, achieved the status of a cultivated landed aristocracy. Many distinguished themselves not only in agriculture but in the professions, in the military, in government service, and in scientific and cultural endeavors.

Planters ambitious to augment their wealth, together with their black slaves, were an important driving force in the economic and political development of new territories and states in the Southwest. Their commodities accounted for more than half the nation's exports, and the plantations themselves were important markets for the products of northern industry. In short, they played a crucial role in the development of a national market economy.

The plantations of the Old South, the white families who owned, operated, and lived on them, and the blacks who toiled on them as slaves for more than two centuries have been the subjects of numerous historical studies since the pioneering work of Ulrich B. Phillips in the early twentieth century. The literature, highly controversial, has focused on questions such as the evolution and nature of the planter class and its role in shaping the white South's economy, culture, and values; the conditions experienced by American blacks in slavery; the impact of the "peculiar institution" on their personalities and the degree to which a distinct Afro-American culture developed among them; and, finally, the sources of the tension between the proslavery interests of the South and the "free labor" interests of the North that culminated in secession and civil war.

Research materials are plentiful. Census returns and other government documents, newspapers and periodicals, travelers' accounts, memoirs and autobiographies, and an abundance of polemical literature have much to tell historians about life on ante-bellum plantations. The autobiographies of former slaves, several twentieth-century oral history collections, and a rich record of songs and folklore are significant sources for the black experience in slavery. All the historical literature, however, from Phillips to the most recent studies, has relied heavily on the enormous collections of manuscript plantation records that survive in research libraries scattered throughout the South. These manuscripts consist of business records, account books, slave lists, overseers' reports, diaries, private letters exchanged among family members and friends, and even an occasional letter written by a literate slave. They come mostly from the larger tobacco, cotton, sugar, and rice plantations, but a significant number survive from the more modest estates and smaller slaveholdings whose economic operations tended to be less specialized.

Plantation records reveal nearly every aspect of plantation life. Not only business operations and day-to-day labor routines, but family affairs, the roles of women, racial attitudes, relations between masters and slaves, social and cultural life, the values shared by members of the planter class, and the tensions and anxieties that were inseparable from a slave society are all revealed with a fullness and candor unmatched by any of the other available sources. Moreover, these records are immensely valuable for studies of black slavery. Needless to say, since they were compiled by members of the white master class, they provide little direct evidence of the inner feelings and private lives of the slave population. But they are the best sources of information about the care and treatment of slaves, about problems in the management of slave labor, and about forms of slave resistance short of open rebellion. They also tell us much about the behavior of slaves, from which historians can at least draw inferences about the impact of slavery on the minds and personalities of its black victims.

Deposited in southern state archives and in the libraries of many southern universities and historical societies, significantly more plantation records have become available in recent decades. Our publication is designed to assist scholars in their use by offering for the first time an ample selection of the most important materials in a single microfilm collection. Ultimately it will cover each geographical area in which the plantation flourished, with additions of approximately four new collections annually. A special effort is being made to offer the rarer records of the smaller slaveholders and to include the equally rare records of the plantations in the last quarter of the eighteenth century; however, the documentation is most abundant for the operations of the larger plantations in the period between the War of 1812 and the Civil War, and their records will constitute the bulk of our publication.

Margarett Butler Papers (Mss. 1068, 1069), 1847–1880,
West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana; also Texas

Biographical Note

Margarett Butler (1821–1890) was a daughter of Judge Thomas Butler and Ann (Ellis) Butler. Correspondence of Margarett Butler of The Cottage, St. Francisville, West Feliciana Parish, from friends and members of the family, emphasizes the personal life of a prominent Louisiana family during the Civil War and Reconstruction.

Letters, 1848–1888, from Margarett's sisters, Anna and Sarah, while traveling in Minnesota, Canada, and New York and during extended visits in New Orleans, give some descriptive travel news.

Letters from Margarett's sister-in-law, Sarah Ker Butler, wife of Richard E. Butler, from her plantation in Terrebonne Parish, begin in 1861 and continue until her death in 1868, after which the correspondence is taken up by her husband, Richard E. Butler, and her son, Thomas W. Butler. Letters, interspersed with family news, give information concerning household and personal duties, church affairs, and events on the plantation.

In 1845, Margarett Butler's brother, Pierce, and his children, Thomas, James Pierce, and Ann Louisa ("Annie"), moved to The Cottage. During the Civil War, both of Pierce Butler's sons, Thomas and James Pierce, were officers in the Confederate army.

Pierce Butler's daughter, Annie, married Henry Chotard Minor in 1875. Letters by Annie are from Boston, Massachusetts, Baltimore, Maryland, and Long Island, New York, during the period immediately following her marriage and, upon her return to Louisiana, from Southdown Plantation in Terrebonne Parish; they relate family and plantation news.

Letters, 1861–1870, from Margarett Butler's friend, Mary Byson, of Red River County, Texas, reflect social and economic conditions in that area, particularly during the Civil War.

Letters, 1868–1880, from New Orleans, Louisiana, San Antonio, Texas, Baltimore, Maryland, and Pass Christian, Mississippi, by the Reverend D. S. Lewis, rector, 1838–1866, of Grace Episcopal Church in St. Francisville, and his wife, Harriet, contain personal and church news.

Richard Butler Papers (Mss. 1000), 1795–1889,
West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana; also Mississippi and Pennsylvania

Biographical Note

Richard Butler, born in 1777, was the son of the American Revolutionary War figure Colonel William Butler and Jane Carmichael of New Orleans. He served as a subaltern in General Anthony Wayne's army and as a lieutenant in the Second Infantry under the command of his uncle, Colonel Thomas Butler.

In 1798, Richard Butler traveled down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to Natchez, Mississippi, a journey he recorded in a travel diary. At Natchez, he delivered dispatches to Captain Guion.

He married Margaret Farar, daughter of Dr. Benjamin Farar of Pointe Coupee Parish, in 1799. In 1805, he purchased Ormond Plantation, in German Coast County (St. Charles Parish), from the widow of Pierre Trepagnier. At Ormond, named for the Irish family seat of one of his ancestors, he planted sugar. The Butlers also owned a house built by architect Henry S. Latrobe on Royal Street in New Orleans in 1817.

Butler and his wife died childless in 1820 during an epidemic of yellow fever. Establishing the heirs in the settlement of the Butler estate proved difficult. Rebecca McCutcheon, Richard's sister, and her husband, Samuel McCutcheon, inherited the New Orleans house.

Description of the Collection

Correspondence, a diary, financial papers, and plantation records document the personal and professional life of Richard Butler, an army officer and sugar planter at Ormond Plantation in St. Charles Parish, Louisiana. The diary (1798) records a trip from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers to Natchez, Mississippi. Other papers pertain to plantation administration, sugar sales, household administration, the Embargo Bill of 1808, and the settlement of the estate of Richard Butler.

Early papers (1795–1803) consist of correspondence, including a letter received by Jane Carmichael Butler praising the military career of her son, Richard Butler (1795); Richard Butler's travel diary (1798); legal agreements pertaining to the estate of Benjamin Farar; a receipt for purchase of slaves; and merchandise receipts.

The majority of papers reflect Richard Butler's finances and administration of the sugar plantation. They include lists of slaves to be taxed (1805); correspondence concerning sugar shipments and plantation conditions; statements of account and invoices; cashbooks; legal papers concerning the settlement of the Richard Butler estate; and a record book kept by Richard Butler and others (1796–1889).

Other significant items are an appointment of Richard Butler to the Council of Administration of the Charity Hospital of New Orleans signed by William C. C. Claiborne (1811), correspondence concerning the embargo of 1807–1809 and testimony before a military court (1808), articles of agreement and indenture (1809), a statement of account concerning the estate of Colonel William Butler (1814), and letters to Richard Butler from Andrew Jackson (1816–1817).

Robert Butler Poems (Mss. 1000), 1833–1853,
Florida and Louisiana

Biographical Note

Robert Butler (1786–1860) was a colonel in the U.S. Army, surveyor general of Florida, and brother of Judge Thomas Butler.

Description of the Collection

The collection consists of 108 items, poems, 1833–1853 and undated, by Robert Butler. Handwritten poems, the majority of which are signed and dated, give the place written, the person to whom the composition is dedicated or by whom it was inspired, and the person(s) to whom a copy was sent. Most of the poems were written at Lake Jackson, near Tallahassee, Florida.

The poems are religious and sentimental in nature and many are adapted to the music of contemporary songs and hymns. A good example of the acrostic form of poetry is illustrated in many of the poems Colonel Butler wrote for his friends and relatives using the letters of their names to form the pattern of the poem.

Included is a group of poems commenting on the presidential election of James K. Polk and George M. Dallas in 1845, a poem eulogizing Andrew Jackson at the time of his death in 1845, and a retained copy of a letter of sympathy to General F. Pierce in 1853.

Thomas W. Butler Papers (Mss. 888), 1842–1913,
West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana; also Arkansas

Biographical Note

Thomas W. Butler (1851–1913), owner of Cedars Plantation in West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana, was a son of Richard Ellis Butler, planter in Terrebonne Parish, Louisiana. Richard Ellis Butler was a nephew of R. G. Ellis and served as executor of the Ellis estate in the 1840s and 1850s. In 1849, Richard Ellis Butler married Sarah Evalina (Ker) Butler (1823–1868), a daughter of Dr. John Ker (1789–1850) of Natchez, Mississippi.

Description of the Collection

Correspondence and financial papers in this collection document the business of Cedars Plantation in West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana, and the personal finance of Thomas W. Butler. Other business papers and plantation records pertain to the Le Carpe Plantation, Terrebonne Parish, Louisiana, of Thomas Butler's father, Richard Ellis Butler.

The collection includes plantation records, business papers, and personal correspondence of Thomas W. Butler (1851–1913), owner of Cedars Plantation in West Feliciana Parish, and the plantation records and accounts of his father, Richard Ellis Butler, a planter in Terrebonne Parish, Louisiana.

Richard Ellis Butler, nephew of R. G. Ellis and executor of the Ellis estate, married Sarah Ker, daughter of Dr. John Ker of Natchez, Mississippi. Ledgers kept by Butler contain statements of income and expenditures of the Ellis estate (1844–1858) and records of the succession of Dr. John Ker (1852–1869).

Ledgers (1842–1871) contain detailed information concerning the operation of Le Carpe Plantation in Grand Caillou, Terrebonne Parish, and include a list of overseers (1842–1857); an inventory of the estate of Bayou Grand Caillou (1847–1854); names of creditors from whom plantation supplies were purchased; magazine and newspaper subscriptions; loans made to individuals; state taxes paid; and cost of repairs and improvements. They also contain the names of slaves acquired with the purchase of the Le Carpe Plantation; dates of births and deaths with notations of cause and age of slave at time of death and later names of laborers employed; wages paid to each; and credit and supplies extended to each laborer.

The bulk of the material pertains to the operation of The Cedars near Bails Post Office, West Feliciana Parish. Thomas Butler was born in Terrebonne Parish in 1851 and married Sallie Fort, daughter of W. A. Fort. The Butlers had three children, Sarah D., Richard E., and Mary F.

Daybooks, plantation diaries, and ledgers record plantation expenditures and revenue, personal and household expenditures, planting operations, and livestock. A daybook (1903–1913) contains an account of the Pavilion Fund, a community project, listing the names of donors, amounts contributed, and costs of materials and construction. Other financial papers consist of bills, receipts, and invoices for merchandise, farm machinery, hardware, and groceries; statements from commission merchants; and receipts for professional services.

Correspondence pertains to farm property owned by T. W. Butler in Arkansas and to the education of his children. Letters of J. Cole Davis, attorney of Helena, Arkansas (1877–1873), document sales, leases, and taxation of properties in Woodruff, Lee, and Monroe counties. Letters (1900–1904) from J. R. Preston of Stanton College and W. C. Guthrie of Chamberlain-Hunt Academy concern the schooling of T. W. Butler's children.

Thomas Butler and Family Papers (Mss. 2850), 1804–1945, West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana

Biographical Note

The progenitor of the family was Judge Thomas Butler (1785–1847). Born in Pennsylvania, he moved to Pinckneyville, Mississippi Territory, in 1809. An attorney, Butler worked for many of the merchants in southwest Mississippi and in the Feliciana parishes of Louisiana. In 1813, he was appointed judge of the Louisiana Third District Court after moving to West Feliciana Parish near St. Francisville and later was elected to the U.S. Congress, serving as a representative from 1818 to 1821. Butler was a Louisiana gubernatorial candidate twice in the 1820s but lost both elections.

In the late 1830s he began to develop sugar plantations in Terrebonne Parish, Louisiana. Butler's interests extended also to higher education, and he served as president of the Board of Trustees of the Louisiana College at Jackson, Louisiana. He was also a member of the Louisiana Historical Society.

Thomas Butler married Ann Ellis, daughter of Abram Ellis, in 1813, and they lived at The Cottage with their children, Pierce, Richard, Robert, Edward, Margaret, Sarah, Anna, and Mary. After his death in 1847 wife Ann and son Pierce continued to operate the sugar plantations.

Pierce Butler (1817–1888) married Mary Louisa (Stirling) Butler (d. 1845) in 1840. She was a daughter of Henry Stirling (d. 1828) and Mary (Bowman) Stirling. Pierce Butler and his children, Thomas Butler, James Pierce Butler, and Ann Louisa "Annie" Butler, moved to The Cottage in 1845. During the Civil War, Thomas Butler (1840–1922) served as a captain in the 1st Louisiana Infantry and aide-de-camp to General Braxton Bragg. His brother, James Pierce Butler (b. 1842), was a lieutenant in the 1st Louisiana Heavy Artillery Regiment. After the war, Thomas Butler was a lawyer in Bayou Sara, West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana. He married Mary Fort in 1876. Their children included Thomas Butler (b. 1877), Mary Louisa Butler (b. 1878), Sallie Fort (Butler) French (b. 1880), Annie Butler (b. 1882), William Fort Butler (b. 1884), Margaret Butler (b. 1885), Henry Minor Butler (b. 1891), and James Stirling Butler (b. 1893).

Description of the Collection

Correspondence and financial papers reflect the personal and financial matters of Judge Thomas Butler and his family in West Feliciana Parish and the sugar plantations owned by the family in Terrebonne Parish. Most materials concerning the plantations and other finances reflect business in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Civil War materials include military orders from the Confederate States of America Army of the Gulf. Early items pertain to the Randolph family and also include letters received by Mary Louisa (Stirling) Butler, 1830–1861 [1845].

Family papers pertain primarily to household and business finances and include correspondence, bills, receipts, accounts, bills of lading, stock certificates, and banking papers. The materials reflect the plantation economy in the antebellum and postwar periods. The twentieth-century financial papers consist primarily of plantation records, bank accounts, and stock interests.

Civil War papers include Confederate military orders and other official papers. Other papers are the Randolph family papers, 1804–1840, and letters received by Mary Louisa (Stirling) Butler, 1833–1845, concerning family, plantation, and social matters.

Omissions

A list of omissions from the Thomas Butler and Family Papers (Mss. 2850), 1804–1945, is provided on Reel 11, Frame 0185. Omissions consist of Series VII, Printed Material, 1861–1943 and Undated.

N.B. Related collections include all collections in the present edition. Another related collection among the holdings of the Louisiana and Lower Mississippi Valley Collections, Louisiana State University Libraries, is the Lewis Stirling and Family Papers (Mss. 1866), 1797–1938, included, in part, in UPA's Records of Ante-Bellum Southern Plantations from the Revolution through the Civil War, Series I, Part 2.

Butler Family Papers (Mss. 1026), 1663–1950,
West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana

Biographical Note

The Butlers were cotton and sugar planters centered in West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana, at a home called The Cottage. Judge Thomas Butler (1785–1847), born in Pennsylvania, moved to Pinckneyville, Mississippi Territory, in 1809. An attorney, Butler worked for many of the merchants in southwest Mississippi and in the Feliciana parishes of Louisiana. In 1813, he was appointed judge of the Louisiana Third District Court after moving to West Feliciana Parish near St. Francisville and later was elected to the U.S. Congress, serving as a representative from 1818 to 1821. Butler was a Louisiana gubernatorial candidate twice in the 1820s but lost both elections.

In the late 1830s he began to develop cotton and sugar plantations in West Feliciana and Terrebonne parishes, Louisiana. Butler's interests extended also to higher education, and he served as president of the Board of Trustees of the Louisiana College at Jackson, Louisiana. He was also a member of the Louisiana Historical Society.

Thomas Butler married Ann Ellis (d. 1878), daughter of Abram Ellis, in 1813, and they lived at The Cottage with their children, Pierce (d. 1888), Richard (d. 1908), Robert (d. 1874), Edward (d. 1887), Margaret (d. 1890), Sarah (d. 1888), Anna (d. 1902), and Mary (d. 1914). After Thomas Butler's death in 1847 wife Ann and son Pierce continued to operate the sugar plantations.

Anna Butler spent a year in Washington, D.C., at the White House where she met foreign dignitaries and politicians, and she attended congressional sessions where she heard debates on the major issues of the day, particularly states' rights, fugitive slaves, and abolition.

Edward Butler and Thomas Butler's grandsons, Thomas Butler and James P. Butler, served in the Confederate States of America army as officers, the latter under Braxton Bragg in the Gulf Coast states and in Vicksburg, Mississippi.

Description of the Collection

The Butler Family Papers consist of correspondence, legal papers, manuscript writings, financial papers, printed items, records, and photographs that chronicle the lives of the Butler family members from their arrival in Mississippi and Louisiana in 1809 through the mid-twentieth century.

Early documents such as depositions, legal papers, and correspondence pertain primarily to the political and judicial career of Thomas Butler, a congressional representative, an attorney, and a judge. Highlights of the early material include correspondence from Jacques Villere, William C. C. Claiborne, and Henry Clay and a Spanish land grant and proclamation signed by Carondelet.

Other antebellum material, family and business correspondence, records, and financial papers, reflects social life and customs and the economics of the planter and slave-owning class. Records include slave lists and a deposition on the health of a slave. Financial papers consist of accounts, receipts, bills, and acts of sale for both land and slaves. Correspondence relates primarily to family news and plantation business. One letter from a slave owner to a slave woman whom he had sold reflects the relationship between owner and slave and the breaking up of families in slave sales.

Letters written by Anna Butler to her family between 1849 and 1850 discuss life at the White House, where she lived during Zachary Taylor's administration. She attended congressional sessions, and in her letters to family members she comments on the debates raging in both houses as well as the major political personalities.

Civil War letters from Confederate officers to Butler family members provide personal narratives of the war on the Gulf Coast, in Vicksburg, Mississippi, and in Tennessee. One Butler served under General Braxton Bragg. Bragg and his wife were family friends, and several letters by the Braggs are in the collection.

Later nineteenth- and twentieth-century material originated largely from Louise Butler, descendant of the planters, and consists of printed religious items from the Episcopal Church, financial material concerning inheritances, estates, and investments, and correspondence from notable persons, including Grace King, Cammie Henry, Francois Mignon, Lyle Saxon, and Constance Rourke. Another significant correspondent is relative Gervase Butler, who wrote letters while fighting in the Second World War in North Africa.

Photographs in the collection depict various Butler family members, including Judge Thomas Butler, and properties owned by the family.
