INTRODUCTION

“In war, truth is the first casualty.”
—Aeschylus

Because the American public prided itself on its humanity during war, the My Lai incident was a particularly painful part of the conflict in Vietnam. My Lai was a small rural subhamlet of about seven hundred people located in the Tu Cung hamlet of Son My Village in Quang Ngai Province, situated on the northeast coast of South Vietnam. It was believed to be one of the toughest Viet Cong strongholds in the area. In the spring of 1967, search and destroy operations, led by Task Force (TF) OREGON, began in Quang Ngai Province. (Task forces were temporary amalgamations of various units under a specific commander and the task force was usually named after the commander.) In September 1967, the newly created AMERICAL Division went to relieve TF OREGON, continuing the mission to eradicate communist influence in the region. In December, C Company, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry, led by Captain Ernest L. Medina, went in to assist the operation under the control of TF BARKER. Because of continual attacks by unseen enemies, the duty inspired questionable judgment and intensified emotions on the part of American troops. They had seen comrades killed and maimed by mines, bombs, and booby traps with the perpetrators melting into Vietnamese village life. The virtual impossibility of differentiating between Vietnamese peasants and Viet Cong guerrillas led, at the bare minimum, to a contempt for all Vietnamese people. It also provided the backdrop for the incident at My Lai.

On the morning of March 16, 1968, a short artillery barrage fell on My Lai(4) to “soften” it up for the sweep to be made by C Company. (There were four villages within a short distance of each other, all called My Lai, and the U.S. military added numbers to distinguish among them.) Lieutenant William Calley and his 1st Platoon boarded helicopters and landed on an airstrip 150 meters west of My Lai(4). Following this, the 2d and 3d Platoons arrived, led by Lieutenant Stephen Brooks and Lieutenant Jeffrey La Crosse. A plan was formulated by TF BARKER, calling for Calley’s 1st Platoon to approach the subhamlet from the north. La Crosse’s 3d Platoon, accompanied by the company commander, Captain Medina, would stay behind at the airstrip to establish communication with headquarters and direct operations. Additional protection for U.S. troops was afforded by helicopter gunships circling My Lai(4) at 1,000 feet. Upon entering the subhamlet neither platoon met with enemy fire. Calley ordered his men to round up all of the civilians to the center of the hamlet. At this point accounts of the incident begin to differ. Either Calley opened fire or was fired upon, in which case his men did the same—into the civilians.

Calley's platoon moved through the village, systematically shooting anything that moved. With all of the villagers in the hamlet's center, anyone hiding was thought to be the elusive Viet Cong. The body count was estimated at four to five hundred, but Calley was eventually charged with the deaths of 122. One man who shot himself in the foot was the only American casualty. Radio messages were sent back and forth among combat pilots and crewmen flying over My Lai(4). These were monitored by high-ranking officers such as Major General S. W. Koster and Colonel Oran K. Henderson during the course of the morning, and yet no senior officer intervened in the alleged firefight or massacre. A report filed two weeks later referred to the attack as "well planned, well executed, and successful."

The My Lai incident was successfully "swept under the rug" until Ronald L. Ridenhour wrote a letter in March 1969 to President Richard M. Nixon and a number of congressmen and Defense Department officials. The letter prompted an investigation and the indictment of twelve officers and enlisted men on charges, either of murder or of assault with intent to commit murder. Lieutenant William Calley was found guilty of murder while all the others were either acquitted or had charges dismissed.

While the actual events of March 16, 1968, may never be completely clear, the incident at My Lai(4) represents a landmark in American history for two reasons. First, such atrocities have traditionally been committed by countries considered uncivilized and barbaric—categories Americans did not see themselves fitting. Second, in broader and more encompassing terms, My Lai reveals the nature of the war as it was fought by eighteen-year-old boys—lonely, scared, and vengeful, armed with automatic weapons.

Peers Inquiry

On November 26, 1969, the Secretary of the Army and the Army Chief of Staff issued a joint memorandum directing Lieutenant General William R. Peers to explore the nature and scope of the original Army investigations of what occurred on March 16, 1968, in Son My Village, particularly at My Lai(4); to determine the adequacy of such investigations or inquiries and subsequent reviews and reports within the chain of command; and whether any suppression or withholding of information by persons involved in the incident had taken place.

The same memorandum specified that the inquiry would be concerned with the time period beginning March 1968 and continuing until the receipt by the Secretary of Defense and others of information concerning the incident in the Ridenhour letter of March 29, 1969. It was further provided that the inquiry would neither include nor interfere with the criminal investigations in progress. Bland West, assistant general counsel of the Army, was named as General Peers' deputy for purposes of the inquiry.

The primary focus of the Peers Inquiry was on the subsequent reports and investigations of the My Lai incident rather than on the incident itself; however, it became apparent at an early stage that the adequacy of those reports and investigations could not be evaluated intelligently without a thorough understanding of what actually took place during TF BARKER's operations in the Son My area on March 16-19, 1968. Additionally, knowledge of operational facts, including those relating to the commission of atrocities, was essential to determining whether there had been any subsequent suppression or withholding of information by persons having a duty to report. For these reasons, the scope of the inquiry included a complete examination into the operational situation throughout TF BARKER's area of operations during March 16-19, 1968, together with an exploration of the facts relating to atrocities committed in the course of such operations. The latter aspect was pursued in sufficient depth to determine the substantive facts concerning such atrocities, but no direct effort was made to establish the criminal liability of particular individuals for possible violations of criminal statutes or the law of war. The Office of the Provost Marshal General of the Army assumed responsibility for investigation of these possible violations in July 1969 and for certain testimony and other evidence developed in the course of that investigation that were made available and incorporated into the record of the Peers Inquiry.

On November 30, 1969, General Peers informed the Army Chief of Staff and Secretary of the Army that he intended to proceed by reviewing the facts then available for background information; collecting pertinent official records of units in Vietnam; locating and interrogating all witnesses known or determined to have information bearing on the incident; and preparing a report on the results of the investigation, including appropriate findings and recommendations.

On that same date, General Peers also recommended that a distinguished lawyer be made available to the investigative team in order to promote public recognition and acceptance of the objectivity of the Inquiry and to enhance its effectiveness. In response to this request, the Secretary of the Army obtained the services of Robert MacCrate, a partner in the New York law firm of Sullivan & Cromwell and a vice president of both the New York State Bar Association and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, who agreed to serve as special counsel. Jerome K. Walsh Jr., of the New York law firm of Walsh & Frisch, was appointed associate special counsel.

An investigating team of Department of the Army personnel, including field-grade officers having extensive experience in battalion-size combat operations in Vietnam and administrative and support personnel, was assembled to assist General Peers. Support from appropriate military commands with instructions to provide requisite assistance was mandated in a November 30 memorandum. Points of contact were established with Headquarters, III Marine Amphibious Force; Headquarters, USMC, Washington, Office of the Adjutant General; and Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff for Intelligence. On December 9, 1969, the inquiry was officially designated as "The Department of the Army Review of the Preliminary Investigations into the My Lai Incident" and was given the short title of "The Peers Inquiry."

The first phase began at the Pentagon on December 2, 1969, with the taking of testimony from witnesses and the collection and review of documentary evidence. Interrogation of witnesses proceeded on a six-day-per-week basis, and by December 24, thirty-nine witnesses had given testimony, some of them on more than one occasion. Simultaneously, the investigative team was assembling and studying numerous directives, orders, logs, reports, maps, photographs, and other evidentiary materials bearing upon the subject under review.

On December 13, two officers departed for Vietnam to provide the team with in-country representation and to complete arrangements for the Vietnam phase of the inquiry. General Peers, the civilian special counsel, and other members of the investigating team departed for Vietnam on December 26. Other members of the team, under the direction of General Peers' deputy, Bland West, continued to examine additional witnesses at the Pentagon during the period General Peers was in Vietnam.

The Vietnam phase, which continued from December 28, 1969, until January 8, 1970, involved the taking of testimony from or interviews with key personnel throughout the U.S. military chain of command, American civilian personnel, officials of the Government of Vietnam (GVN), Army of the Republic of Vietnam (ARVN) officers and enlisted personnel, and Vietnamese civilians residing in the Son My Village area. Documents considered relevant to the inquiry were obtained from various headquarters, including U.S. Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV); U.S. Army, Vietnam (USARV); III Marine Amphibious Force (III MAF); AMERICAL Division; and the 11th Infantry Brigade. Further documentation was made available to the team by various GVN officials and ARVN headquarters. General Peers, the civilian special counsel, and other members of the investigative team made an on-site inspection of the significant areas within Son My Village, and other such areas were closely inspected by General Peers at very low altitude utilizing an OH-6, a small observation-type helicopter. Two members of the investigating team remained in Vietnam to continue assembling documents and to obtain further information from in-country witnesses as developments indicated the need.

The third phase of the inquiry began with the return of General Peers and his party to Washington on January 8, 1970. During his absence, the portion of the team working under Deputy West in Washington had interrogated forty-one additional witnesses. In order to enable the investigative team to interrogate every person who might reasonably be expected to have useful information without unduly delaying completion of the inquiry, General Peers established three interrogation teams to take testimony concurrently. This procedure made it possible to interrogate a total of 399 witnesses, some of them on several different occasions, and complete the taking of testimony by March 7, 1970.

Editing, reviewing, and summarizing the transcripts of testimony, preparation of exhibits, analysis of the issues and evidence, and drafting portions of the report were carried forward by other members of the investigative team concurrently with the taking of testimony. Consequently, upon the completion of the hearings in early March and despite the vast volume of assembled evidence, General Peers was in a position to complete his review and analysis of the evidence.

On March 17, 1970, General Peers presented his report to the Secretary of the Army and Army Chief of Staff. The report accused fourteen officers of suppression of information relating to the My Lai Incident. Charges included dereliction of duty, failure to obey regulations, and false swearing. The report stated that each successive level of command received a more watered-down account of what actually occurred at My Lai(4); the higher in the chain of command the report went, the lower was the estimate of civilians allegedly killed. AMERICAL Division headquarters, where accounts of the incident stopped, received information that only twenty to twenty-eight civilians had been killed. The Peers Inquiry, however, found that C Company had committed individual and group acts of murder and mayhem "that took the lives of a large number of civilians" and concluded that "a tragedy of major proportions had occurred at Son My."

SCOPE AND CONTENT NOTE

The records comprising this micropublication are subdivided into four groupings or volumes. Two of the volumes, Volumes II and III, are further subdivided into “books” (e.g., Volume II, Book 24). Volume I consists of the investigative report. Volume II consists of transcripts of testimony, subdivided into thirty-one books. Volume III comprises the supporting documents entered into the inquiry record as exhibits. These include directives, operational/after-action reports, maps, overlays, sketches and drawings, statements, photographs, and administrative documents. Volume IV consists of statements collected by the U.S. Army’s Criminal Investigation Division during its investigation of My Lai and the case against Lieutenant Calley and other officers. This volume consists of only those relevant to the Peers Inquiry. These include statements from personnel in AMERICAL Division, 123d Aviation Battalion, 174th Aviation Company, 11th Infantry Brigade, C Company, 1st Battalion, Task Force BARKER, Vietnamese witnesses, and American civilian and non-Vietnamese witnesses.

This collection provides the researcher, student, and academician with the documentation necessary to explore the nature and scope of the original Army investigation of the My Lai Incident. This publication will go far in refuting the findings of the original investigation, which had concluded that “no massacre has occurred and that no further action is warranted.”

NOTE ON SOURCES

The documents reproduced in this publication are among the holdings of the Library of the Judge Advocate General's School, U.S. Army, Charlottesville, Virginia.

EDITORIAL NOTE

This microfilm consists of the formerly classified investigative material compiled by the Peers Inquiry. This compilation consists of Volumes I–IV. These volumes (and, where applicable, “Book” subparts) have been filmed in their entirety. The text of Volume II, Books 1–33, consists of actual full-text testimony, including the names of witnesses. UPA has not microfilmed the heavily sanitized and name-coded edition of Volume II presented to the public in 1975. There are eleven pages throughout Books 1–31 that have not been declassified. These pages consist of “highly sensitive information that cannot be opened at this time.” Therefore, they remain classified and unavailable. Volume IV consists of the U.S. Army Criminal Investigation Division's statements. The names of the interviewees have been deleted due to privacy considerations, and a name code has been used. UPA has located no key to the name code for this volume. UPA has included all photographs, sketches and drawings, and aerial surveys used by the Peers Inquiry.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

UPA would like to acknowledge the assistance and cooperation of the Judge Advocate General's School Library in Charlottesville, Virginia. Mr. Daniel Lavering and staff were most helpful and cooperative in providing the support necessary for the completion of this project. Mr. Lavering's efforts are greatly appreciated.

REEL INDEX

Entries in this index refer to specific volumes and their contents within this micropublication. This micropublication is arranged by volume and, where applicable, further subdivided into "Books." Volumes II and III consist of "Books" of testimony and exhibits. The Volume II "Books" consist of transcripts of testimony of witnesses appearing before the Inquiry and are subdivided by command organization (for example, Company C, 1st Battalion, 20th Infantry, 11th Infantry Brigade, AMERICAL Division). This index provides the name of the witness and rank; position/job description; and service period in South Vietnam (in some cases only specific to the period of the Peers Inquiry). The final entries consist of the date of the testimony and the total number of frames for each item (more than one page has been filmed on a single frame). The attributes, rank and position/job description, reflect the time period of the My Lai Incident, but in a few cases the subsequent investigation period is denoted. The four-digit number on the far left is the frame number at which a particular item begins. The researcher is referred to the list of acronyms and abbreviations immediately preceding this index. Bracketed information has been added to further clarify and/or enhance the description of a particular item.
