FOREWORD

All species carry their history in their genes. In recent years, we have learned how much history is carried that way, for humans as well as for fruit flies. But humans transmit their history in words and images as well as DNA. If humans are distinguished from other creatures by their ability to reason and use language, and if human civilization is distinguished by the ability of humans to record their language in written form, then libraries which maintain that written record are repositories of that which is essential to humanity and civilization.

Good libraries are inclusive. They maintain a record of the highest reflective thoughts and expressions of philosophers, of scientists, of poets. They maintain a record of the affairs of nations, the rise and fall of civilizations. They maintain a record of the daily lives of people. And much more.

The Harvard Library has been maintaining that record for over three and a half centuries. Some of the record is in primary sources. The Harvard Library has massive holdings of the actual manuscripts and records of those who made history—whether that be history made on the world stage, in the study of a scholar, or in the household of ordinary people. A good deal of the record is secondary—the writings of historians and others about every subject one can imagine.

Some of that record is in old and rare books and manuscripts carefully kept in special libraries, much of it is in more recent publications easily available to readers for browsing and borrowing, more and more of it comes in electronic form. The Library constantly evolves. But unlike changing technologies in other fields, the old is never replaced by the new—the new is added to the old.

The present work is a history of the Harvard Library. It is emblematic of the varied nature of the Library. It is a primary history recorded in the actual working documents of the institution. These documents are unique, in many cases old and fragile, and scattered in many places. This work converts these documents to a usable and accessible form—and a stable form that will preserve an historical record that otherwise may deteriorate.

As a history of a library, it is a history of our history. As the history of the Harvard Library, it records how that historical record has been gathered and maintained since the earliest days of settlement in America. The Harvard Library began collecting three hundred and fifty years ago—almost a century and a half before the creation of the United States. It continues collecting to this day. We hope this record, compiled by Kenneth Carpenter, will serve scholars as long.

PREFACE

No full-scale history of the first 350 years of the Harvard Library has ever been written, although William Bentinck-Smith, formerly assistant to Harvard president Nathan Marsh Pusey, admirably covered the Coolidge years, roughly the first three decades of the twentieth century.<sup>1</sup> Harvard is not unique in lacking a comprehensive history. They also do not exist for the other great university libraries along the Atlantic seaboard, a fact suggesting that the absence of a Harvard history is neither a fluke, nor a sign of the complexity of the institution, nor an indication of the difficulty of identifying the sources.

The absence of histories of academic libraries is relative, for public libraries have been better covered. This is documented by the bibliography that records what has been done: Michael H. Harris and Donald G. Davis, Jr., American Library History, a Bibliography (Austin and London: University of Texas Press, 1978). Indeed, the authors (p. 58) make the point explicitly: "American public libraries have drawn more attention from historians than any other aspect of American library history." Among the works they cite as particularly good are histories of the New York Public Library, the Enoch Pratt Free Library in Baltimore, and the Boston Public Library. In contrast, Harris and Davis do not cite a list of particularly good histories of academic libraries. Moreover, they note (p. 99) that "the significant historical literature pertaining to America's academic libraries consists primarily of research originally undertaken in doctoral study [in library schools]."

That there has been little solid work on academic libraries, that this contrasts with what has been done on public libraries, and that the gap is being met by students in library schools—all these observations are unexpected, particularly since the great academic libraries exist in a research environment and employ numerous individuals capable of writing a history of their institution's library. The scholar-librarian does flourish, as the Exhibition Catalogue Awards Program of the Rare Books and Manuscripts Section of the Association of College and Research Libraries demonstrates, but the scholar-librarian has not turned to the history of the institution closest to hand.

The explanation for the relative absence of full-scale, significant histories of academic libraries must lie in part in the symbolic association of the public library with democracy and in part in the fact that the public library is an independent institution. To write a history of a public library is to write a readily perceivable part of the history of American democracy. Academic libraries are, in contrast, precisely that—academic. Yet, even if the tale of the academic library is not generally perceived to be as stirring as that of the public library, the academic library is equally capable of eliciting great affection from those who spend their lives in one. Librarians even give and bequeath money, and that shows where the heart is. So an explanation of the gap between the number of academic library histories and public library histories must rest elsewhere than in the relative importance of one or the other type of institution.

It must lie somewhere in the values of those who are scholar-librarians working in academic libraries, who love the libraries, but still do not write about them. In part it may be that the academic librarian is particularly aware of what professional historians value and, by virtue of being in an academic institution, more influenced by what historians value: traditional institutional history that tells a story chronologically and with a sense of inevitability is not what the professional historian looks for.

Also implicated in the relative absence of histories of academic libraries may be the hyphenated appellation of "scholar-librarian," a term that implies divided aspirations and loyalties. Which of the two is foremost, the scholar or the librarian? The very order of the two nouns indicates priority for the scholar. Moreover, observation, even if not backed up by a scientific attitudinal survey, also suggests that many individuals working in libraries would rather see themselves as scholars than as librarians. That has implications for the kind of scholarly work scholar-librarians do, since they, like all scholars, do not randomly choose the topics and methodology of their research. Thus, if to work on the history of one's library is to reverse the order of the two nouns and to identify oneself as a librarian-scholar, the result can only be to turn many individuals away from the task of doing library history.

If the scholar-librarian does turn to library history, the emphasis tends to be on the collections. The recent volumes devoted to the history of the Cambridge University Library are excellent examples of this.<sup>2</sup> They admirably trace the development of the collections by referral to specific books and manuscripts. Both cover other aspects of the library's history, but the emphasis is on the books. In that, as J. C. T. Oates points out in his preface, they are following the advice of the man whom many would consider the pre-eminent American scholar-librarian of this century, the late William A. Jackson of the Houghton Library at Harvard. When asked by Oates for advice, Jackson said that he wanted "a history which would tell him when, why, whence, and in what manner every important manuscript or printed book had entered our collections and what scholarly use had been made of each since." Such advice is that of the scholar-librarian, not the librarian-scholar. The librarian-scholar would emphasize the struggles inherent in the transformation of an institution, and, indeed, the librarian-scholar might well take great pride in identifying with an institution that has been able to expand in collections and services to scholars only because those working in it have repeatedly and effectively met the challenges brought about by growth and new environments.

If the above explanation is correct, one can be encouraged about the future of college and university library history, for all kinds of library history are increasingly coming within the domain of the scholarly. The history of the book in its many ramifications is now considered to be important by professional historians. In effect, the perception of what is of scholarly interest has expanded and is giving to everything relating to the topic of books and reading somewhat greater significance. To be sure, the history of libraries is not a major concern of the most prominent historians of the book, but two recent events suggest concretely a changing perception of library history. One of the events is the October 1987 conference on Libraries and Scholarly Communication in the United States: The Historical Dimension sponsored by the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress and Columbia University's School of Library Service. Another event is the renaming of the Journal of Library History; it is now Libraries & Culture.

This concern for the interaction between libraries and the society, in addition to reflecting the heightened sense of the importance of libraries, perhaps indicates as well a maturing of the field. The history of business history may be instructive. It began as the history of companies and proceeded on the assumption that once enough company histories had been written a synthesis would emerge. When it became clear that no number of business histories would produce a history of business, focus changed to business and society, and conceptual and comparative work has become more common. Company histories continue, of course, to be written, as do biographies of businessmen.

Library history is also going to change; inevitably it is going to become ever less positivistic and ever more a field in which one begins a project by formulating questions. Histories of libraries will be needed by those who seek the answers, and so will collections of documents to which one can turn with one's own questions. This project has aimed to provide such materials. It is not directed at someone who wishes to write a history of the Harvard Library but at those who wish to use the Harvard experience in writing the history of another library or in writing on a topic that cuts across individual libraries and addresses libraries' influences upon and reflection of broader issues of intellectual history.

Crucial to this end is as complete a series as possible of those documents that were issued year after year or of minutes produced on an ongoing basis. It is believed that through this microfiche collection for the first time the researcher, even one on the spot, has access to certain fundamental documents; annual reports of the Librarians (1818, 1822, and continuously since 1831/32), reports of the Overseers' Visiting Committees (1766 to 1970), reports of the Presidents (1825/26 to 1967/68), reports of the Treasurers (1824 to 1940/41), and minutes of the Library Committee or Council (1859 to 1948). The reports of Librarians and of Visiting Committees are shelved in different places, some with Library archives, some in minute books of the Overseers, some as separate documents bound up together with other material of the Overseers, others with the College papers, a few even in the office of the Librarian of Harvard College. The difficulty of finding related material is inherent in the process of archival research, and only microfiche makes possible a series in one location. (It is, of course, entirely possible that some other reports will be found after publication of this microfiche collection. Users should also note that the reports in bound volumes may not always be entirely legible, and even in the originals, text is sometimes lost in the gutters. The decision to film was based on the belief that sufficient text will be legible to enable the researcher to determine whether the original must be consulted. Because some users will wish to consult the originals, the call number is provided for most manuscripts and other documents that otherwise could be hard to find.)

These documents in series, along with being important for the factual information in them, are especially valuable for what they record about perceptions of libraries from many different perspectives. Here is an aspect of American intellectual and institutional life that has been written about year in and year out by the individual directing the institution (the Librarian), by the individual heading the larger institution of which it is a part (the President of the University), by individuals whom the institution served (the faculty members making up the Library Committee or Council), and by interested individuals not connected professionally with the institution (members of the Overseers' Visiting Committee). Although not every topic is considered from every point of view, few other American institutions can have documents that reveal perceptions from different vantage points over so long a period.

The Harvard Library's decentralization has affected this project, for surprisingly few documents of faculty libraries or departmental libraries are available in the Archives in series extending over decades. From around the middle of the nineteenth century there are some reports from librarians of the law library and the theological library, but these exist in the Archives only because they are among the documents forwarded by the Visiting Committee to the Board of Overseers. (They may exist after this date in another form, but it was beyond the scope of this project to do for each faculty library, or College library, or department, what was done for the central library, i.e. to search not only the library records retained by the institution or department, but also the papers of governing bodies and officers.)

Even documents from departments within the central library are not well covered. One exception is the Records of the Cataloguing Department (Microfiche No. 8-1-22) from 1881 to 1939 consisting of annual reports and other documents—and these are not in the University Archives. Because they provide background on current matters (enhanced by an index which makes access possible), these have been shelved outside the office of the Associate Librarian of Harvard College for Cataloging and Processing in order to be readily available. Similar records for other departments of the central collections apparently do not exist, but researchers interested in any aspect of the Library from 1881 to 1939 should consult those of the Cataloguing Department, for they also contain much information on such topics as acquisitions and public services.

The documents outside a series have also been selected with a view to their wider utility. The policy was to include almost everything before the 1820s except notes such as letters of appointment. Because the documentation before then is so skimpy (almost certainly little was generated), all documents have value. Thus, one will not have a statement of collection development policy, but a list of books purchased at the auction of the library of Justice Theophilus Parsons in 1814 shows the decision-making that took place in an era in which the Library's purchases were opportunistic; such a document might also interest the researcher working on the holdings of legal books in the United States or on the book-buying habits of lawyers.

An exception to the practice of generally including everything before the 1820s is the Library's charging records, which are virtually complete up to 1897. Enough only have been filmed to enable other libraries to compare Harvard's records with ones that they might have or to enable a researcher to gauge the utility of the source. (Numerous volumes of charging records also exist among the materials of the undergraduate student societies.) To have filmed all these records would have greatly increased the price to purchasers, and, in any case, microfilm might not be the most useful medium of disseminating these records in their entirety. Perhaps only computerization can make this extraordinary resource useful to researchers. For much the same reason, not all the various catalogs and shelflists have been filmed.

After the 1820s, selection focuses on documents about the library system as a whole. Thus materials dealing with numerous departmental libraries are found on Microfiche Nos. 11-1-1 through 11-1-4, but those devoted to one only have been omitted. The user will sometimes regret that comparable records from different periods have not been reproduced; in most cases the reason is that the editor was not able to find others.

Documents on the state of the Library in general or on some aspect of it at a given time, as opposed to documents produced in the normal course of events, have been favored for inclusion. An example is a survey of the Library by two Harvard Business School students in 1914 (Microfiche No. 8-1-26) and a memo from T. Franklin Currier on "the major problems of the department under my charge [cataloging]" in 1932 (Microfiche No. 8-1-27). These documents give information on other major university and public libraries; and although they would have been included in any case, their relevance to other libraries made them especially desirable inclusions.

Some documents, such as those of the student society libraries, are included in an effort to make clear the existence of an institution that helped shape the central library. A glance at the catalogs of these libraries shows that without those libraries the demands on the Library with respect to acquisitions and services would have been much greater. It may be no coincidence that the last catalog of the library of an undergraduate society was published in 1877, the year that the Harvard Library, under the direction of its new Librarian, Justin Winsor, began to be turned into a workshop.

Some material has been reproduced because it deals with an interesting problem, but one difficult to research. One example is a letter about a French bookseller who in 1836 was trying to obtain business in this country (Microfiche No. 7-1-15). The existence of such agents is today an important part of the infrastructure that makes international collections possible. It makes the history of agents a topic worthy of study, though its roots would be hard to trace. Another example is two documents about a photostat service in 1919 and 1920 (Microfiche Nos. 9-4-5 & 9-4-7). These and many other documents included here could not have been found by hunting for them, or at least, without great luck, they could not have been found without turning thousands of pages.

The documents about a photostat service also illustrate a major problem in putting together such a collection: nothing is included about the more recent history of photoduplication at Harvard, not even from the papers of Keyes Metcalf, who was very much interested in the matter. This is typical. The closer to the present one comes, or the further away from the beginnings of an activity one gets, the more the history is revealed not by "documents" but by thick folders of memos and correspondence, each of which becomes intelligible only in context.

Even for the nineteenth century, behind each document reproduced are many that were omitted. In fact, out of 108 volumes of bound-up letters between 1826 and 1914 (identified as Harvard College Library letters) only a few were included. No inventory of them exists. Scattered throughout the College Papers volumes are letters on the Library. These can be identified only by going through the index to each volume. Minutes of meetings of the Harvard Corporation and the Overseers have, with only rare exceptions, been included. In addition to the papers of twentieth-century librarians, numerous documents in the University Archives (UA III and HUF classes) have not been reproduced. Shelflists can help users find the relevant document or category of documents.

For some purposes, additional research at Harvard will be necessary, but the goal has been to make available the documents that others elsewhere will most need. And the need for material on the history of the Harvard Library—and on the history of other libraries—will surely increase. As library history goes through other stages and becomes more sophisticated, so will the demands placed on the scholar-librarian, as well as on others, who turn to library history, even to the history of one institution. Analysis will become ever more important, which means that it will become necessary to draw on the experience of other institutions or on studies that cut across institutions. The documents in this microfiche collection should become part of the source materials drawn on by scholar-librarians and others who perceive the importance of the task.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The compiler of any such work as this accumulates a sizable debt of gratitude to many individuals, but above all to the staff of the University Archives. They are eager to further use of the Archives' rich resources, which they feel are underutilized. This publication is a step toward that aim, and the University Archivist, Harley Holden, has always supported it and has given me the access to the Archives that has made it possible. Among the staff of the Archives, I am especially grateful to Kathleen A. Markees, Curatorial Associate, who was responsible for supplying the camera and dealing with problems. The task was complex. The material filmed in this collection is not a group of books tidily shelved together. They come from many different places in the Archives. Perhaps only a few pages from a bound volume of manuscripts needed to be filmed. Perhaps the volume was needed for filming at different places in the collection. Moreover, documents in an archive do not necessarily have identifiable titles. In short, the problems involved in matching documents to the inventory and in getting them under the camera in proper order were enormous, and this project cost Kathleen Markees more time than I would wish.

Both Carol Ishimoto, Associate Librarian of Harvard College for Cataloging and Processing, and Y. T. Feng, Roy E. Larsen Librarian of Harvard College, Emeritus, permitted reproduction of materials that are in their care and not in the Archives. I am also grateful to Y. T. Feng for her comments on an earlier version of the guide to the microfiche collection. Similarly, Edwin E. Williams, intimately involved with much of the history of the last fifty years and knowledgeable about that of the earlier 300 years, also read through a version of the guide with great care, and the project profited from a number of his suggestions.

Oscar Handlin's affirmation of the desirability of reproducing the documents of Harvard Library history has been most reassuring. For Sidney Verba's ongoing support of my efforts in Harvard Library history and of this project in particular I am most grateful. I am also grateful to Douglas W. Bryant, Librarian of Harvard University Library, Emeritus, and Professor of Bibliography, for making documents available.

A number of other acknowledgments, to Robin McElheny and Francis L. Miksa, among others, are made in the appropriate places in the text of the guide.

NOTE FROM THE PUBLISHER

University Publications of America (UPA) is grateful to Mr. Kenneth E. Carpenter, Assistant Director for Research Resources of the Harvard University Library for suggesting this project, selecting and organizing the materials included, and writing the prefatory essay and annotated reference bibliography. We would also like to thank Dr. Harley P. Holden, Curator of the Harvard University Archives, for making available the material which forms the core of the microfiche collection. UPA is grateful to Ms. Kathleen Markees at the University Archives for her help throughout this project.

The reference bibliography contains fourteen sections, each with an introduction. Within each section, the items are listed chronologically. Two indexes have been compiled. The first contains author names, other personal names and proper nouns, and a few select subject terms followed by item title and microfiche number. The microfiche number may be used for finding the appropriate entry in this finding aid and for locating the item in the microfiche collection.

Call numbers have been included for all manuscripts, monographs, books and documents from the Harvard University Archives.

I. General Works On The Library And Its History

The entries below list the works on the Library contained in this microfiche collection. A few works were omitted because they are generally available. Notable among these are William Bentinck-Smith, Building a Great Library: The Coolidge Years at Harvard (Cambridge, 1976) and Kenneth E. Carpenter, The First 350 Years of the Harvard University Library (Cambridge, 1986), which was written for an exhibition on the history of the Library and provides an overview. The pages of the Harvard Library Bulletin also contain numerous articles devoted to the history of the Library plus many other articles that have acquired historical significance through the passage of time. No HLB articles have been reproduced here.

For other printed material that has not been reproduced one should consult the Harvard Library Bulletin's lists of new books and articles of which the Library is the author, publisher, or subject. Elizabeth Poole's "Concerning the Library, March 1919-October 1939," Harvard

Library Notes, no. 30 (March 1940), 344-348, provides a list of publications on the Library during the interbellum years. A list covering the earlier period can be found in Alfred Claghorn Potter, The Library of Harvard University, 3d ed. (1915). For a guide to writings about the collections, see William V. Jackson, Library Resources of Harvard University: A Bibliographical Guide (1986).

In the University Archives, the basic collection on the library is the group of material whose call numbers begin with UA III.50. There is, however, much relevant material in other parts of the Archives. In fact, due to the decentralized nature of the Harvard University Library many of the sources are in faculty libraries. These have not been drawn on for this microfiche project, which focuses on the central collection and on the library system overall, with the inclusion of only a few of the most important documents on faculty libraries.

The Harvard copy identifies Kirkland as the author in pencil, an attribution also in Barr 68 (Larry J. Barr, Libraries in American Periodicals before 1876 [Jefferson, N. C., 1983]).

1-2-5: Letter to Governor Lincoln in Relation to Harvard University

Francis Calley Gray. Boston, Mass. 1831. 48 p.

Pp. 16-20 are devoted to the Library and are among the earliest documents attempting to justify expenditures on the Library. Gray was at the time a member of the Corporation and a senator in the Massachusetts legislature.

1-2-6: Report of Committee on the Petition of the President and Fellows of Harvard College

1832. 15 + 1 p.

At head of title: Senate. No. 14. This document from the Senate of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts contains on pp. [3]-6 the petition of the President and Fellows asking for funds for a "fire-proof building for the Library," and on pp. [7]-15 the report of the Committee.

1-2-7: Considerations Relative to the Library of Harvard University, Respectfully Submitted to the Legislature of Massachusetts

Josiah Quincy. Cambridge: Charles Folsom, Printer to the University. 1833. 16 p.

This appeal to the Massachusetts legislature for a grant to enable Harvard to erect a new library building is also a statement on the importance of libraries. Its author was president of the University.

II. Annual Reports Of The Librarian

Two basic types of reports exist: 1) From the librarian to the President and Fellows of Harvard College, i.e., the Harvard Corporation; to the President alone; to the Provost; or to the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences; and 2) From the librarian to the Visiting Committee of the Board of Overseers. Those to the Overseers are listed under Reports of the Visiting Committee, for they often were considered to be a part of the Committee's report, with the exception of the years 1863/64 to 1876/77.

Although reports were made in 1818 and 1822, the unbroken series began in 1831/32, with a report to the president. Earlier, in its report for the year 1831, dated 12 January 1832, the Visiting Committee of the Board of Overseers asked the librarian to prepare a report before the next meeting. None has been found for the following year; only the report to the president, dated 5 September 1832. Beginning in 1833, reports to both President and Visiting Committee exist - up to the year 1840/41. At that point reports to the President seemed to cease, and only those to the Visiting Committee were made, up to the end of Sibley's tenure in 1876/77. Thereafter, the major report has been to the President, Provost, or Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Written communication with the Visiting Committee did, of course, continue, but not as a series and rarely have documents been found.

2-1-1: 1818 Report of the librarian to the Corporation, 4 November 1818
Andrews Norton. 16 p. UA III.50.5.

It is a "statement respecting the deficiencies of the Library."

2-1-2: 1822 Report of the librarian to the Corporation, 4 November 1822
Joseph G. Cogswell. 13 + 1 p. UA III.50.5.

On the arrangement of the Library.

2-1-3: 1831/32 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 5 September 1832
Thaddeus William Harris. 7 p. UA I.5.125, vol. V, ll. 194-197.

Related to this report are the following: Letter from Harris to President Quincy, 19 October 1832, containing further explanation of "some statements in my report." 2 + 1 p. (UA I.5.125, vol. V, ll. 214-215); and Report from the "Committee, to whom was referred, at the last meeting, a communication from the Librarian," dated 15 November 1832 and signed Nathl. Bowditch and F. C. Gray, Committee. Among other things this Committee recommends that money be appropriated to take care of the deficiencies pointed out by the librarian and that the librarian be instructed to lay before "this Board" [i.e. the President and Fellows] annually "a report of his proceedings, & of the increase & condition of the library . . . with any suggestions for its improvement." 3 + 1 p. UA III.50.10.4VT

2-1-4: 1832/33 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 1 September 1833
Thaddeus William Harris. 4 p. UA I.5.125, vol. VI, ll. 41-42.

2-1-5: 1833/34 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 1 September 1834
Thaddeus William Harris. 2 + 1 p. UA I.5.125, vol. VI, ll. 232-233.

For the report to the Visiting Committee, dated 11 July 1834, see under Visiting Committee report for 1834. Also filmed is a substitute regulation respecting the degree of Bachelor of Laws.

2-1-6: 1834/35 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 15 July 1835, which contains in full the report to the Visiting Committee
Thaddeus William Harris. 4 p. UA I.5.125, vol. VII, ll. 124-125.

2-1-7: 1835/36 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 24 August 1836, which gives in full the report to the Visiting Committee, dated 15 July 1836

Thaddeus William Harris. 2 + 1 p., plus a 4-p. list of books missing at the annual examination and not yet recovered. UA I.5.125, vol. VIII, ll. 217-220.

2-1-9: 1837/38 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 13 September 1838
Thaddeus William Harris. 4 p. UA I.5.125, vol. IX, ll. 88-89.

Also contains, in quotes, the report of the librarian to the Visiting Committee.

1838/39. No report to the President and Fellows for 1838/39 has been found. For the draft Report of the Librarian (Thaddeus William Harris) to the Visiting Committee, see under Visiting Committee Report for 1839 (3-1-63 in this collection).

2-1-10: 1839/40 Report of the librarian to the President and Fellows, dated 29 August 1840
Thaddeus William Harris. 4 plus a ii p. list of books lost from the public library since 1837. UA I.5.125, vol. X, ll. 99-102.

Also contains, in quotes, the report of the librarian to the Visiting Committee.

From 1840/41 to 1863/64, the annual reports of the Librarian were addressed to the Visiting Committee. They were, moreover, kept with the Visiting Committee Reports. Reports for those years are recorded in the section of Visiting Committee Reports (3-1-65 to 3-1-88 in this collection).

III. Reports Of The Visiting Committee Of The Board Of Overseers

Throughout the eighteenth century the Visiting Committee (the name invariably used today) was a joint committee of the Overseers and the Corporation, as mandated by Law 21 quoted below. At some point around 1810 the Visiting Committee began to report exclusively to the Board of Overseers and has continued to do so to the present. A closer examination of the records might make it possible to determine the exact date of the change, but it may be that theory and practice diverged. The name of the Committee has also varied. Such terms as "inspect" and "examine" seem to have been used interchangeably, but there were some changes in the name that are significant. One reflects exclusive focus on the Library, for at some point in the 1850s the committee ceased to examine "the philosophical apparatus, &c." It seems that only major variations in the name were significant, for at times the report as submitted differs from the account in the bound Overseers' Records. In each case the name as given on the document is recorded, though not necessarily as an exact transcription.

It is possible that some reports have not been located, though it is clear that reports were not made every year. When the records show that a report was made, that fact is indicated, even if no report is available; see, for example, 3-1-10.

The reports are often in bound volumes, and sometimes they are bound tightly. Despite the loss of text, all reports have been filmed, for that way the user can at least determine whether it is necessary to consult the original. Because of the expected loss of text, unbound draft reports have sometimes been filmed. From 1903 the reports are printed; before that date only some from the 1850s and 1860s are printed. For them the place of printing and the date are given in italics.

3-1-1: 1766 Report of the Committee to Visit the Library, dated 7 October 1766 and signed James Bowdoin
Overseers' Records, II, 271-272.

The Committee was mandated by Law 21 of the Library Laws, which was adopted on 1 October 1765: "Every person of whatsoever rank or degree, shall return all his borrowed books, every year, by the last of June, & in the first week of July each book shall be taken down & carefully dusted. And on the Tuesday or Wednesday the next following, there shall be annually a Visitation of Inspection of the Library by a Committee of the Overseers & Corporation to be chosen for that purpose, at the semi-annual meeting in May, to make report at the next semi-annual meeting. And if there be any books, not then returned, or returned defaced, or abused by any others besides resident graduates & undergraduates, the Librarian shall inform this Committee thereof, with the names of the persons delinquent. And after this Inspection, no book shall be taken out of the Library till the Friday after commencement on which day, the gentlemen in the Instruction and Government of the College, & the Resident Graduates may take out books. The said Committee shall at the same time direct the Librarian in placing any books that may have come for the Library in the course of the preceding year; which till then shall remain in the custody of the President for the time being. The said Committee shall also determine whether any of them are such books as are not proper to be lent, & shall mark them accordingly."

IV. Statements About The Library From Annual Reports Of Harvard Presidents

The first annual report of a Harvard president was that for 1825/26 written by John T. Kirkland. It is believed that this section contains all significant comments on the Library in annual reports by Harvard presidents since that date.

4-1-1: 1825/26 P. 30 from report of John Thornton Kirkland

4-1-2: 1828/29 Pp. 12, 15-16 from report of Josiah Quincy

4-1-3: 1829/30 Pp. 7-8 from report of Josiah Quincy

4-1-4: 1830/31 Pp. 5-8 from report of Josiah Quincy

4-1-5: 1831/32 Pp. 4-6 from report of Josiah Quincy

4-1-6: 1832/33 Pp. 6-7 from report of Josiah Quincy

During the years between 1833/34 and 1844/45 there are no comments on the Library.

4-1-7: 1845/46 Pp. 8-10 from report of Edward Everett

4-1-8: 1846/47 Pp. 15-16 from report of Edward Everett

4-1-9: 1847/48 Pp. 17-18 from report of Edward Everett

V. Treasurer's Reports

The very first documents recorded in this section are not reports of the treasurer, but they extend the financial record back and hence are reproduced here. Users should note that there are other financial records listed in the section covering administrative, financial, and organizational questions. For several years after the series of presidential reports began, the report of the treasurer followed that of the president and was paged consecutively.

The reports of the Treasurer often contain more than statistics. During some of the early years the Treasurer also commented on the needs of the University. Until 1845/46 there was no separate section covering the Library. Thereafter, until 1940/41, the report of the Treasurer gave some details both of income and expenses. After that year, the report no longer gives a breakdown of expenses, though it does tell much about those monies available through endowed funds and through gifts. The reports up to 1845/46, even though the Library has not been broken out, are reproduced virtually in full.

The list below – and the microfiche – do not cover every mention of the Library in the financial reports. They focus on income and expense figures. Notices of major gifts are generally omitted on the grounds that they are most likely covered elsewhere. The sections covering endowed funds, gifts for capital, and gifts for current use have also been omitted, despite their utility for some purposes.

VI. Administrative, Financial, And Organizational Questions

This section begins with the official minutes of the Library Committee or Library Council from its start in 1859 up to 1948. The other items are basic "constitutional" or financial or planning documents. For an overview of the Library's organizational structure, see Edwin E. Williams, "The Harvard University Library: A Catalog of Changes in Administrative Structure," Library Quarterly, 53 (1983), 359-370.

6-1-1: Records of the Library Committee and Council

2 vols. Vol. 1: (1859-1898), [i, 214] p.; v. 2: (1898-1909), 86 p. UA III.50.10.150.

6-1-2: Library Council minutes, 1910-1948

263 p.

6-1-3: Report of the Committee appointed on the 20th February to consider who shall be added to the Library Committee and what shall be the duties of that Committee, dated 11 June 1864 and signed John Amory Lowell and M. Brimmer
 1 p. UA III.50.10.4VT.

6-1-4: Statement of Standing Committee on the Library to whom was referred the report of the Special Committee of the Overseers, which, among other matters, reported dissent from the report which stated that the Council should have the power to sell or exchange books that are not duplicates, dated 23 February 1867
 2 p. UA III.50.10.4VT.

For an 1877 report on the relationship between the central and departmental libraries, see 3-1-98.

6-1-5: Printed statement, 13 January 1881, that no department except the Law School will order books unless through the "University Librarian"
 1 p.

Filmed with this is a letter of E. W. Hooper, the treasurer, to Justin Winsor, 27 January 1881, questioning the desirability of sending out the circular, 1 p. In UA III.50.6.5. Also filmed are 3 cards showing changes made to this rule in 1892, 1908, and 1911. (UA III.50.15.140.2). These documents, and the next, show that Winsor attempted to exert central control but that forces tending to decentralization were strong.

6-1-6: Printed statement, signed Justin Winsor, Librarian of the University, and dated 20 January 1881, suggesting "the following methods of concerted action between those having care of books belonging to the several departments of the University and himself, in order to carry out the intention of the President and Fellows, in their order of Dec. 13, 1880." 1 p. UA III.50.15.140.2.

6-1-7: Printed statutes of the University, adopted in 1890, along with, side by side, the former statutes. They show that in 1890 an entity known as the University Library was formally created. 1 p. UA III.50.6.5, vol. 3.

6-1-8: Survey of the Library, a collection of folded tables giving statistics on a wide variety of matters
UA III.50.29.10.

Only those containing information that seems not to be readily available in annual reports have been filmed. Those filmed are:

Estimate of Book-funds, for the Council, 1897-1913. 2 sheets.

Income and Expenditures for Books, 1876/77-1913/14. 3 sheets. The figures for some years differ somewhat from those in the annual reports and incorporate corrections of the treasurer.

Sources of Income for Books. 1902/03-1912/13. 1 sheet + 1 half-sheet.

Sources of Income for Administration. 1902/03-1912/13. 1 sheet.

Expense of Administration, 1874/75-1908/09. 3 sheets.

Access to Books (covering open collections and admission to book-stack). 1878/79-1910/11. 3 sheets + 2 half-sheets showing admissions to the book-stack in 1911/12 and 1912/13.

Average Number of Readers in Reading-Room from 6 to 10 P.M., day by day, from 14 December 1903 to 4 December 1915/16. 12 sheets. + Average no. of readers in Reading Room, 18 November-14 December 1901 & 11 November to 13 December 1902 + the Sundays during that period. There are also figures on Sunday attendance in 1911/12 and 1915.

Statistics on loans, library privileges, and Sunday use, 1878/79-1912/13. 3 sheets.

Users of the Library. 1874/75-1905/06. Includes information on use by Radcliffe students which seems not to be in the annual reports. 2 sheets. Also includes information on use in 1910/11-1912/13. 3 p.

Shelf Department accounts. 1878/79-30 June 1914. 4 sheets. Includes information on the progress of the classification and on losses during some years.

Printing office account. 1910/11. 3 sheets.

Cost of Bibliographical Contributions, nos. 48-58. 1 sheet.

6-1-9: Abstract of statement made by the Chairman of the Library Council, 26 January 1910
Archibald Cary Coolidge. 12 p.

VII. Acquisitions

The material listed below, along with the lists in 1-1-1 and with the catalogs themselves, makes the record of accessions virtually complete up through 1829. Or, perhaps it is better to say that further work in the Archives is likely to add little new information. The material is difficult to use, and one must often go back and forth to obtain a complete record of a gift or of acquisitions during a particular period. Moreover, it has not been possible to organize and date all the material.

There may be a virtue in presenting the documents in this form. They convey the degree to which recording acquisitions was a problem. Immediately after the fire of 1764, keeping track of acquisitions and cataloging the books were virtually the same, at least for the major gifts. An alcove was devoted to a collection, and the alcove catalog also served as a record of the gift. Subsequent to that, recording acquisitions was a problem that became more acute in the 1810s and 1820s. False starts toward an accessions book can be seen. One called Books Received was started in 1827, though it began to be comprehensive only in the second half of 1829. From that point one has a record that is easy to consult.

When groups of documents have been filmed, each has been recorded separately with the intention of stimulating and easing use. Titles given in this section generally follow either that at the head of a document or the endorsed title, but no attempt has been made to transcribe exactly one or the other title.

The early years have been emphasized, for once the series of annual reports begin, one has available figures on expenditures as well as information on major gifts and purchases. Moreover, the accessions records, though too voluminous to film, begin at roughly the same period as the annual reports, and information on specific titles or groups of material can be found there.

For a statistical summary of the growth of the Library to 1866, see 3-1-91.

7-1-1: Extracts from the College Records Regarding Gifts of Books, etc. to 1827, with an index to 1781
UA III.50.15.70.1.

A note on the endpaper indicates that there was once another index going up to 1840, but that index has not been found. (See also the list of donors in 1-1-1.)

A list of the material follows:

- Memorandum, signed J. L. Sibley, 1842, 3 p.
- Index to 1781, 7 p.
- Corporation records, vol. 1 & 2, 12 p.
- College records, vol. 1 & 2, 1 p.
- College book, vol. 1 & 2, 1 p.
- Extracts from the volume of the Corporation documents lettered Hollis papers, 66 p. (These mention other donors as well.)
- Books given by Governor Bernard, 7 p.
- Corporation records, vol. III, 2 p.
- Corporation records, vols. IV-V, 13 p.
- Catalogue of books presented by J. Gardiner, 1 p.
- Corporation records, vol. VII (1751-1763), 3 p.
- College records, vols. VIII-IX (1765-1810), 71 p.
- Extracts from Corporation papers on file, 1807-08, 2 p.
- Extract from a thin book among the Corporation records, entitled "Treasurers Exhibits to the President of Harvard College, 1810 - 1811 - 1812," 2 p. (on the Hollis & Shapleigh funds)
- 1809 From Corporation files, 1 p.
- College Records, vol. X (1811-1827), 19 p.
- 3-page document from College Records, vol. X, p. 579, December 1822

7-1-2: Records of Benefactions following the Fire
UA III.50.27.64.2.

In addition to a list of donors drawn up in the year after the fire, the material filmed under this heading consists of all the lists and letters in the folders under this title in the Archives. Most of the lists are only one or two pages. Sometimes books presented by several donors are listed in the same document. Occasionally the lists are written out on both quarto and folio sheets. Some are on mere scraps of paper. A large number record the date at which the books were entered into the General Catalogue. In the following lists, if the name of the individual and date only are given, it should be assumed that the item is a list or letter:

1) List of Benefactors to the Library 1765. Also includes donors of 'Apparatus' and 'Donors at Large.' Records both gifts of money and gifts in kind. 3 + 1 p.

2) Another version of the above list. 4 p.

3) A Catalogue of books proposed for the Hancock donation. 12 p. At end: "This catalogue is entered in the general one by me. A. Adams."

4) Untitled list, arranged according to format with entries in apparently random order. Records sources of the books and marks those for the undergraduates. 12 p. UA III.50.27.63VT

5) Another list which is like the above but seems not to overlap with it. 24 + 1 p. Endorsed: Mr. Adams's Catalogue &c. UA III.50.27.63VT

6) Untitled catalog, with the endorsed title Books for the small library selected from Ep(?) Society marked (a) in the general catalogue. UA III.50.27.63VT

7) Catalogue of books proposed for the New Hampshire donation. 12 p. At end: "This catalogue is entered in the general one by me. A. Adams." UA III.50.27.64.2VT (PF)

7-1-3: Additional Records of Benefactions following the Fire UA III.50.27.64.2

The material listed below has been divided into two categories: American Donors and British Donors. No attempt has been made to identify them. Some of the lists seem to represent books purchased with funds supplied by individuals. Along with showing which books came from whom, these lists sometimes record additional information, such as which books were put into the small library for undergraduates.

American Donors

1) Catalogue of books given to Harvard College Library. 20 p. Records many donors. The page numbers in pencil at top of pages seem to be erroneous; the order of filming has been according to the numbers in circles at foot of pages.

2) Books received from various donors, including Prof. Sewall and John Martin, the books from the latter all having "either the Donor's name, or Judah Monis wrote in them." 2 p. Endorsed: Books from several gentlemen.

3) Mr. Abbot of Charleston. 2 p.

4) John Barnard of Marblehead. (a) Twelve-page list, some of the books being marked with a horizontal line through a circle, two being marked with a capital M; (b) Rev. Mr. Barnard's medical books, 2 p.

5) Samuel Barrett, Jr., of Boston and Thomas Bromfield. 2 p.

6) Governor Bernard. 8 p.

7) Simon Bradstreet. 3 p. Entered in the general catalogue.

8) Books for the College to be given by Dr. Chauncy. 2 p.

9) (a) Catalogue of books given by Cooke and Jackson, 4 p., the books by Cooke being recorded on other lists which record the donor as Middlecott Cooke; (b) Catalogue of books given by Middlecott Cooke, dated October 1764, 7 p.; (c) Another copy of (b), 4 p.

10) (a) List of books bought at Dr. Cutler's, 2 p.; (b) Slip identifying the "Gentlemen in New-Engl." who, it seems, made the purchase possible, 1 p. They are Bradstreet, Barnard, Gardner, Sargent, Green, Secretary Oliver, Cook, Bromfield, Barrett, Whitwell, and Dr. Chauncey.

11) Rev. Thomas Davidson, Braintree, Essex. 2 p.

12) Thomas Dawes, Boston, 27 March 1764. 4 p.

13) Catalogue of books bequeathed by Governor Dummer, 4 p. Governor Dummer's list is on p. 1, at the foot of which is a note that the books are entered in the general catalogue; books from Dr. Sewall are on pp. 2-3; and on pp. 3-4 is a list of "Books sav'd by being borrowed when the Library was burn'd," the list being arranged according to borrower.

14) List of "Mr. Edes's books," apparently a purchase rather than a gift. 2 p.

15) Mrs. Grace Gardner of Boston. 4 p.

16) J. Green and Secretary Oliver's donation. Green's was 11 August 1764. No date is noted for Oliver's. 4 p.

17) Catalogue of Mr. Hubbard's books given to the Library--value of £50. Apparently a list of books purchased with funds provided by Mr. Hubbard. 2 p.

18) Thaddeus Mason, with the list of folios in two parts, those in the Small Library and those in the Great Library. 2 p. total.

19) Epes Sergeant, entered in the general catalogue on 24 November 1766. 2 p.

20) Books given by Rev. Mr. Usher of Bristol, R.I., Peter Livius, and Joshua Orne. 2 p.

21) Mr. Wibird. Also records, p. 3, a gift of Mr. Longman. 4 p. The endorsed title records the donor as Richard Wibird, but a note in the hand of J. L. Sibley states his belief that the donor was actually Thomas Wibird.

22) Books come into the library since Monday March 24 and those not taken account of before. Entered in the general catalogue 24 November 1766. 3 p. On verso: Books belonging to the Old Library sent in by Mr. Marsh.

23) Catalogue of the books which came to the library 10 May 1769: (a) List No. 1, 4 p.; (b) List No. 2, 4 p. These were purchases that were entered in the Great Catalogue by A. E. in October 1770.

24) Books received into the Library since October 20, 1768, with the names of donors. This list includes, well before the end, a mention of those received on 10 May 1769. 2 p.

25) (a) Catalogue of the books sent for--received 19 April 1771. Entered into the Great Catalogue by Wm. Mayhew. 4 p. (b) A list which is apparently a partial and preliminary version of the preceding, 2 p.

26) First and second grant of books from the General Court, during Mr. Langdon's presidency. Dated in pencil 1778. The books are identified as coming from Cox and Berry's and from Province House. To the left of each title are numbers of copies received, one as high as 47. 4 p.

27) Unidentified 4-p. list of books that were entered in the General Catalogue.

28) Unidentified 2-p. list.

29) Unidentified 4-p. list.

30) Donors unknown. 2 p.

British Donors

31) (a) Books from Scotland. Donors are Anth. Ferguson, Society for Promoting Religious knowledge, William Gray, bookseller; Mr. Hog, merchant; Messrs Gray and Alston, Rev. Water Scot, 2 p. (b) Another copy, 2 p.

(c) Another copy from which the books were entered in the General catalogue on 24 November 1766, 7 p.

32) Beginning of another catalogue of Dr. Avery's books. 2 p. See also No. 40.

33) List of books from Dr. Avery not mentioned in "his" catalogue, "his" being Dr. Avery. 6 p. Entered in the general catalog.

34) Books from Mr. Erskine, 12 July 1768, 3 p. Endorsed: Books from Scotland.

35) Richard Jackson of London; recorded 6 June 1766, according to a later pencil note. 2 p.

36) (a) A letter, apparently from Lardner, dated 12 July 1764, to Jasper Mauduit, recording books sent to Dr. Wigglesworth. Also records books sent by Jos. Jennings, 2 p. (b) Another copy of the above, 2 p. (A letter from Nathaniel Lardner to Edward Wigglesworth, 12 July 1764, is in the Houghton autograph file.)

37) (a) Lardner, Neal, and Jennings books. Entered in the General Catalogue on 24 November 1766, 3 p. Endorsed: Dr. Lardner's Catal: by Prof. Wigglesworth. (b) Another copy, 2 p.

38) List of books given by Jasper Mauduit, entered in general catalogue on 24 November 1766. 3 p.

39) Jasper Mauduit, per J. Buckland. Perhaps a list of books purchased by Mauduit with funds supplied by the College. Also contains a list of Dr. Benson's works sent by Richard Cooke and a list of books "in the Box with 2 Handles," about which is the note: "The President does not yet know from whom" they come. 6 p. See No. 53.

40) Mr. Mauduit's and Dr. Avery's books: (a) a letter from Mauduit to Andrew Oliver, 10 October 1764, about shipment of books from him and from Dr. Avery's house, 1 p.; (b) a bill of lading, 1 p.; (c) a list of Mauduit's books in the shipment, dated 10 October 1764, 3 p.; (d) a list of books found in Dr. Avery's house after his decease and sent to Harvard, 5 October 1764, by Mauduit, 7 p.; (e) list of Mauduit's and Dr. Avery's books from which entries were made in the general catalogue, 8 p., a combined list of (c) and (d). See also Nos. 32 and 33.

41) Samuel Savage, merchant in London. 2 p.

42) Books given by Mr. Sparrow. 2 p. The list also records a book given by Dr. Amory.

43) Barlow Trecothick, London. 4 p.

44) A catalog of books received 3 September 1767 from the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge. 2 p.

45) Scotch books. Lists books from the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge, and from Thomas Hog and Robert Wallace, 15 December 1768. 2 p. "Entered in My Catalogue except the Pamphlets A. Adams."

46) A catalog of books from the Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge received from Dr. Erskine, 11 April 1769. Entered into the General Catalogue by A. E., 5 November 1770. 2 p.

47) Books sent by the Society in Scotland for Propagating Christian Knowledge. 2 p. Endorsed: List of the 2d parcel of books from Scot's Society for Propagating Christian Knowledge.

48) List of books presented to the library, by the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts, "which were not consumed. They are to be added to those lately presented." 2 p. Entered in the general catalogue on 24 November 1766. Endorsed title is "Episcopal Society's present." Since the endorsed title indicates that the "Episcopal Society" is the same as the Society for Propagating the Gospel in Foreign Parts, the following four items may represent donations by the same society.

49) Episcopal Society's books. 2 p. Title is endorsed on p. 2. Entered in the general catalogue on 24 November 1766. Lists 48 and 49 are not the same.

50) Episcopal Society, 1st catalogue, 2 p.

51) Episcopal Society. 2 p.

52) Episcopal Society's books. Catalogue taken by Mr. Adams. 4 p. This contains books listed in (50) and (51).

53) List of books from the Society for Propagating the Gospel in New England etc. Entered in the general catalogue 24 November [1766] "except the Books in the Box with 2 handles." 2 p.

54) List, 24 August 1769, which is identified as from "The Society of Scotland." 2 p.

7-1-4: Additions to the Library
n.d. & 1782?-1832. UA III.50.15.70.2.

This material consists of two main types: letters or lists of individual gifts and lists of donations and purchases covering a particular period. A brief inventory of the material – in the order filmed – follows:

1) 10-page List of books for College Library, n.d.

2) 1-page untitled list, n.d.

3) Granville Sharp's donations, n.d., but apparently 1781

7-1-10: Books received, vol. 1, 1827-1834
453 p. UA III.50.15.70.6.

This is the first volume in a series that was kept until 1877. The volumes record date of receipt, author, title, subject class, where and when printed, size, number of volumes, and source, cost (if a purchase), and binding. Not until 1829 did accessions begin to be recorded with regularity.

7-1-11: Ebeling Collection
20 p. UA III.50.28.18.

Among other documents concerning the Americana collection of Daniel Christoph Ebeling, this file contains: copy of a letter from Richard Parish to J. G. Cogswell, Hamburg, 23 January 1818; Israel Thorndike (the donor), letter to J. G. Cogswell, 16 June 1818; Israel Thorndike, letter to President Kirkland, 17 June 1818; plus documents regarding shipping the collection, and notices of the gift in periodicals.

7-1-12: Catalogue of the Library of the Hon. Theophilus Parsons. To Be Sold by Auction March 1st. 1814, at the Store of Francis Amory, No. 41, Marlboro Street Boston. 1814. 23 p. UA III.50.28.14.

The annotations in this copy suggests that it was the one used by the Library in deciding on bids. The list of books purchased has been filmed as one of a group of Library Invoices, 7-1-6 (4).

7-1-13: Catalogue of books at No 35 Berkeley Sqre. late the property of Thos Palmer esqre Decd. taken August 17th 1820
20 p. + 14-p. index UA III.50.28.43.

Lists 1,185 books bequeathed to the Library.

7-1-14: Bibliotheca Americo-Septentrionalis: Being a Choice Collection of Books in Various Languages, Relating to the History, Climate, Geography, Produce, Population, Agriculture, Commerce, Arts, Sciences, etc. of North America, from its First Discovery to Its Present Existing Government; among Which Are Many Valuable Articles and Rare together with All the Important Official Documents Published from Time to Time by the Authority of Congress
Paris. May 1820. 147 p. UA III.50.15.80.3.

Title also in French. This is the catalog of the library of David Bailie Warden which Harvard acquired, and this copy is annotated and has a 2-page list of Warden books that were not in the catalog.

7-1-15: T. W. Harris letter to President Quincy, 13 July 1838, stating that Hector Bossange of Paris is in Cambridge and asking for an order of books
9 p. College Papers, 2d series, vol. 9 (1838-1840), ll. 23-28, UA I.5.125.

Harris includes a list of incomplete sets that Bossange might be asked to complete.

This is very likely an early instance of a European bookseller seeking to obtain business from the States.

7-1-16: Report of the Committee of the Association of the Alumni . . . Appointed to Take into Consideration the State of the College Library . . . July 16, 1857.
Cambridge: Metcalf and Company. 1858. 58 p.

Includes "Statements of the President and other officers of the College, concerning the state of the library." pp. [13]-44, all of which point out deficiencies in the collections. Also filmed is a follow-up to this report, dated 20 July and signed George Livermore and Henry G. Denny, in UA II.10.6.3 (pp. 8-12). For a fund-raising appeal that was subsequently undertaken, see 7-4-6.

7-1-17: Papers of the Library Council, especially of C. W. Eliot in his capacity as secretary of the Library Council, concerning purchase of books, particularly abroad. In 1859 William Gray's first of five annual gifts of $5,000 was received. Such funds required entirely new efforts to spend it. Contains the following: Lists of desiderata from faculty members; letters from agents in London and Paris; letter from George Ticknor about buying books abroad; circular letter to agents; a printed statement, dated 15 January 1860, giving precise instructions for listing books to be purchased for the College Library. Library Collected Papers for the years 1859 and 1860 are in UA III.50.6. (The letters to C. W. Eliot are to Charles William Eliot, the future president of Harvard.) Contains the following:

- 1) Harvard Corporation. Minutes of meeting of 25 February 1859, on the Library Committee's role in fulfilling Mr. Gray's intention that the library acquire the most current and best books, wherever published. 1 p.
- 2) Agassiz, Louis, letter to C. W. Eliot, 22 March 1859.
- 3) Thies, Louis, letter to C. W. Eliot, 28 March 1859.
- 4) Sibley, John Langdon, letter to C. W. Eliot, 1 April 1859.
- 5) Torey, Henry W., memorandum to the Library Committee, 4 April 1859.
- 6) Abbot, Ezra, letter to C. W. Eliot, 4 April 1859.
- 7) Parker, Henry, letter to Amos A. Lawrence, treasurer of Harvard College, 12 May 1859, agreeing to act as agent.
- 8) Laugel, Auguste, letter to Amos A. Lawrence, 12 May 1859, agreeing to act as agent.
- 9) Ticknor, George, letter to C. W. Eliot, 29 June 1859, on book agents.
- 10) Abbot, Ezra, handwritten statement, addressed to C. W. Eliot, 27 July 1859, on expenditures for books and periodicals, divided by subject.
- 11) Circular letter to agents, 20 August 1859.
- 12) Lawrence, A. A., memorandum, 20 August 1859, on purchases of English, French, and German books. The memorandum accompanied the circular letter of the same date.
- 13) Parker, Henry T., letter, 9 September 1859, acknowledging first order for books.
- 14) Flügel, Felix, letter to Lawrence, on receipt of first order, 10 September 1859.
- 15) Parker, Henry, letter to Lawrence, on receipt of first order, 10 September 1859.

16) Printed instructions on providing information on books to be purchased by Harvard College Library.

17) Flügel, Felix, letter to A. A. Lawrence, 6 May, 1860; on verso is a letter from Lawrence to Eliot, 28 May 1860.

18) A copy, all together on one sheet, of Lawrence's letters of 18 June 1859 to Laugel, Parker and Flügel.

19) Laugel, Auguste, letter to Lawrence, 13 July 1860.

20) Laugel, Auguste, letter to Lawrence, 11 September 1860.

21) Flügel, Felix, letter to Lawrence, 2 September 1860.

22) Parker, Henry, letter to Lawrence, 2 September 1860.

23) Laugel, Auguste, letter to C. W. Eliot, 12 October 1860.

24) Lovering, Joseph, memorandum to Library Committee, 3 December 1860, on the appropriation for the Department of Physics.

7-1-18: Untitled printed report to a conference of Chicago libraries, signed Walter Lichtenstein, Clement W. Andrews, and Newman Miller, dated 3 January 1911 [7] p.

On "co-operation in the matter of forwarding from the three principal book-buying centers of Europe." Lichtenstein had bought books for Harvard, and this report also concerns Harvard which had in principal undertaken to enter into a cooperative arrangement.

7-1-19: Report to the President of Northwestern University on the Results of a Trip to South America
Walter Lichtenstein. 2d ed. Evanston & Chicago: Northwestern University Press. 1915. 43, [1] p. + plates.

Northwestern University Bulletin, vol. 16, no. 1. Lichtenstein, who formerly worked for Harvard buying books, was at this time librarian of Northwestern, but the book-buying trip was on behalf of a number of libraries.

7-1-20: Some Notes on the Stolberg Library
Hilmar H. Weber. 1934. 10 p., plus front. and 13 p. of additional illustrations.

7-1-21: The Education Collection of the Harvard College Library

Louise M. Taylor. 1935. 9 p.

Reprinted from the Harvard Teachers Record, February 1935.

7-1-22: The Widener Library and the Harvard Commission on Western History
22 March 1916. [7] p.

Reprinted from Harvard Alumni Bulletin.

7-1-23: Farmington Plan Documents
(Compiled in the Course of Preparing the Farmington Plan Handbook)

Vol. 1, 1940-1946: [v], 491 p.; vol. 2, 1947-1953, [ii], 492-884 p. UA III.50.29.40.26.

There is a table of contents. Harvard was headquarters of the Farmington Plan during this period, and these documents were brought together by Edwin E. Williams who administered the Farmington Plan.

7-1-24: Farmington Plan Handbook

Edwin E. Williams. Association of Research Libraries, 1953. v, 170 p.

This edition has an extended history of the Farmington Plan that was not repeated in the second edition of 1961.

Material Concerning Desiderata

Other desiderata lists exist which have not been filmed as part of this collection.

7-2-1: Books Asked For

57 + 1 p. UA III.50.15.150.4.

Folio volume, beginning with 5 June 1829 and ending on 24 October 1834, then resuming on 25 November 1867 and continuing, in desultory fashion it seems, until 1875. Up through 14 September 1831, it is noted when a book was ordered. Each entry notes the name of the individual who requested the book.

7-2-2: Catalogue of American Publications to be furnished on account for the Public Library of Harvard University, by Hilliard, Gray & Co. of Boston. No. 2

57 + 4 p. UA III.50.15.150.5.

Folio volume in paper covers. Dated in pencil May 1833. The list is annotated in such a fashion as to record which books were supplied by Hilliard, Gray & Co. and which by other firms.

7-2-3: Memoranda respecting books to be purchased for the Library, plus lists of desiderata and correspondence from professors and others, 1842-1849 ca. 100 p. UA III.50.28.42.

Consists of the following:

1) Memoranda respecting books to be purchased for the Library, 3 p.

2) Norton, Andrews, letter, 27 April 1842, 1 p., plus list, 51 p. At head of list in Sibley's hand: "These manuscripts pertain to the lists of books made out by the professors to be purchased by the Library Fund of 1842 wh. are cut up and pasted in a folio book."

3) Cover statement, dated 1 July 1842, signed Benjamin Pierce and Joseph Lovering, which accompanied their last list of "mathematical and physical works." 2 p.

4) Sparks, Jared. Cover letter, dated 13 June 1841, which accompanied his catalogue of books on modern history not contained in the Library; plus other documents relating to the desired books on history. 5 p.

5) Beck, Charles. Cover letter, dated 17 June 1842, accompanying his list, 1 p. and 6-page list.

6) Ticknor, George. Letter, 28 April 1842, to Josiah Quincy, responding to the invitation to submit a list of books for purchase. 3 p.

7) Webster, John White. List of books for the departments of chemistry, mineralogy and geology, 4 p.

8) Miscellaneous lists and offers, circa 20 p.

9) Three printed advertisements, 6 p.

7-2-4: Catalogue of books asked for, and from which the orders, for books to be bought with the Subscribed Fund of 1842, are to be selected

91 p. UA III.50.28.42PF.

The individuals requesting books are identified by initials; a guide to them is at the front. Each book title is written on a slip of paper which is pasted onto the pages, generally in alphabetical order by author and by keyword if there is no author.

Book Storage

Book storage is intimately related with acquisitions, hence the inclusion of this material in this section.

7-3-1: Documents relating to President Eliot's proposal for segregating "dead" books

1) Record of meeting of President and fellows of Harvard College, 30 December 1900, 1 p.; correspondence between William Coolidge Lane and Edward Pickering, 3 p.; "President Eliot on Dead Books" leaflet printed by New England Education League 1 p.; Division of a Library into books in use and books not in use, 7 p. followed by letter from Pickering to Lane, 13 January 1902 and Coolidge to Lane, 11 March 1902, 4 p.

2) Report of a Committee Appointed by the President and Fellows of Harvard College to Study the Future Needs of the College Library. Presented March 31, 1902. 22 p. plus appendix to the report of the 1902, on expenditures for administration with income of funds.

3) Letter from Edward Pickering to the President and Fellows of Harvard College, 1 p.; Cost estimates for reading rooms, stacks, etc.

4) "Certain Plain Facts about the Harvard Library" reprinted from Harvard College Magazine, December 1899, 10 p.

5) Stenographic report on the meeting in Phillips Brooks House called by the Committee in order to ascertain the views of others (84 p.). Only the first half of the report was able to be filmed.

For an account of this controversy in the library world as well as at Harvard, see Kimball C. Elkins, "President Eliot and the Storage of 'Dead' Books," Harvard Library Bulletin, 8 (1954), 299-312. UA III.50.29.2

Appeals for Funds and Gifts in Kind

These documents mark crucial stages in the evolution of a Library from one that depended on gifts to one that systematically acquired new books as published. For records of the actual gifts, see 7-1.

7-4-1: Printed letter asking for donations of books, signed by President Kirkland and dated 1816, but with date crossed out and 1827 entered in ink 2 p. UA III.50.15.139.

7-4-2: Plan for increasing Cambridge library 2 + 5 p. UA III.50.28.42.

Another copy, 3 pages, is endorsed: Mem. on Library Oct. 1819. This document seems to be from an aborted fund-raising campaign. George Ticknor may have been the author of the document and the instigator of the campaign.

7-4-3: To the Graduates of Harvard University

Signed A Graduate, and dated Commencement Day, 29 August 1832. 3 p. HUF 523.6.73.

An appeal to alumni to send books to the Library. A pencil note on one copy in the Archives identifies the author as John Pickering.

7-4-4: Subscription book, Oct 1841, recording those who subscribed 100 or more to the fund for the library 4 p. UA III.50.28.41.2.

7-4-5: Printed statement, dated 16 July 1856, headed Harvard College Library, and signed John Langdon Sibley, asking for books 1 p. UA III.50.15.139.

7-4-6: Printed statement, dated 11 November 1858, and signed Thomas G. Cary, George Livermore, and Henry G. Denny, asking for gifts for the Library 2 p. + 3 p. list of subscribers. UA III.50.28.78PF, l. 47.

7-4-7: Proceedings of the Board of Overseers of Harvard College, in Relation to the College Library, 1866-67 Cambridge, 1867. 12 p.

Contains two reports from 1866 and 1867, signed Wm. Gray, Nathl. Thayer, Sam'l Eliot, Edward E. Hale, and Benj. S. Rotch. In addition to urging a new building, it calls for more funds for books.

Sales of Duplicates

In the era in which most support for the Library was in the form of gifts of books, the Library looked to sales of duplicates to generate substantial income.

7-5-1: Catalogue of Books to Be Sold by Public Auction, at Francis Amory's Auction Room, Boston: Immediately after the Sales Advertised to Commence December 20, 1815

16p. UA III.50.15.80.2.

This catalogue contains "surplus copies of works from the Library of Harvard University." The copy filmed is annotated, apparently with the prices that the books fetched.

7-5-2: Books, Rare, Curious, Elegant and Valuable, in the Departments of the Classicks, Civil Law, History, Criticism, Belles Lettres and Theology, for Sale at Auction, in Boston, 20 December, 1815 Boston, 1815. 42 p. *UA III.50.15.80.2.

A note identifies these as being Harvard duplicates.

7-5-3: Catalogue of Duplicates in the Library of Harvard University, for Sale 1823. 112 p. *UA III.50.15.80.6.

This copy, interleaved, has a special manuscript title: Register of the sale and exchange of Duplicate Books belonging to the Library of Harvard College, from September, 1823, to March, 1828. It identifies purchasers, which include the Library of Congress and the University of Virginia. It also identifies books sold from an earlier list of duplicates, which is also filmed with this; its title is "[Manuscript Catalogue, being the only document relating to the Duplicates, which C. Folsom received from the preceding Librarian.]." 24 pp. It is marked (A). UA III.50.80.2. See also 5-1-1.

VIII. Catalogs and Documents Relating to Cataloging

8-1-1: Catalogus librorum bibliothecae Collegij Harvardini quod est Cantabrigiae in Nova Anglia

*Boston, 1723. 102 p. *UA III.50.27.14VT.

8-1-2: Continuatio supplementi Catalogi librorum Bibliothecae Collegij Harvardini, quod est Cantabrigiae in Nova Anglia
Boston, 1725. Pp. 103-112.

8-1-3: Second supplement Continuatio Catalogi librorum Bibliothecae Collegii Harvardini ab anno 1725, ad annum 1735.

Boston, 1735. Pp. 113-124.

8-1-4: Lists of Books Charged Out at the Time of the Fire in 1764

UA III.50.27.64.

a) Account of the Books belonging to the late Library which were in the Hands of the Senior Sophisters when it was consumed by Fire. 4 p.

b) List of Books borrowed from the former Library & not yet returned. 2 p. This appears to be a list of books in the hands of citizens who are not part of the College.

c) Continuation of the Account of Books saved from the Fire by being borrow'd out. Pp. [1-2], 5-7. Also includes some books which "I have retain'd with Me & never placed in the Library."

d) Old Library books, 21 + 1 p. This appears to be a preliminary list ing of the next item.

e) A List of Books belonging to the late library of Harvard College that were in the hands of the Overseers, Governors & students of the College & escaped the flames, 19 + 2 p.

8-1-5: Catalogus librorum: An Alphabetical List of the Books Belonging to the Library of Harv'd College, 1765-1767

94 leaves, with supplements: 1) A list of books that have been presented to the library of Harvard College since the alphabetical list was made out, 3 + 1 p., which is endorsed Supplement to the first alph. catalogue; 2) Untitled supplement, 56 p. UA III.50.15.31VT.

8-1-6: Manuscript Catalogue - Mayhew
Catalogue, ca. 1770
[217] p. UA III.50.15.32VT.

8-1-7: Manuscript Catalogue - The Adams
Catalogue, ca. 1768-1774
569, [1] p. + endpapers. UA III.50.15.35VT.

8-1-8: Catalogue of books, ca. 1775
57, [1] p. UA III.50.15.35VT.

Most likely the catalog of the library as it was constituted at Concord.

8-1-9: Tract catalogue, 1781-1790
199 unnumbered folio leaves. UA III.50.15.36VT.

Tract catalogue follows 29 pages of an incomplete catalogue beginning "Abadie. Traite de la verite de la Religion Chrestienne." Although the top and bottom lines of some pages were not filmed, these catalogues do serve the purpose of illustrating the kind of entries made.

8-1-10: Leaf, Lu-Ly, from the alphabetical catalog compiled in 1779
2 p. UA III.50.25.37VT.

8-1-11: Catalogus Bibliothecae Harvardianae Cantabrigiae Nov-Anglorum Boston, 1790. Vol. 1: 144 p. plus interleaving; vol. 2, pp. 145-358, plus interleaving. UA III.50.15.39VT.

The copy filmed is interleaved and annotated with additions, with marks indicating prohibited books, and with annotations made by the Visiting Committee when it took an inventory in 1822.

8-1-12: Plan for the Arrangement of the Catalogue of the University Library Printed copy, 1 p., plus manuscript in the hand of Andrews Norton, 5 p.

Although dated 1817, this plan was probably printed in 1821 at the instance of William Croswell, who had been employed to produce a new catalog. He wrote on 4 September 1822: "I have also crowded within the roll, nicely for your amusement, a Proposal for Horace and a copy of the Plan given me for arranging the College Library Catalogue. . . . As I discovered its obliquity I corrected it: and when they dismissed me I printed it as I received it." Also present is Croswell's notebook in which he developed his plan for the arrangement of the Library, 43 p. With this are transcriptions of two Corporation votes of 1819 & 1821, 1 p. and Croswell's letterbook of his correspondence directed to the Harvard Corporation, 1817-1829, 28 p. HUG 1306.5.

8-1-13: Croswell shelflist, alcove 14.1 & 2: Moral & political philosophy, statistics, commerce
54 p. UA III.50.115.42.2.

The 30 volumes cannot be reproduced here, but one is reproduced as a sample. Sibley explained in a note in one of the volumes what the shelflist is and wherein its importance lies: "These catalogues are the result of the labors of Mr. Croswell who was employed for several years in classifying the books in the College Library. He had not completed it when Mr. Joseph G. Cogswell was appointed Librarian. During Mr. Cogswell's administration many interlineations were made and Mr. Croswell's titles may generally be known by their being written or printed slips and pasted. From these Catalogues the loose sheet Catalogue, which is now contained in boxes was copied (much abridged) during Mr. Cogswell's time. The loose sheets were examined by the Librarian Mr. Peirce, who interlined and made the titles fuller. The loose sheets were then taken from time to time to the printing office and from them was printed the Catalogue which Mr. Pierce published. Mr. Cogswell distributed the books in the Library, for the first time, according to subjects and some reference was then had to Mr. Croswell's classification, as contained in these catalogues. When Mr. Peirce printed his classified index, he appears to have concurred mostly with Mr. Croswell. So that in fact, these Catalogues, which are in reality of great value, are the basis of all that relates to the subsequent arrangement of the Library. These Catalogues, so far as their illegibility and wear would permit were copied during Mr. Folsom's time and the copies bound in half binding with a kind of blue papers were deposited in the Alcoves to which they respectively belonged." It can also be argued that this catalog, made initially by creating slips from the earlier printed catalog, provided the germ of the idea of the card catalog begun in the 1840s.

8-1-14: Three documents concerning cataloging from the early 1820s
UA III.50.28.21.

Arrangement of books in Harv. Coll. Library, dated November 1822, 5 + 1 p., in the hand of James Green; Mr. [Joseph G.] Cogswell's notice of classes in the library, 4 p.; plus an untitled statement in the hand of Cogswell, dated 1 Nov. 1822, on the "Catalogue which appears to me most expedient to be published," 2 + 1 p.

8-1-15: List of catalogues and papers relating to the Library of Harvard University
UA III.50.28.27.

Comprising all the documents concerning said Library in the possession of the librarian on the 25th of September 1825, 4 p.; plus cover letter from Librarian Charles Folsom to President Kirkland, dated 28 September 1825, 3 + 1 p.

8-1-16: Catalogue of the Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Massachusetts

Cambridge, Mass., 1830. 3 vols., plus supplement (1834). Vols. 1-2, xvii + 953 pp.; vol. 3, xii + 223 + 2 pp.; supplement, v + 260.

Vols. 1 & 2 are alphabetical; vol. 3 is a "systematic index." Filmed with this is Catalogue of Maps and Charts in the Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass. (Cambridge, 1831). viii + 224 p.

8-1-17: [Parkman, Francis]. A review essay on 3 works, one of them being the Catalogue of the Library of Harvard University Christian Examiner, OS8, NS3 (1830), 321-338.

A pencil note identifies Parkman as the author.

For a statement by Ezra Abbot on the "new catalogues," see 3-1-88.

8-1-18: Brief Description of the Catalogues of the Library of Harvard College Cambridge, Mass., 1867. 7 p.

8-1-19: "The New Catalogue of Harvard College Library"

Charles A. Cutter.

Reprinted from the North American Review, 108 (Jan. 1869), 96-129. HUF 523.469.15.

8-1-20: John Fiske. "A Librarian's Work," Atlantic Monthly, 38 (1876), 480-491; Hermann A. Hagen, "The Librarian's Work," Nation, 22 (18 January 1877), 40-41; Charles Ammi Cutter, "The Cataloguer's Work," Nation, 24 (8 February 1877), 86-88; Charles A. Cutter, "Dr. Hagen's Letter on Cataloguing," Library Journal, 1 (1877), 216-220

John Fiske had the title of Assistant Librarian from 1872 to 1879, though it appears that during the last years of Sibley's tenure - until his retirement in 1877 - Fiske in fact acted as librarian. Fiske's essay was reprinted in his

Darwinism and Other Essays. For an account of Fiske's work in the Harvard Library, see his Life and Letters, ed., John Spencer Clark (Boston and New York, 1917), II, 62-[73]. See also The Letters of John Fiske, edited by his daughter Ethel F. Fisk (New York, 1940), which, between pages 219 and 378, contains numerous letters commenting on his Library work.

For an 1877 report on the catalog, see 3-1-98.

8-1-21: History of the shelf department, Harvard College Library, March 1900 Frank Carney. [ii], 47 p. UA III.50.29.00.6.

In addition to being responsible for cleaning the stacks, moving books, marking books and such functions, it seems that the Shelf Department was intimately involved in arranging and classifying books. Carney was long head of the Shelf Department.

8-1-22: Records of the Cataloguing Department, Harvard College Library 9 vols., 1881 - 1936-39 (4747, [7] p.).

At the end of volume [4] which goes to 1919/20 is an index to the first-four volumes; thereafter each volume has its own index, and there is at end an Index by subject to all volumes. These volumes contain annual reports on cataloging plus numerous other documents. Some may be of little interest, but it is clear that T. Franklin Currier, who put together most of the volumes, aimed to create an historical record. There exists, for instance, a report on the history of Harvard's Union Catalog, a statement on the Phonograph Collection, a paper delivered at an ALA meeting by the woman who headed up a team of researchers who did work for the Catalog Department as well as for outsiders, a paper of Miss Briggs read before the Cataloging Section of ALA on the Wendell Collection on the theatre, etc.. The period covered is one in which Harvard bought numerous collections, and the documents in these volumes convey much about acquisitions as well. The period was also one in which the Library printed catalog cards for distribution; the Library developed its own classification system; it started a dictionary catalog and a list of subject terms. One might say that it did what only national libraries now do. These documents cover that important phase in the Library's history.

8-1-23: Untitled special "Report on the administration of the College Library, in conformity with a suggestion made by President Eliot last winter, and embodying also a discussion of the subject catalogue – a topic on which the Corporation long ago asked for a report," March 1909
William Coolidge Lane. 65, 2 p. UA III.50.5.5.

Also filmed are additional documents that were used, it seems, in compiling the report; among them are "Summary of the ordinary routine of work – Ordering, Shleflisting, and Cataloging," 6 p., "Routine on receipt of books," 10 p., notes on the ordering department, 6 p., "Subject Cataloging," 3 p., "Saving of time," 2 p., signed T. Franklin Currier.

8-1-24: Report on Union Catalogue
William Coolidge Lane and S. A. Chevalier. [1910? 1911?]. 8 p. + cover. HUF 523.511.5.

The Union Catalogue considered was one "for the libraries of the Boston district."

At head of title: Final Thesis April 9, 1914. (This was a thesis at the Harvard Business School.) The contents are as follows: Contents, [ii] p.; Foreword, 2 p.; Organization of the Harvard College Library, [i], 5 p. (with, it seems, something missing from the original); The cost of cataloguing, [i], 13, [11] p.; Existing conditions and suggested modifications in the Catalogue Department, [i], 19 p.; A report on the Order Department, [i], 20, [2] p.; A report on other libraries investigated (Yale, Columbia, Princeton, Johns Hopkins, Brown, New York Public), [iii], 55, [2] p.; A final report on Harvard College Library, [i], 12 p. (This survey is placed here because it emphasizes cataloging; but it concludes with comments on assistance to readers.)

8-1-27: Memorandum from T. Franklin Currier, addressed "To the Director and Librarian," which "proposes to present for consideration the major problems of the department under my charge [cataloging]," stamped 5 Feb. 1932
24, [4] p. UA III.50.29.32.7.

This report also gives information on salaries and staffing at Yale, Columbia, and the New York Public Library.

8-1-28: Widener Catalog. Harvard University Library
James E. Hopkins and Julian Thomas. [iii], 59 p. B8416.78.

A student research project, spring 1956, in Applied Mathematics 220, which was a course in data processing. The report describes itself as "an exploratory study of the possibility of mechanizing some features of a catalog."

IX. Use Of The Library

Charging Records

A virtually complete record of books borrowed (arranged under the borrower) exists from 1762 to 1897. The first volume filmed is the earliest existing, and, in addition to its utility as a record of reading, it can also be useful in piecing together a record of the books in the Library before the fire of 1764. The other volumes have been chosen, not because of the individuals whose reading they record, but rather because printed catalogs exist from that time. One was printed in 1790 and another in 1830-31. Those catalogs ease the task of identifying the books charged out.

9-1-1: 1762 (March)-1763 (December) – classes of 1763 & 1764, plus Overseers and Tutors
[78] p., UA III.50.15.60VT.

This is the only record of books charged out before the fire of 1764.

9-1-2: 1789-1794 Record of books charged out to Corporation, Overseers, Tutors, and others
374 p.

The following pages were blank and were not filmed: 2, 12-16, 22, 26, 50, 53-54, 56-58, 68-70, 74, 82, 97-98, 108, 111-112, 114, 120, 123-126, 135, 153-158, 160, 162, 165-166, 170, 172, 175-176, 190-192, 195-196, 206-207, 240, 245, 247-248, 256, 264-265, 267-268, 274, 278-282, 308, 310-312, 317-318, 322, 325-329, 335-339, 347-349, 356-357, 361, 364, 366-367, 371-373.

9-1-3: 1794-1796 Record of books charged out to Corporation, Overseers, Tutors, and others
[2], 88, [1] p.

9-1-4: 1796-1799 Reserve list, 10 p.

This seems to be a list of books that individuals wanted to take out upon their return to the Library; thus it appears to be relevant to an investigation of reading tastes.

9-1-5: 1831/32 Record of books charged to students, officers, and others, in several series of pagination: 167, 96, 60 (pp. 54-59 being blank), 60 p.

Undergraduates and the library

9-2-1: "The Undergraduate and the Harvard Library, 1765-1877"
Keyes D. Metcalf. Harvard Library Bulletin, 1 (1947), 29-51.

Also filmed is "The Undergraduate and the Harvard Library, 1877-1937," Robert W. Lovett, Harvard Library Bulletin, 1 (1947), 221-237.

9-2-2: Catalogus librorum in bibliotheca Cantabrigiensi selectus, frequentiore in usum Harvardianum, qui gradu baccalaurei in artibus nondum sunt donati
Boston, 1773. 27 p. UA III.50.15.34.

The catalog of the portion of the library most accessible to undergraduates.

9-2-3: Catalogue of Books, Which May Be Taken from the Library of Harvard University by Members of the Freshman Class
Cambridge: Printed for the University, 1814. 12 p. HUF 523.14.

9-2-4: Four lists of prohibited books.
Undated but late 18th century and early 19th
8 p. UA III.50.28.10.

9-2-5: Andrews Norton, letter to President Kirkland [1815?] on the "advantages which I thought would result from separating the books intended for the use of the undergraduates from the General Library."
8 p. + other documents concerning use during the librarianship of Andrews Norton,
4 p. UA III.50.28.13.

9-2-6: Catalogue of books in the Library of Harvard University for the use of the undergraduates and of books to be added for their use, ca. 1815
90 p. UA III.50.15.41.8.

A statement dated 15 August 1841 notes that the list was prepared about 25 years ago. Since the catalogue, which does give some dates of imprints, records an 1813 date (and perhaps others more recent), the statement of 1841 is approximately correct. In addition to listing titles, this classed catalog contains many notes, some on editions and sometimes on reasons for including a particular work. A label on the spine seems to read: Classed Catalogue of Books for Undergraduates Norton [i.e. Andrews Norton].

9-2-7: Thaddeus William Harris, letter to President Quincy, 24 February 1840, about the selection of books for the students' reading room in the new library
1 p. Harvard College Papers, 2d series, vol. X, p. 17, UA I.5.125.

9-2-8: Catalogue of books selected for the library of the students in 1841
[78 p.] (The date is smudged, but it is probably 1841 rather than 1844.) UA III.50.15.44.

9-2-9: Printed appeal addressed to alumni by a student committee, dated 23 October 1890
4 p. HUF 523.4.

It calls for funds for "a proper reading room" to be attached to Gore Hall, one that it would be safe to light, which would mean that it could be kept open in the evening.

9-2-10: Number not used.

9-2-11: "The Enlargement of Gore Hall"
Charles William Eliot. The Harvard Monthly, 11 (November 1890), no. 2, [43]-48. HUF 523.490.

9-2-12: The Farnsworth Room in the Harvard Library: A Catalogue of Books for Readers
Cambridge, 1931. [ix], 141, [1] p.

9-2-13: Two fund-raising publications for an undergraduate library and for an endowment fund for Lamont Library. HUF 523.531.26B. 1 + 8 p.

Each conveys the importance of the undergraduate library, but especially The Widener Reading Room: an Undergraduate View of It, gives a sense of the inadequate conditions under which undergraduates used to work.

Library regulations

For the regulations of 1667, 1736, and 1765, see the appendices (pp. 43-47), of Alfred Claghorn Potter and Charles Knowles Bolton, The Librarians of Harvard College, 1667-1877 (Cambridge, Mass., 1897), Bibliographical Contributions, no. 52. For those printed regulations issued after 1765, the following list is believed to be complete, with one exception; rules dated 11 December 1889 have been seen but can no longer be located.

9-3-1: 1823 Library Regulations for Undergraduates
1 p. HUF 523.4.

The text was reprinted in Keyes D. Metcalf, "The Undergraduate and the Harvard Library, 1765-1877," Harvard Library Bulletin, 1 (1947), 48.

9-3-2: Before 1824 Library Regulations
3 p. HUF 523.4.

9-3-3: 1824 Printed letter from President John T. Kirkland addressed to "Mr. Librarian," 17 March 1824, stating regulations concerning use of the library
1 p. HUF 523.6.73.

9-3-4: 1834 Regulations Concerning the Use of the Public Library of Harvard University
1 p. HUF 523.6.73.

Dated in manuscript: 29 September 1834.

9-3-5: 1839 Regulations Concerning the Use of the Public Library of Harvard University
1 p. HUF 523.6.73.

Dated in manuscript: 24 October 1839.

9-3-6: 1848 Extracts from the Laws Relating to the Library
Dated 1848 in manuscript. 4 p. HUF 523.4.

XI. Other Libraries

---

In addition to some general material on "departmental libraries" and on a natural history library that disappeared, this section contains early printed catalogs of the Law and Medical libraries, plus some material on Radcliffe and the University Archives. Rich resources on library letters, vol. 1, UA III.50.8.

11-2-3: Harris, T. W., letter to President Quincy, 14 October 1831, about books from the Natural History Library
1 + 1 p. In College Papers, 2d series, vol. 5, (1831-1833), pp. 25-26.

Law School Library

11-3-1: Catalogue of the Library of the Law School of Harvard University
Cambridge, Mass., 1826. 25 p. + 3 interleaved pp. UA III.50.28.18.2.

This copy is interleaved, and the entries are marked by various symbols that are explained on a leaf inserted before page 3. That explanation is made clearer by a note in another copy (HUE 48.26.12) which explains that the printed * means that the books belonged to Professor Stearns but were used by the students. Filmed first are documents relating to the transfer of books to the Law Library in 1818, 1825, 1834, and 1841, and their eventual return in 1896, 12 p.

11-3-2: Joseph Story, letter to President Quincy, 3 November 1829, on the necessity of a law library. 7 + 1 p.
College Papers, 2d series, vol. 4 (1829-1831), ll.8-12. College Papers, 2d series, vol. 4 (1829-1831), ll.8-12.

Also John H. Ashmun, letter to President Quincy, 4 November 1829, stating his concurrence "of the necessity that the students should at once be furnished with an extensive library." 2 + 1 p.

11-3-3: A Catalogue of the Law Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.
1834. viii, 80 p.

This catalog was compiled by Charles Sumner. It is filmed after another copy of the 1826 catalogue.

11-3-4: Supplement to the Catalogue of the Law Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.
(1835). [iii], 16 p.

Essentially a catalogue of the Roman, Spanish, and French law given by Samuel Livermore, and a short list of books presented by Joseph Story. HUE 48.26.12

11-3-5: A Catalogue of the Law Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.
1841. xii, 228 p.

Calls itself "second edition."

11-3-6: A Catalogue of the Law Library of Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.
(1846). "Fourth edition." [i], 354 p.

Medical School Library

Harvard's present medical library, the Francis A. Countway Library of Medicine, was formed in 1960 by the merger of the library of the Harvard Medical School and the Boston Medical Library, that merger being indicative of the traditional importance of non-Harvard medical libraries in the Boston area. Given that tradition and recent history, the story of the BML is important to an understanding of the Countway Library today.

XII. Student Society Libraries

The student society libraries provided much of the reading matter for undergraduates, as can be demonstrated from the charging records that in some instances exist. The material reproduced in this microfiche series by no means completely covers the holdings of the University Archives. Instead, they have been chosen to provide a capsule history of one student society, a detailed record of the growth and contents of another of the major student societies, and, for the sake of comparison, a catalog of the major student society library during the the 1840s, the period when the libraries seemed especially to flourish.

Adelphoi Theologia

12-1-1: Alphabetical catalogue of books belonging to the society, compiled late in 1840

36 p., plus a catalogue which records donations, 21 p. HUD 3120.750.

Also reproduced are the entries from the Journal of the society that record the decision to form a library and also the library rules adopted, pp. 51-55 (entries for 9 September to 23 September 1840). According to a letter in UA I.15 886 (l. 409), dated 17 September 1852, this society was then extinct and had been for several years. HUD 3120.500

XIII. Librarians At Harvard

This section of material on library directors and individual librarians has two purposes: to show how librarians thought about their work and about libraries in general; and to provide sources about those librarians that are not widely accessible. The absence of documents about a librarian reflects either general availability or the absence of documents. Coolidge, for instance, published in Library Journal, an accessible source, as is Daedalus where Oscar Handlin published on libraries after his tenure as Director. For biographical sketches of early librarians, see 1-1-2.

The material about the library staff in general is necessarily selective and suggestive.

Justin Winsor

13-6-1: "College Libraries as Aids to Instruction"

Justin Winsor. 27 p.

Pp. 7-14 in College Libraries as Aids to Instruction. (Washington, D.C.: Government Printing Office, 1880). Circulars of Information of the Bureau of Education, no. 1, 1880. Pp. 15-27 contain "Rochester University Library - Administration and Use," by Otis H. Robinson. HUG 1878.72

13-6-2: Autobiographical sketch in the form of a letter to Samuel S. Shaw, secretary of the Harvard Class of 1853, of which Winsor was a member. HUG 1878.5.6

Justin Winsor. Dated 25 April 1883. 1 + 15 p. (plus the printed letter from Shaw).

Shaw had asked for a statement for the Class Book.

13-6-3: Address

Justin Winsor. Ann Arbor, Mich. 1884. 47 + 1 p. + covers. HUG 1878.5.4.

Directory

Distributed by the Harvard University Library Club. November, 1940. [ii], 19 p.

The University Library Directory continues to be published annually, and it is an important source documenting changes in the structure and shape of the library system. The first five directories show the transition from a document produced by staff to facilitate community to an official publication issued by the Office of the Editor. The first five directories document the crucial transition from a wartime institution to one poised for a period of extended growth and change.

13-10-12: Personnel Information for Employees

Cambridge. 1956. 8 p. + covers.

For the personnel program developed during Paul Buck's tenure, see in his Libraries and Universities (1964), reproduced in section I (1-2-17).

13-10-13: The Iceberg

Vol. 1, nos. 1-4 (29 October 1969-10 December 1969); vol. 2, nos. 1-10, plus one extra issue (7 January 1970-4 June 1970); vol. 3, nos. 1-5 (28 October 1970-18 December 1970); "Series 3," vol. 1, nos. 1-6 (January 1971-June 1971).

Issued by staff at the time of the unrest at Harvard.

XIV. Photographs of Harvard Libraries and Librarians

The pictures filmed for this microfiche collection have for the most part not been published before, at least not in the most accessible illustrated publications. The exception is a few pictures that it was felt might show detail more clearly on microfilm. For large numbers of photographs, one should consult William Bentinck-Smith, Building a Great Library: The Coolidge Years at Harvard (Cambridge, 1976) and Kenneth E. Carpenter, The First 350 Years of the Harvard University Library (Cambridge, 1986).

In selecting materials, the emphasis was on scenes that no longer exist. Only the resources of the University Archives were drawn upon.

For the major part of the work in selecting photographs, I am grateful to Robin McElheny, Curatorial Associate for Visual Collections, in the University Archives.
