

ONLINE WITH

New on the lexis.com®
Search Screen ... Suggested Sources to Broaden Your Research . . . . . 08:058

SPOTLIGHT ON

California Official Reports
More Accurate Via lexis.com®, Says
State Reporter of Decisions . . . . . 08:059

FOR IPS ONLY

Pictures from the AALL Annual Meeting in Portland ... And a Special Offer! . . . 08:060

TAKE A TOUR

New FIND A SOURCE Tab:
Now More Flexible Searching . . . 08:062

KNOWLEDGE EXCHANGE

International Research: Tap Resources
Your Overseas Offices Use—
Via the lexis.com
Seamless Interface . . . . . 08:063

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Special New Price for Full-Text Elsevier
Journal Documents . . . . . 08:064

LexisNexis® InfoPro is Home to Zimmerman's Research Guide!
Check More Than 1,000
Entries Without Charge at <http://lexisnexis.com/infopro>

Now at LexisNexis
InfoPro—
AALL Tradeshow Literature
(See 08:060 for details)

Best Authority: Build a Table in Three Simple Steps

Ask your LexisNexis account executive or LexisNexis Librarian Relations Consultant about Best Authority for building tables of authority.

Save time—and lots of it.

Best Authority scans documents at the rate of about one page per second, on average, reducing a 2.5 hour task to 30 minutes.

Edit once; correct twice.

Edits made through Best Authority correct an improperly formatted citation in the TOA and in the brief.

No new tools to learn.

Best Authority works with standard Microsoft® Word editing tools.

Best Authority automatically recognizes citations formatted according to all common U.S. style manuals, including the Harvard Bluebook, the California Style Manual, and others. And you have the option to customize styles, schemes and dictionaries.

Ready to create a TOA? Open a Microsoft Word document and click the Best Authority icon that appears in your Word toolbar. The Best Authority Wizard walks you through the process, which has three main steps:

- Scan the document for citations. Just click SCAN NOW. You can tell Best Authority where in the document to start and end the scan, effectively excluding tables of contents, signature blocks, etc. You also designate where in the document you want the TOA to be placed.
- Review the tagged citations. A dialog box pops up at the end of the scan to show you how many citations were found.
- Build and insert the TOA. Now you're in Draft Review mode, and your screen is split. The upper screen shows the draft TOA with all the marked citations. "Suspect" citations, e.g., fragments, formatting errors, are highlighted in red. Click a citation and move to the citation's location in the actual document, which is shown in the lower screen. It's a quick, efficient way to compare—and edit. All of the corrections are made directly in Word, using Word editing tools. Plus a Draft Review box also offers more marking and editing citations. After editing, rescan the document to ensure Best Authority can properly recognize the citations.

Generating the final TOA is the simplest step—one click. You pre-select formatting and paragraph styles and schemes.

ONLINE WITH

New on the lexis.com® Search Screen ... Suggested Sources to Broaden Your Research

Select your source from the lexis.com menu, and you're ready to search.

Could there be other relevant resources?

Now it's easy to check and run one broader, more inclusive search with more relevant sources, whether they be case law, statutes, analysis, news, etc. You can even view pricing information and source details before you determine whether to add resources. And you can do it all from the lexis.com search box.

Now when you select a source within certain practice areas and state jurisdictions*, you will see up to 25 recommended sources in addition to your original selection.

Recommended sources are those deemed most relevant, regardless of your organization's access, i.e., subscription or transactional. Transactional warning/dollar sign icons will appear next to any source title outside your subscription.

You can select as many additional sources as you need—or proceed with your original source choice.

Here's what the new lexis.com search box with recommended sources might look like:

The screenshot shows the LexisNexis search interface. At the top, there are navigation tabs: My Lexis, Search, Research Tasks, Get a Document, Shepard's, Alerts, Total Litigator, Transactional Advisor, and Counsel Selector. Below these are search options: By Source, By Topic or Headnote, By Guided Search Form, and By Dot Command. The current search path is: Legal > Area of Law - By Topic > Bankruptcy > Find Statutes, Court Rules and Regulations > UCC Article 9 - Secured Transactions. The search box contains the text 'UCC Article 9 - Secured Transactions'. Below the search box, there is a section titled 'Broaden this search with additional sources'. It lists several sources with checkboxes and pricing icons: 'UCC Article 9 - Secured Transactions' (checked, source you selected), 'Multi-Jurisdictional Surveys by Topic with Analysis', 'Collier on Bankruptcy 18th Edition Revised' (checked), 'Collier Bankruptcy Manual', 'Collier Commercial Practice Plus Mega' (checked), and 'Collier Consumer Practice Plus Mega' (checked). There are also links for 'View all sources' and 'Suggest terms for my search'. Below this is a section for 'Restrict by Document Segment' and 'Restrict by Date'. At the bottom, there are sections for 'Search Connectors' and 'How Do I...?'.

- A The source you originally selected is noted.
- B Check a box to add additional relevant sources.
- C Click to view all recommended additional sources. Then select from the total list and click OK – Use Selected.
- D View a source description and transactional pricing details. (Click here.)
- E This source is outside your subscription. Click the “i” icon to see transactional pricing.

*These areas of law/jurisdictions will lead to recommended sources: Banking & Financial Services, Bankruptcy, Construction, Criminal Law, Environment, Estates, Gifts & Trusts, Family Law, Labor & Employment, Litigation Practice & Procedure, Medical Malpractice, Patent Law, Personal Injury, Product Liability, Real Estate, Taxation, Trademark Law, California, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Insurance, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia. Additional areas of law and jurisdictions will be added.

SPOTLIGHT ON

California Official Reports More Accurate Via lexis.com, Says State Reporter of Decisions

“With regard to California Supreme Court and published Court of Appeal opinions, and particularly recently filed opinions (i.e., filed within the last 15 months or so), LexisNexis is a more accurate, authentic, up-to-date, and reliable source for citing and quoting.”

Edward Jessen, Reporter of Decisions, California Supreme Court, recently spoke about the court’s relationship with LexisNexis and what researchers can expect from the “official reporter:”

“LexisNexis is, by state contract, the Official Reports print publisher, but it is also the publisher of the official online version of opinions on the LexisNexis service, and it has very significant responsibilities to conform to various contract requirements relating to authenticity, integrity, and accuracy.

“It also is obligated to work closely with this office in checking, verifying, and enhancing opinions for publication, and it must respond with overnight updates to lexis.com for any editorial directions we give. The versions of opinions as edited for the Official Reports advance pamphlets, including citations and point pages, must appear on lexis.com about a week before the advance pamphlets in which opinions appear are published.

“What this means is that when we call chambers with a problem, or vice versa, during the period for prepublication editing for the Official Reports advance pamphlets, those changes are made overnight on lexis.com. And the overall editing, styling, and enhancing for the Official Reports, including countless corrections of cites and quotes that can be resolved without bothering chambers, appear on lexis.com at least a week before printing.

“Notably, this means that official citations for recently filed opinions are available on the lexis.com service months—literally—before you will find Official Reports citations on the Westlaw® version of opinions, and you may never find on Westlaw’s versions of opinions the countless other cite, quote, and clerical corrections made for Official Reports publication.

“The appellate court system in California, and particularly this office, can only fully support one opinion publisher, and by virtue of the Official Reports publication contract, that publisher has been LexisNexis for the last five years. We have a limited ability to pass along to West® very significant changes that arise in the prepublication editing process for the advance pamphlets, and West’s editors do sometimes raise queries with this office based on something they come across in headnoting and otherwise preparing California opinions for print or Westlaw publication.

“But as a matter of policy, West waits until we send it a copy of the final bound-volume manuscript that was generated for the Official Reports before partially updating and correcting its versions of opinions to conform with the Official Reports. Our final bound-volume manuscript is not generated and made final for about 15 months after advance pamphlet publication. And I use the term “partially update” because West has a corporate editing style for the National Reporter System that is not particularly consistent with the California Official Reports, and its corporate editing styles will trump reconciling to the Official Reports.

Edward Jessen

“Meanwhile, the authentic, accurate, official, and most up-to-date computer versions of California opinions will have been available on lexis.com for all those 15 months. Sure, the difference is perhaps only (or mostly) in the details, but the anecdote I recall is when the California Supreme Court filed Sandoval (41 Cal.4th 825) and Black II (41 Cal. 4th 799). There were many opinions pending in the Courts of Appeal waiting for those opinions before, in turn, the Courts of Appeal could file their opinions. So I got 50 or more “how to cite” Sandoval and Black inquiries the first couple of weeks after those opinions were filed, and many came with excerpts of what was going to be cited and quoted in the Court of Appeal’s opinion.

“Where Westlaw was the source, the corporate editing was palpable and the result was significantly different in styling from what the Supreme Court filed, and from what was published in the Official Reports, not to mention a couple of minor clerical corrections made by the author that added clarity to some key passages in Sandoval and Black II.”

“Official citations for recently filed opinions are available on the lexis.com service months—literally—before you will find Official Reports citations on Westlaw’s version of opinions, and you may never find on Westlaw’s versions of opinions the countless other cite, quote, and clerical corrections made for Official Reports publication.”

—Edward Jessen, Reporter of Decisions, California Supreme Court

Read Jessen’s viewpoint in its entirety at: <http://law.lexisnexis.com/infopro>

FOR IPS ONLY

Pictures From the AALL Annual Meeting in Portland ...

Didn't make the meeting? You can still review the LexisNexis products that your colleagues reviewed on the exhibit floor.

A Special Offer ...

Download the product literature from every LexisNexis booth station—right from the LexisNexis InfoPro Web site.

It's simple. Just register at LexisNexis InfoPro. (Already registered? Great. You're ready to go, plus you'll have access to additional materials not available to non-subscribers.) Tradeshow literature is available at <http://law.lexisnexis.com/infopro/Professional-and-Personal-Development/AALL-Literature-from-the-Tradeshow-Floor/>

Your LexisNexis Librarian Relations Consultant and your LexisNexis account team can also review any LexisNexis products of interest. Need to connect with your Librarian Relations Consultant? Go to <http://law.lexisnexis.com/infopro/Librarian-Relations-Group/Meet-the-LRCs>

More than 20 LexisNexis resources were featured in this year's exhibit stations by LexisNexis product experts and the Librarian Relations Group, including (L-R) Cindy Spohr, Team Lead, and LexisNexis Librarian Relations Consultants, including Gayle Lynn-Nelson, Elizabeth Cavendish, Rachel Baarz, Rhonda Keaton and Dianne Chambers.

Michael Saint-Onge, Team Lead of the LexisNexis Librarian Relations Group, reviews the variety of librarian relations programs available through LexisNexis.

At the opening event—a dessert extravaganza—LexisNexis Librarian Relations Consultants joined hundred of librarian colleagues who sampled the best Portland sweets, including Voodoo Doughnuts and Moonstruck Chocolates.

This year's Social Responsibilities SIS book drive netted more than 400 books and more than $2,000 in gift cards, checks and donations for the Willamette Writers Books for Kids program. LexisNexis was proud to donate 142 books to the 10th annual drive. Congratulations SR-SIS! Great job!

TAKE A TOUR

FIND A SOURCE Tab: Now More Flexible Searching

Click the FIND A SOURCE tab on lexis.com. It looks a little different. But it's very new and very different.

With input and guidance from information professionals, the FIND A SOURCE tab has been revamped to offer more flexibility in pinpointing lexis.com resources.

Now there are two options for finding sources.

Option 1: Type in a Keyword or Phrase. Now you can enter—

- a few search words, e.g., mental health
- search words and connectors, labor /5 arbitrat!
- a short (library/file) name, e.g., to find The New York Times®, ENTER: news;nyt

That's right. Use a natural-language search or search words and connectors. No buttons to select.

So you can enter ohio employment and find OH Labor & Employment Cases.

And every FIND A SOURCE search now looks in a variety of Online Guide segments (not just source title), so you can enter search terms and possibly find relevant sources that don't have the search terms in the publication title.

For example, enter a very broad search such as mental health in FIND A SOURCE and find Mental Health Weekly Digest and Mental Health Business Weekly, but also retrieve Diagnostic Statistics Manual of Mental Disorders.

Plus the results are ranked by relevance. Each found source will be listed once, without source paths. Each search retrieves up to 300 sources.

Need more than one source for your research? Now combine sources directly from your FIND A SOURCE results screen. Sources available for combining will have white checkboxes next to the titles. Just check the boxes next to the sources you wish to search and click Combine Sources at the top of the screen.

Option 2: Browse Alphabetically

Select a letter of the alphabet and scroll through the list to find a source by its title.

Within each letter, a dropdown box will be available so you can jump quickly to a portion of the listing that contains the title you are looking for. As with option 1, search results will list a source only one time, rather than multiple times, and will show only the source name (no source hierarchy).

International Research: Tap Resources Your Overseas Offices Use—Via the lexis.com Seamless Interface

by Liz Peoples, LexisNexis Librarian Relations Consultant

Do you ever get a jolt of panic when you get questions about insurance laws in the United Kingdom, fishing treaties in Australia, or maybe a patent question that needs U.S. and German guidelines?

Conducting international legal research can be a challenge. When launching into an international research request, I have done a variety of things:

- searched for international sources via the Web,
- tried to gain access to a law school's international collection sources, and/or
- dialed and e-mailed the consulates, embassies, trade organizations, etc.

All the while I'm wondering: Are these sources the most current? Did I get it all?

When I want to learn about sources for topics unknown to me, I often utilize Zimmerman's Research Guides—The Online Encyclopedia for Legal Researchers, which is available through the LexisNexis InfoPro Web site (www.law.lexisnexis.com/infopro) Andrew Zimmerman states in the International Law section: "It can be exceptionally hard to find international law materials."

I could not have said it better. But research has recently become much easier with the LexisNexis services. In addition to the thousands of international resources available through lexis.com, LexisNexis Global Research available as a seamless interface through lexis.com gives you easy access to the international legal content sources your overseas offices utilize as well.*

That's more than 1,000 international legal sources from Australia, Canada, Germany, New Zealand and the United Kingdom—and more than 800 sources are brand new, i.e., not on the regular lexis.com interface.

Once your organization subscribes to LexisNexis Global Legal Research, you can link directly from lexis.com. The link will be located in the International Law practice area (select the Legal tab then International Law) and through the LexisNexis International Practice Center.

The Global Legal Research source list is very extensive: I like to browse and then choose my sources by topic and then filter by country. You can also choose your language type—English for me but German and French are also available, which is great for attorneys visiting from international offices.

In fact it's great to offer LexisNexis Global Legal Research to visiting European attorneys. They're already familiar with the platform. Voila! They are productive and providing results using LexisNexis Global Research—no down time learning a new system.

After completing a search, you receive the results categorized by source so that you choose between case law, treaties, and news materials.

Liz Peoples

In addition to important federal and state law reports, legislation, new journals, newsletters, and bulletins, the following key content—not available through lexis.com—is available via LexisNexis Global Legal Research:

- Commentary: Exclusive legal encyclopedia and treatises such as Halsburys Laws of England; Butterworths Corporate Law Service; Erman: Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch (Erman on the German Civil Code)
- Forms & Precedents: Exclusive form books such as Atkins Court Forms (UK) and Australian Encyclopedia of Forms & Precedents.
- Citators: Such as QuickCITE™ Citorator (Canada); Halsburys "Is It In Force" (UK); Status Compendium (NZ)
- Reference Materials: Many new reference materials including Practice and Procedure (Australia); LexisNexis Rechtswörterbuch (German law dictionary); bills and rules of court.
- New Countries/Sources: German and EU case law, legislation, journals; Australian and New Zealand legislation.
- Exclusive Tax Sources: Simons Direct Tax Service and over 30 Tolley's tax publications.
- Local content: Such as decisions from 99 Canadian boards and tribunals and Anthony and Berrymans Magistrate's Court Guide (UK).

Plus get links! Some encyclopedia and law reports will contain links to legislation, case law and other sources.

Cheerio! By using the LexisNexis Global Research you are off to having excellent access to International research resources on lexis.com.

*Not available to law school subscribers

EXTRA! EXTRA!

Special New Price for Full-Text Elsevier Journal Documents**

Go to the GET A DOCUMENT tab at lexis.com and request any available full-text article from any of the 1,000+ Elsevier Full-Text Journals.

And go now because you can retrieve each full-text document for only $20. (Plus, if you need an official PDF for your research or filing, you can add the article PDF for an additional $30.)

One request ... one source. No multiple vendors. No multiple billings. Plus:

- No additional charges for processing or copyright.
- No special charges for fax or rush services. You get your document immediately; same price.
- Elsevier Get a Document charges appear on your LexisNexis PowerInvoice™ service invoices for easy billing management.

And request as many documents as you need. The per-document cost stays the same.

Find peer-reviewed articles for intellectual properties and medical research, litigation and more. Got citations from expert curricula vitae? Go get the articles quickly—and without memorizing a variety of citation formats.

Because Elsevier titles do not have standardized or blue book-like citations. LexisNexis has created a citation format so customers can quickly, easily and economically locate specific articles. You just need the publication title, year, volume, number and page range.

Here's how to retrieve a full-text Elsevier article:

1. Click the GET A DOCUMENT tab on the main lexis.com menu.
2. Click Citation Formats.
3. Enter your publication name or partial name, e.g., life sciences; Click Find.
4. Click the citation link. Add year, volume, number and page range. (See graphic.)
5. Click Get.

(2007) 80 LANCNE 24-25 2375-2379
Year Vol. Title No. Page Range

LexisNexis® Information Professional Update

Newsletter editions are also available at <http://www.lexisnexis.com/infopro>

LexisNexis Information Professional Update is a monthly newsletter (November/December issues combined) for law-firm, law-school, corporate, and government information professionals published by LexisNexis, P.O. Box 933, Dayton, OH 45401-0933.

Managing Editor

Barbara M. Byrd
barbara.byrd@lexisnexis.com

Contributors

Georgia Akers
Linda Banks
Kara Cox
Carol Sandy

Legal Liaison

Shari Townsend

For comments or questions regarding legal products, contact:

Cindy Spohr, MLS

Team Lead, LexisNexis Customer Consultant Group
cindy.spohr@lexisnexis.com

LexisNexis, lexis.com and the Knowledge Burst logo are registered trademarks of Reed Elsevier Properties Inc., used under license. PowerInvoice is a trademark of LexisNexis, a division of Reed Elsevier Inc. QuickCITE is a trademark of LexisNexis Canada, Inc. Other products or services may be trademarks or registered trademarks of their respective companies. © 2008 LexisNexis, a division of Reed Elsevier. All Rights Reserved. LB2008-8 0708

**May not be available to government subscribers. Not available to law school subscribers.