EU Tax Cases Tracker

The service that not only shows you the effect of an important tax case on your business, but also saves you hours of research time.

FU Tax Cases Tracker – the new online service from LexisNexis®

Allows you not only to assess how a direct or indirect tax case in Europe may affect you, but also, in one simple search, will show you the full judgment and related documents, with links to HMRC guidance, legislation, commentary, relevant cases and much more, ALL in ONE place.

If you are spending time searching for all this information across multiple sites, then EU Tax Cases Tracker, with its coverage across key Member States, will enable you to work quicker and smarter.

16 expert EU consultants, practising in the key EU jurisdictions and led by Philip Baker QC, will ensure that the service offers you real-time, authoritative information upon which you can rely. This specialist panel will provide vital information across the Member States on the latest judgments and their impact in each country, and little known facts about leading domestic judgments not referred to the ECJ.

This service will provide the following:

- 1 Early identification of cases that are likely to be referred (i.e. rumoured/prospective cases) or which have been referred, to the ECJ and the issues these cases raise
- 2 Tracking of cases once they are with the Registry at the ECJ: e.g. tracking the various written stages in the procedure, and any decisions taken regarding the disposition of the case
- 3 Tracking when the Opinion and the Judgment are published
- 4 Tracking what happens to a case once it returns to the national court (in the case of a reference for a preliminary ruling), or the impact in terms of national legislation (e.g. in infringement proceedings). E.g. it has been particularly difficult in recent years to keep up with what has happened to the Marks & Spencer case in the UK, or the Cadbury Schweppes case, after they returned to the national courts
- 5 Uniquely, identification of those cases that are not being referred to the ECJ: e.g. where national courts considered that the issue was acte claire making it unnecessary to make a reference

All this is underpinned by expert analysis from our panel of EU experts. The service also includes:

- Court diary entries detailing forthcoming European court dates
- Detailed reports and analysis of ECJ case judgments, including local and European implications and further expected developments
- European tax current awareness news, blogs and 'rumoured cases'
- Regular European case news and analysis from a distinguished European Editorial Board comprised of a network of tax experts in the key European jurisdictions, led by Philip Baker QC

EU Tax Cases Tracker is complementary to the EU Tracker service which tracks EU legislation (directives and regulations).

"Before we had EU Tracker from LexisNexis we found the necessary information notoriously hard to get hold of. Lots of information that is on the web is out of date and incorrect." Buffy Bowles - HR Director.
