LexisNexis is the place for unrivaled expert witness resources

Have an expert's name? You can start with expert résumés or expert directories. Move to Daubert Tracker to find challenges. Move on to testimonial transcripts. Then to verdicts and settlements. Review articles mentioning the expert or those written by the expert. Check opinions and dockets. With all this and more, get a comprehensive picture and plan your case strategy with confidence. You'll be better prepared to determine which expert to use and to mitigate the testimony of your opponent's expert. In other words, you'll get better results.

Need to find an expert?

A search in the Martindale-Hubbell Experts & Services database can help you locate an expert quickly and easily, by specialty or location. Go to experts.martindale.com and search through more than 150,000 expert profiles to find the right expert for your matter.

LexisNexis Full-Service Expert Witness Search powered by IDEX

Maybe you're struggling with lack of resources. Or you're experiencing time constraints. Then again, perhaps there's just a lack of familiarity with expert witness research. If you want to have someone do the research for you, just submit a request for information to IDEX by phone, fax, or online form.

Research staff will retrieve relevant information and send you a concise report—electronic or print—in two or three business days. Materials include testimonial history, depositions, transcripts, CVs, license discipline information, challenges, and articles naming or written by the expert.

The staff at IDEX review all this information carefully to identify each expert properly. They identify name variations and misspellings and correct them before adding documents to the database. This helps you uncover critical information that could make or break your case. Other vendors don't take this extra step.
