

Leverage the Full Potential of Your DMS and Enterprise Search

Increase the ROI on your internal document collection while facilitating better efficiency and more effective legal research across your firm.

More than ever before, every practice today needs to be effective and efficient to ensure profitability. With Lexis® Search Advantage and Lexis® Document Profiling, you can help maximize the value of technology investments while delivering tools to both enrich and simplify research and document drafting for your attorneys.

Lexis Search Advantage can help your firm:

- Increase efficiency by bringing associates up to speed more quickly with the help of model documents written by experts—the members of your own firm.
- Increase productivity and service by enabling attorneys to readily find best practices, exceptional work product and even successful writing styles.
- Make the most of attorney time by reducing the volume of unproductive e-mail and telephone exchanges that tend to multiply when newer associates seek insight on unfamiliar matters.
- Enable more effective, comprehensive research that can lead to more consistent client service across your firm.

Enrich your content and enhance your search with Lexis® Search Advantage

Apply greater search precision across your firm's internal documents, and link those documents in real time with trusted LexisNexis® information and up-to-date validation through the Shepard's® Citations Service.

Lexis Search Advantage works with your existing document management system (DMS) and other internal systems, enhanced by the power of your Enterprise Search engine. This dynamic combination helps attorneys easily pinpoint relevant matters and legal expertise—and also quickly find and validate internal pleadings, depositions, memos, deal documents, motions and more.

From those documents, Lexis Search Advantage provides one-click access to other relevant internal documents, plus the full breadth of cases and codes, news, business information and analytical content available on the LexisNexis services.

Shepard's Signal™ indicators are automatically included internal in documents to help researchers quickly verify the legal validity of citations.

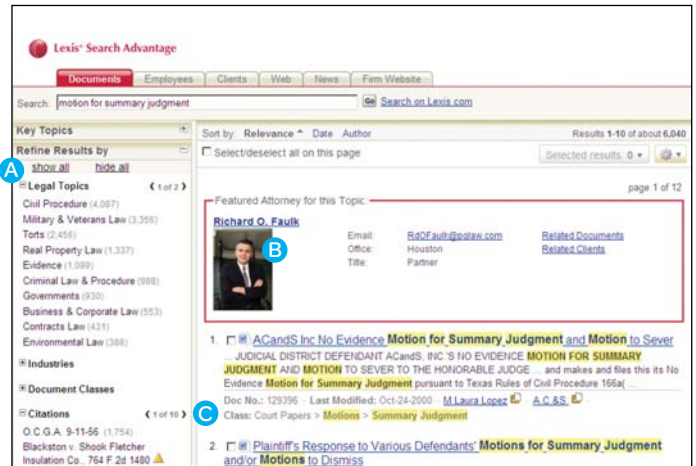

Find documents with ease

A simple, uncluttered interface includes role-based search tabs that highlight valuable content according to individual needs.

Enhance your search

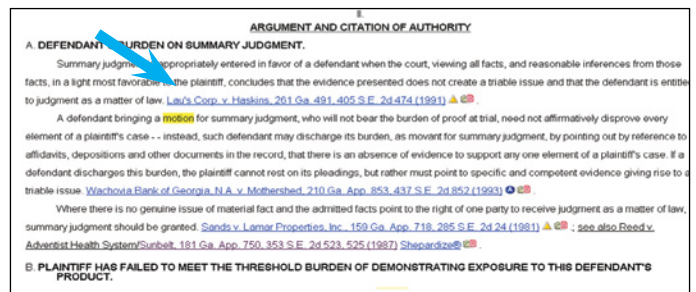

Easily narrow your search results, view relevant profile information and validate internal content.

- A Navigate and narrow search results with legal-specific information, such as cited courts; jurisdiction/governing law; and attorney, law firm and company names.
- B Leverage advanced legal-specific analytics to showcase expertise.
- C Click on a document to validate and research your content using the LexisNexis services.

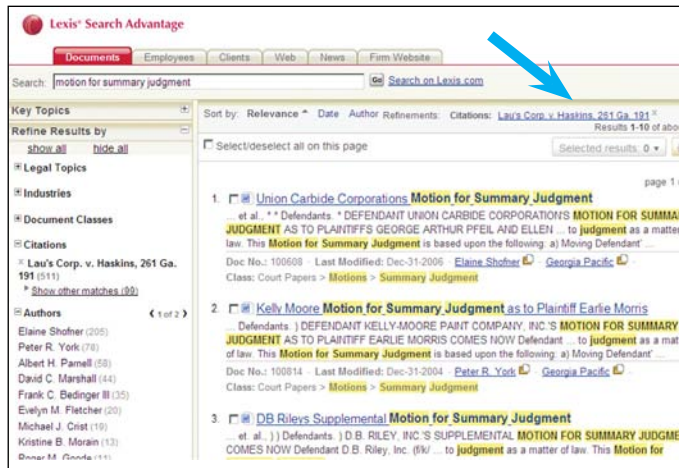

Gain enhanced content

Link directly to case law, statutes, company information, legal analysis and other valuable material at lexis.com®, receive real-time Shepard's treatment, and search for other content citing a case—all from within your own documents through the familiar Lexis Search Advantage interface. You can also search at the section and clause levels to find the best content to reuse from your own prior work product.

Find internal precedent

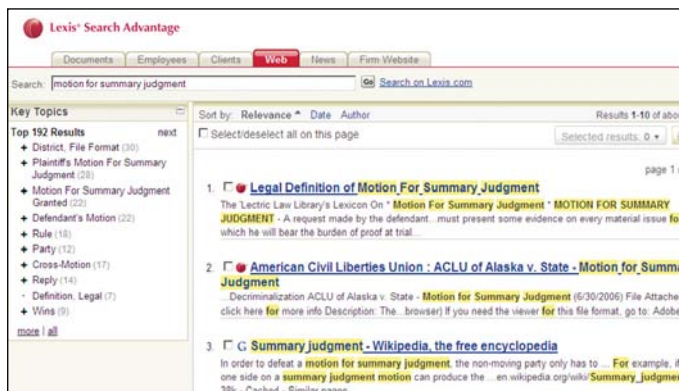

View other documents citing relevant case law by clicking hyperlinked citations.

Simultaneously search externally

Simultaneously search, navigate and narrow external content, such as SEC materials, using the same search syntax and familiar search interface.

Powerful Lexis Search Advantage clustering technology improves your browse experience by providing on-the-fly categorization.

Lexis Search Advantage

Leverage the investment you have made, or are about to make in an Enterprise Search engine to increase efficiency and effectiveness across your firm.

Finding specific documents and model forms can take multiple steps if you don't have best-of-breed software. With less sophisticated tools, attorneys might need to separately search internal documents, other internal content and external content—then manually validate case law.

But with Lexis Search Advantage you can simultaneously search all internal content and external LexisNexis sources. You get a comprehensive results set, and the documents you retrieve have Shepard's Signal indicators built in.

Lexis Search Advantage provides a streamlined, simple interface enabling you to accomplish more with greater efficiency. Even simultaneously search, navigate and narrow external content from the World Wide Web.

Supported Enterprise Search engines include:

- Vivismo®
- FAST
- Autonomy®
- Recommind®

Accurately categorize and organize your internal documents with Lexis Document Profiling

Lexis Document Profiling enables professionals in your firm to easily classify and tag documents for optimal search ability. Less administrative work and more effective searching can free attorneys to focus more time on the legal needs of clients.

You also gain a standardized document platform with Lexis Document Profiling. As a result, your IT project pipeline can move more quickly and technical staff can save months on critical projects.

Lexis Document Profiling works seamlessly with the combination of Lexis Search Advantage and your Enterprise Search engine. Components of Lexis Document Profiling enable you to categorize for specific circumstances and requirements:

Categorize documents retrospectively and prospectively, and create firm-specific classifications—for example, document type, practice group, jurisdiction and area of law. Automation rules are customized for your firm to make profile creation faster and more consistent.

Enforce your established ethical walls and manage risk with customized security that prevents inadvertent access to documents that might pose a conflict of interest.

- Perform an initial audit of your firm's ethical walls
- Monitor and enforce your document management security compliance
- Discover and lock down unsecured documents

Migrate documents from one DMS to another as firm needs change.

- Extract information from one DMS, format it and migrate it to another
- Perform mappings and data conversions, as appropriate
- Resolve or manage discrepancies between different document management systems

Merge two document management installations to complete a firm merger.

- Extract information from one DMS, format it and migrate it to another when two firms are merging
- Merge and simplify categories between two firms

Technical Advantages

Lexis Search Advantage and Lexis Document Profiling provide behind-the-firewall services with low impact on existing systems and high return on IT investment. The classification provided by Document Profiling frees up your information services team to focus on other priority projects.

The technology used in both of these products:

- Is highly scalable and efficient
- Leverages existing content and search investments
- Provides rapid implementation with minimal IT involvement
- Involves hands-off maintenance and upgrades

What do customers say about Lexis Document Profiling?

"Document Profiling enhanced the value of our document collection by allowing our attorneys to tap the full breadth of the firm's work product quickly and efficiently. ... These efficiencies allow us to serve clients in a more expeditious way, and free our attorneys to pursue more profitable, higher-value work on behalf of the firm."
