LexisNexis®

Take control of e-discovery with flexible, integrated solutions for early data assessment, processing and document review.

Complete early data assessment prior to processing

How can you identify the most relevant documents as early as possible? Use LexisNexis® Early Data Analyzer to gain insight into the size and scope of responsive data by filtering, indexing and searching data right at the source location—on your network drive or an external drive. Eliminate duplicate, irrelevant and non-responsive files before time-consuming processing.
Dramatic data reduction

"In six days, we went from 1TB to a 74GB production with the help of LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer. Still a lot of data, but we were feeling the weight on our shoulders (and our document collection) coming off."

—Wade Peterson, Director of Practice Support, Bowman & Brooke

Process electronic and paper documents

Then, use LAW PreDiscovery™ software, which works as the "processing engine" to bring in all of the potential evidentiary documents—both paper and electronic—needed throughout discovery.

This software allows your team to further eliminate duplicate, irrelevant and non-responsive files—and then process only the essential data prior to costly document review.

Process data prior to document review with LAW PreDiscovery software to help save time and money.

New revenue for your firm

"By taking back control of e-discovery and eliminating our dependence on outside vendors for data processing, we now have 100% oversight of all e-discovery production and deadline requirements. LAW PreDiscovery paid for itself in just 30 days of use and allowed us to generate new revenue for the firm throughout the past year, while saving our clients a significant amount of money on their e-discovery expenses."
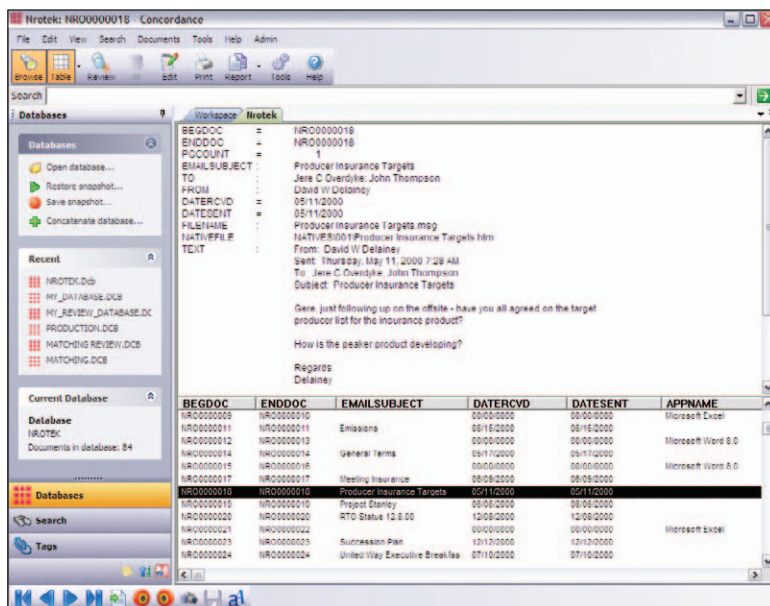

—Phil Iantosca, Litigation Support, Manager, Murphy & King

Document review

After you've cut data down to the relevant documents with LAW PreDiscovery, simply export potentially responsive data to Concordance® discovery management software. Concordance helps you manage and review the high volume of documents and allows your litigation team to search, review, produce and share litigation documents.

Are multiple parties working on your case? Concordance® FYI™ helps you collaborate in real time to find facts and analyze with precision. It's designed to go beyond the desktop and onto the Web, giving you control and flexibility to grant access to a document reviewer, your client or an expert as needed.

Use Concordance software to search, review and produce litigation documents.

"Concordance is very easy to learn. I can manage documents much more efficiently and perform searches quickly."

—Elizabeth Bethel, Paralegal, Jones, Bell, Abbott, Fleming & Fitzgerald L.L.P.

Hosting solutions in a secure, private cloud

In the face of rapidly increasing data volume associated with today's legal cases, litigation has become more challenging. Having quick, secure access to relevant data is essential, but adding servers can be costly. External hosting is often an optimal solution with straightforward, predictable pricing–you pay for only what you use.

With more than 35 years of legal industry data management experience, LexisNexis is committed to delivering hosting solutions, exclusive software tools and processing capacity that can accommodate a case of virtually any size and complexity. Choose from two different solutions, based on your needs:

- LexisNexis® Hosted Litigation Solutions On-Demand, giving you turnkey, collaborative, full-service, remote access to award-winning software to support your litigation on a case-by-case basis.

- LexisNexis Hosted Litigation Solutions Enterprise, offering more options—including customized, software-agnostic solutions in a private cloud specifically for your firm—to help minimize the risk and expense of hosting your own litigation data.

Beyond e-discovery: Strategize, organize, analyze, persuade and present.

As you organize and retrieve your case facts and documents, manage transcripts, generate reports and collaborate with clients and co-counsel, ensure your team has a centralized place to manage and share information. Beyond case organization and collaboration, manage and present evidence and other materials for use during hearings or trial—or even other client presentations.
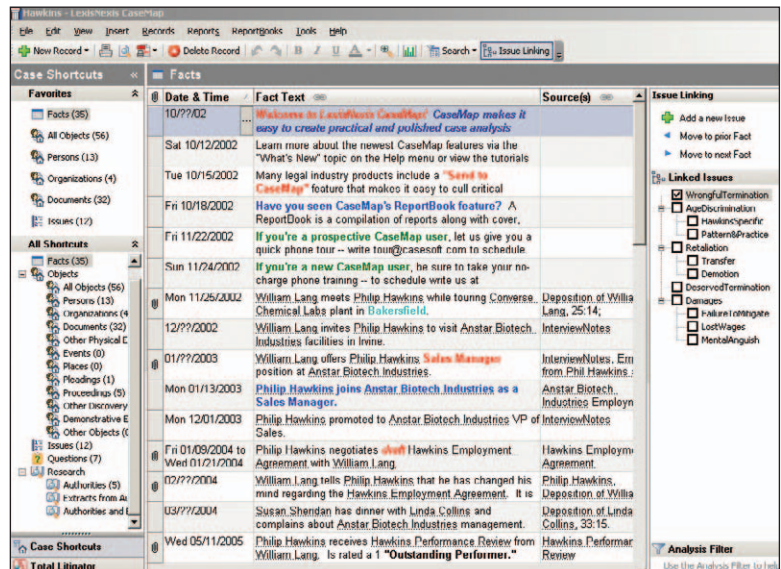

It pays to go beyond LexisNexis e-discovery solutions and explore the full suite of litigation resources designed to help you succeed—whether you're developing case strategy or preparing for depositions, hearings or trial.

Centralize information and improve your work product

CaseMap® case analysis software is a tool for effectively capturing, organizing and evaluating the relevant facts, players and issues in a case. CaseMap gives you the ability to share case research and insight across offices, making for easier collaboration. Most important, it ties all of the facts, issues and evidence together to help you develop your case strategy and compiles this critical case knowledge into a polished PDF report.

CaseMap brings order to the chaos of facts in a case. It keeps the critical facts at my fingertips. And CaseMap provides clients with ready access to those facts."

—Gail E. Lees, Esq., Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher LLP

Organize all case facts and documents in one central location using CaseMap software.

Identify strengths and weaknesses in testimony

TextMap® transcript management software helps you manage depositions, locate key evidence quickly, identify strengths and weaknesses of testimony, and work with video transcripts and real-time feeds. Integration with CaseMap software makes it easy to send full transcripts or key summary passages to incorporate with other facts.

Generate polished timelines for presentation

TimeMap® timeline graphing tool quickly transforms litigation details into polished visual timelines to help your litigation team, witnesses, clients, the judge, jurors and other key players understand the sequence of events in a case. You can easily send those timelines directly to CaseMap software for reference or Sanction® litigation presentation software for hearings, trials or other presentations.

Sanction® joins LexisNexis® Litigation Solutions

LexisNexis has acquired Sanction Solutions®, a leading provider of innovative software that helps litigators in all sectors of the legal market create and confidently present compelling information and evidence throughout litigation. Favored by lawyers, paralegals and litigation support directors for its ease of use, LexisNexis® Sanction® will continue to focus on superior features, strong service and affordability.

Create powerful presentations

Sanction® litigation presentation software is a single resource to quickly assemble documents, exhibits, transcripts, visuals and video that will be used to present evidence throughout litigation; categorize them, and then create clear, polished and compelling presentation materials during hearings and at trial.

Look forward to seamless software integration

Sanction already connects with Concordance, CaseMap and TimeMap software. Future development will more fully align functionality, enabling you to seamlessly incorporate information from the LexisNexis litigation suite within your presentations.

"Congratulations to LexisNexis, and to Sanction. We at Rogers Towers use Sanction a lot! And I adore the Help Desk (customer support) guys in Phoenix. I look forward to working with you!"
