

Top new features and content on Lexis Advance

Shepard's enhancements provide unique and powerful functionality making the premier citator even more valuable

- Shepard's Depth of Treatment/Depth of Discussion Indicators. Quickly refine a Shepard's report to the most relevant citing references by combining treatment, greater depth of discussion and other key filtering options.
- Quickly evaluate citing references to find the key authority supporting your argument with Shepard's exclusive Best Paragraph Detail View.
- Shepard's Table of Authorities provides a list of references (cases, law reviews) that have been cited by the table case including the associated Shepard's symbols.

The screenshot shows the Shepard's Table of Authorities for the case McNeil v. Economics Laboratory, Inc. (800 F.2d 111, 1986 U.S. App. LEVUS 291). The interface includes a sidebar for narrowing results by Analysis, Court, Discussion, and Headnotes. The main table lists citing decisions with their respective Shepard's symbols (e.g., 'Followed by', 'Cited by') and a 'Best Paragraph Detail View' icon. A red box highlights the 'Table of Authorities (28)' tab, and another red box highlights the 'Best Paragraph Detail View' icon for the first entry, Duke v. Uniroyal, Inc.

Faster, precise searching for a more refined result

The screenshot shows the Lexis Advance search interface with the search term 'name (feist)'. The search results are displayed in a table with columns for Document Title, Jurisdiction, Court, and Date. A red arrow points from the search bar to the search results. The search results include cases such as Feist Publications, Inc. v. Rural Telephone Service Co., Abeshouse v. Ultragraphics, Inc., Nelson v. Bennett, In re George, Feist v. United States, Ehrman v. Feist, In re George, and Succession of Feist.

- Popular search segments are available on Lexis Advance including name, court, writtenby, title, summary, hlead, headline and more. Eg. name (Palsgraff).
- The Atleast connector allows researchers to quickly refine their search results by specifying how often a particular word appears in every document e.g. At15(Obama).
