Now it's all available from one screen.

The new LexisNexis® Corporate InfoPro Resources site gathers what you need—full-text materials as well as links to training and support sites. It's only one tab away from the BIS Users Information site. And LexisNexis will keep it updated and maintain the archive. You will be automatically re-directed to the new site if you choose the Corporate InfoPro Resources section at the LexisNexis InfoPro Website for law librarians.

You can even find sign-in pages for eight LexisNexis products at the new Corporate InfoPro site, and the LexisNexis Customer Support number is on display. Bookmark the site as a research starting point, so support is always handy.

Here's an overview of what you'll find at the New Corporate InfoPro Website:

New Source Listings

Check the monthly updates under New News & Business Sources—and a full year of archives as well. Find coverage details for each new source listed.

Details on more than 40,000 LexisNexis sources

The Searchable Directory of Online Sources, listed right up top under Reference Materials, is a simple, form-based search tool that helps you find source details. See what a source covers, check update frequency and more. Plus find sources by country or region. Pinpoint sources offered in various languages—or sources that cover specific topics. Try it.

eNewsletters with search tips, examples, Webinars and more

You can subscribe from this Website. And check the archives when you can't find your eNewsletter edition in your overflowing email folders.

The screenshot shows the LexisNexis Corporate InfoPro website. At the top, it says "Welcome to LexisNexis®" and "Choose your product to get started." Below this is a navigation bar with "Learn about your product" and "InfoPro Resources". A main banner features a woman working on a laptop with the text "Resources designed specifically for the Advanced Researcher". To the right, there are sections for "eNewsletter" (with a "SUBSCRIBE HERE" button), "Training" (with a "MORE LEARNING OPTIONS" button), and "Sites of interest". The main content area is titled "Corporate InfoPro" and includes a description: "The InfoPro Resources site is designed to provide corporate information professionals and deep researchers with information on the LexisNexis products and services." Below this are four columns of content: "Newsletters" (listing LexisNexis Corporate Information Professional Update and LexisNexis InfoPro Monthly), "Reference Materials" (listing Searchable Directory of Online Sources, LexisNexis Smartindexing Technology Resource Center, Zimmerman's Research Guide, and LexisNexis Publisher Resource Center), "Research Tips" (listing SVOOT analysis, How can I find the assets an individual currently owns?, International Sources: Highlights of Recent Additions, Triple Bottom Line Reporting with 3BL Media, and News Bites), and "New News & Business Sources" (listing a list of months from 2013 to 2012). On the far right, there is a "Customer support" section with a "800-543-0802" number and a "Research directly from the new LexisNexis News Search iPhone® or iPad® app or mobile site" section with a "LEARN MORE" button.

LexisNexis® Corporate Information Professional Update profiles new sources and feature functionality, offering a deep dive into what they offer and how you can use them to your advantage. The quarterly Update also highlights the “tried and true” sources and features your colleagues and your LexisNexis account representatives find most helpful.

LexisNexis® InfoPro Monthly offers more timely news and announcements from LexisNexis—upcoming Webinars, new videos and other customer materials. Plus find short research tips from LexisNexis power searchers. These tips are also offered under their own Research Tips heading for easy access.

LexisNexis® Smart Meeting features grow—at no additional cost to you

LexisNexis® Smart Meeting is getting smarter in order to help business professionals work smarter. Now LexisNexis Smart Meeting subscribers can use a variety of new enhancements to their advantage.

LexisNexis Smart Meeting helps ensure you're totally prepared for your next business meeting with just-in-time, mobile-friendly reports that deliver the latest intelligence that could impact your meeting—critical details such as financial results, recent M&A, executive changes and more.

Only LexisNexis Smart Meeting integrates with Microsoft® Outlook® Calendar—no additional program to open or special steps to remember. Briefing reports are triggered when you, or your support staff, schedule or accept meetings in Outlook.

Reports are delivered to your email at the time you request—automatically—so you have updates on any prior company research. With coverage on over 80 million companies and 26,000 news sources, we can help you stay up to date on companies of interest.

And now LexisNexis Smart Meeting offers an updated version for subscribers. This new edition:

- Enables administrative staff performing calendar management to request reports on your behalf
- Gives you the ability to schedule reports for recurring meetings—receive reports for each new meeting or only the first one
- Includes company press releases in your news report, so you can stay current on what companies are saying about themselves
- Allows you to specify domains that you want LexisNexis Smart Meeting to ignore/not automatically recommend in reports (If you do not use Microsoft Exchange, you can avoid receiving reports on your own company when attendees are from your company.)
- Delivers a reformatted and expanded Quick Report to extend the content being returned to you and improves your ability to navigate key sections of interest
