

UNCOVER PIVOTAL CITING PASSAGES FASTER: NEW REASON FOR SHEPARD'S SIGNAL™ FEATURE

Distinctive and familiar Shepard's Signal™ indicators help you quickly understand the impact of subsequent cases on your issue. And now you can find and review the most important citing references even faster. The exclusive Reason for *Shepard's Signal feature now displays in full-text Lexis Advance® cases dated after March 2003 in all available jurisdictions.

HERE'S HOW THE REASON FOR SHEPARD'S SIGNAL DISPLAY HELPS YOU GAIN RELEVANT INSIGHT FASTER:

- A. Review the top citing reference for your case's treatment—no added charge! Just click the Reason for Shepard's Signal™? link in a full-text case. Without leaving the case, a new window displays showing the citing reference that had the strongest influence on the *Shepard's Signal analysis. You'll quickly know why the signal indicator was assigned. (Click the X in the top-right corner to close this window.)
- B. Review the top citing reference in context. Place your cursor on the top reference; the text turns red. Click to move to that top reference in the full-text citing case, highlighted for quick review. To exit the citing case, click your ← back browser button in the top-left corner of the screen.
- C. Move to your cited case's headnotes—either the headnote cited or all case headnotes.
- D. Review other citing cases that contributed to the Shepard's Signal indicator for your case.
- E. Get more details on top citing references, as well as reference materials and other research tips for the Shepard's® Citations Service, through online Help screens.

More New Shepard's® Enhancements

Your Shepard's report results are now even easier to review so you can quickly pinpoint the insights you need.

- Filter results to view just reported or unreported citing cases, or filter to view Briefs, Pleadings and Motions.
- Use the Search Within Results box to search within segments (document parts), e.g., ENTER: opinionby(ginsburg).
- Download Shepard's® BriefCheck™ reports into Microsoft® Excel® for easy filtering and sorting (not shown).
