

THREE BRIEFS DRAFTED BEFORE LUNCH. AND I NEVER HAD TO LEAVE MICROSOFT WORD®.

Dramatically reduce the time needed to draft, review and respond to legal documents. Easily link to relevant cases, documents and validation from within the software you use every day with Lexis® for Microsoft Office®.

Jumping between applications and research tools while drafting a brief isn't just frustrating—it's inefficient.

Now, you can leave that time-consuming approach behind ... and never lose your train of thought.

Whether you are working with legal material in a Microsoft® Word document or an Outlook® email, Lexis® for Microsoft Office® gives you seamless access to flexible document tools and comprehensive legal resources—right from within your files.

When you open a document or email containing legal information, a LexisNexis® tab displays. Click it, and your content appears in a convenient, adjacent pane with links to research, validation and more. Because Lexis for Microsoft Office tools combine with Lexis Advance® content, you can take advantage of robust filtering tools, plus real-time signals and comprehensive analysis by experienced attorney-editors from the industry-leading Shepard's® Citations Service.

- Save time and work more efficiently.
- Find relevant cases, briefs, motions and pleadings that support your argument.
- Ensure you're not missing a thing by quickly finding cited documents when you review and deconstruct the opposing counsel's briefs.
- Gain more confidence in the outcome of your work.
- Achieve maximum value from your research and Microsoft Office® investment.

Using Search, Background & Suggest

How does Lexis for Microsoft Office deliver relevant information to your document or email?

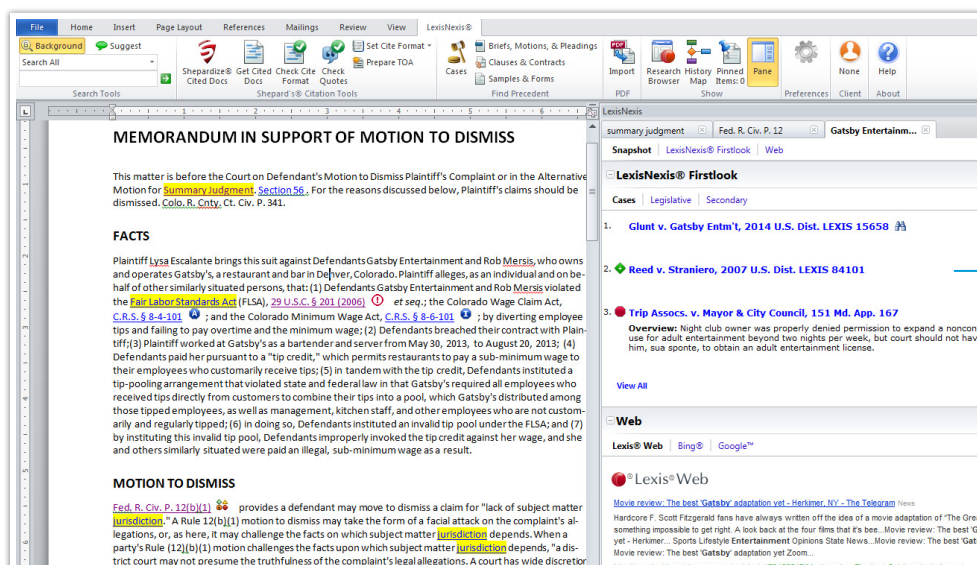

Lexis® for Microsoft Office® uses unique text recognition capabilities to evaluate your document or email content. Links from legal entities, terms of art and citations to research and validation help you gain insights more quickly without the distraction of switching from one research source to another.

- Access relevant information without leaving the document or email on which you are working.
- Save time and work with greater efficiency.
- Stop toggling between Microsoft® documents or emails and research information.

You can also conduct natural-language searches from an easy-to-use, single search box with a convenient pull-down menu that allows you to select where to search—choose Lexis Advance® content, the open Web or your computer.

Access hyperlinks to pertinent background information about companies, judges, attorneys, law firms, legal terms of art and citations within your document or email.

Sources include the LexisNexis® Corporate Affiliations™ database; Lexis Advance cases, legislative and other legal content; LexisNexis® News content; Lexis® Web; and the open Web.

Robust Lexis Advance post-search “Narrow by” tools will appear at the top after you use the Search feature. (“Narrow by” is not shown in this image.) You can use these tools to filter by numerous criteria including jurisdiction, court, time period, source, practice area, attorney, law firm, judge, citation and in vs. out-of-subscription plan.

Background and Suggest: Access hyperlinks to pertinent background information about companies, judges, attorneys, law firms, legal terms of art and citations within your document or email.

Using Shepardize® Cited Docs and Get Cited Docs

Validate your work using Shepard's® Citations Service from within the context of your document through Lexis® for Microsoft Office®. Cited cases appear side-by-side with your document, allowing you to remain in the context of your work—saving time and eliminating source printing.

Exclusively available from LexisNexis®, Shepard's Citations Service is the respected, authoritative resource quoted in the nation's courts. Unlike other citators, Shepard's offers the full spectrum of analysis and the potential to identify splits of authority. Instead of using categorization by a computer system, Shepard's relies on attorney-editors who read and analyze cases to capture the intent of the court.

- Validate cases with greater efficiency.
- Gain strategic insights with greater ease.
- Achieve better case outcomes.

When copying text from Lexis Advance cases, automatically insert complete precedential authority citations to support arguments. Options include the ability to insert copied text as a quote or plain text.

See all citations and easily check them in context with side-by-side layout.

Ensure citations are accurate and up to date while finding additional on-point authority.

Shepardize® Cited Docs and Get Cited Docs: These tools highlight legal citations and corresponding Shepard's Signal™ indicators found in your document. Validate cited sources by clicking on highlighted citations to access Shepard's information within Lexis Advance content.

Lexis® for Microsoft Office®

Using Check Cite Format and Check Quotes

Lexis® for Microsoft Office® helps you stay focused and save time by simplifying the steps to verify and format both citations and quotes. Check Cite Format and Check Quotes help you accomplish these tasks with ease and efficiency while dramatically decreasing time spent reviewing style compliance. You can be confident in the accuracy of your work through real-time comparison against Lexis Advance® content, including the most up-to-date format requirements from citation style manuals.

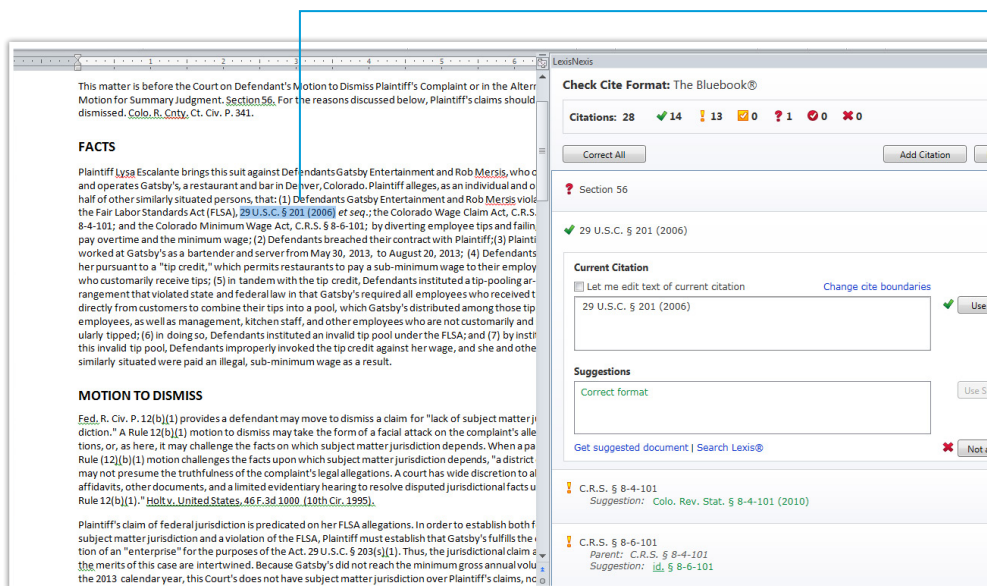

Because you view the document and report side by side, you can see the changes in context.

Short citations (including id. citations) are corrected at the same time as their parent citations. You can clearly view what the tool sees as the parent citation and easily change the parent of the short or id. citation, if needed.

Set style preferences to selected citation style manuals. Automatically receive 1) updates to existing style manual content and 2) new style manuals as they become available.

The tool uses color (red text for current, green text for suggestion) to show you which words will change if you choose a suggested format. Each correction updates the document right away.

Choose from a variety of real-time options for managing citations—including editing original text and redefining citation boundaries.

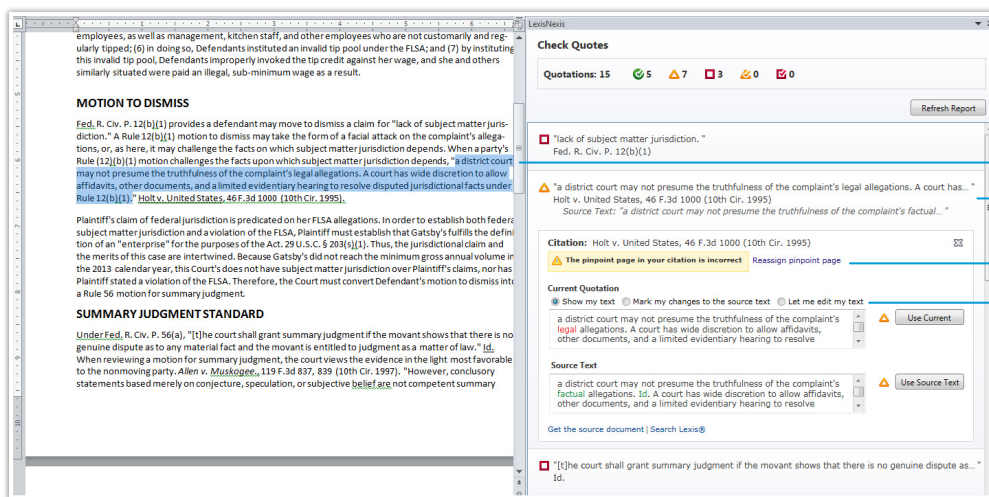

Check Cite Format: Clear status icons help you see at a glance which citations are already correct, which may need correcting and which citations the system does not recognize.

New Correct All feature helps you save time

When desired, you can click Correct All just once to quickly correct multiple citations. This applies to any citations that show just one suggestion. The process will not override any manual decisions you already made.

Check Quotes

If you wish, you can use Check Quotes without running Check Cite Format first.

Retrieve a quoted passage and review it in the context of the original source document.

A status icon indicates that:

- The quote doesn't match the original source or the pinpoint page
- The tool can't find the original source or
- The quote is correct and is found on the pinpoint page noted

Check Quotes: Quickly verify the accuracy and relevance of all quotes against the context of original source documents.

If you add material to your document, it's quicker and easier now to refresh your report. Just click Refresh Report to update. The work you already did will stay in place—no need to re-check anything.

Three options for utilizing a quote include:

- 1) Use the original source text.
- 2) Keep the quoted passage with properly marked alterations you made to the original.
- 3) Manually edit the quote as written in your brief.

Lexis® for Microsoft Office®

Using Table of Authorities

Now, creating or updating a Table of Authorities is faster and easier with Lexis® for Microsoft Office® tools. What used to be a lengthy, time-consuming task can be accomplished quickly and efficiently within seconds, utilizing options you select. This feature even automatically incorporates bookmarks to the pages on which references appear. And you can create a Table of Authorities without running Check Cite Format first, if desired.

- Save time creating and updating an accurate Table of Authorities throughout the drafting process.
- Spend your time addressing the legal issues rather than compiling a Table of Authorities.

You can add or edit headings, move citations and add or delete Table of Authorities citations. From the document on the left, you can add citations to the Table of Authorities on the right (e.g., law review citations).

Select from a variety of style and sorting options.

Step through each listed authority along with the pages where each appears. In addition, you can delete just one or multiple instances of the authority from the table, if desired. If you delete anything in your Table of Authorities, it remains in your document.

Page numbers are bookmarked to the page on which the reference occurs.

Multipage citations are listed for recurring citations in the document.

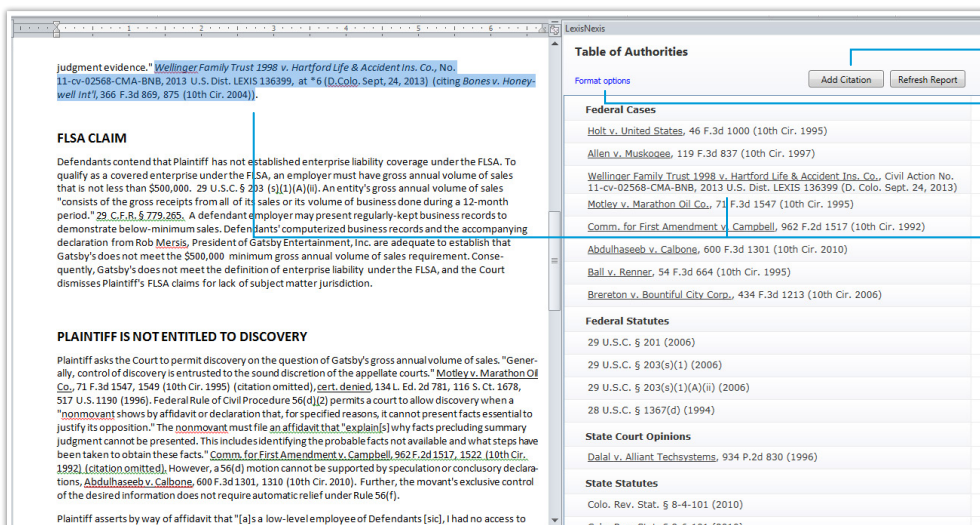

Table of Authorities: Quickly generate and continuously update a Table of Authorities.

Lexis® for Microsoft Office®

Using Cases; Briefs, Motions, & Pleadings; Clauses & Contracts; Samples & Forms

Lexis® for Microsoft Office® provides content and tools to help litigators and transactional attorneys identify precedent and complete document drafting with greater confidence and efficiency. Links to relevant cases, briefs, motions, pleadings, contracts and model forms help minimize duplication of effort.

- You can use Lexis Advance® post-search “Narrow By” tools to filter by criteria including jurisdiction, court, time period, source, practice area, attorney, law firm, judge, citation and more.
- After you select a document of interest, in-document navigation enables you to focus on specific terms/sections such as Reporter, Subsequent History, Case Summary and Outcome.

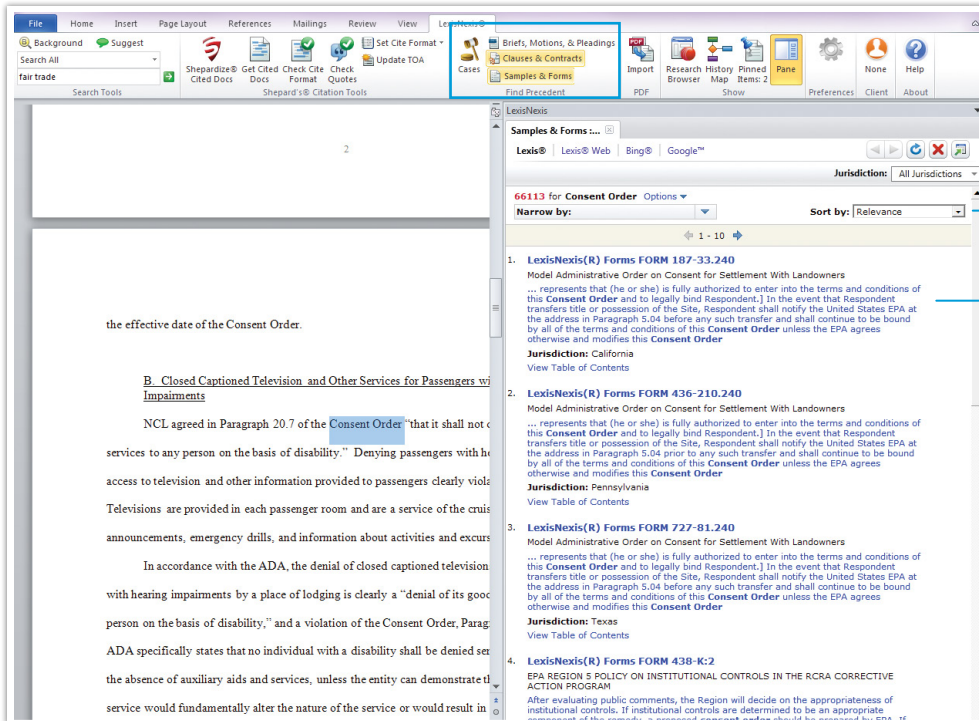

Options allow you to 1) use terms and connectors in your search string instead of a natural language search and 2) expand your search by including synonyms and equivalents for your chosen search terms.

Select previously written text or open a blank document. Then, enter key terms.

Cases; Briefs, Motions, & Pleadings: Find cases and briefs, motions and pleadings while drafting documents to quickly identify legal precedent or sample documents either as a starting point or to compare with your document.

Clauses & contracts; samples & forms

Sort to order your results by Relevance, Document Title, Jurisdiction, Court and Date.

Identify precedent during transactional drafting through Lexis Advance® content that includes SEC filings and the Matthew Bender® model forms collection.

Drag and drop content directly into your document.

For Samples & Forms, use the customizable Lexis Advance delivery methods of Download, Print or Email to save a fillable form.

Clauses & Contracts; Samples & Forms: Find legal precedent and alternative language for a specific contract or clause. Leverage sample forms relevant to your work.

Using the PDF Converter and Pinning

The innovative PDF Converter and Pinning tools make it easier to work with existing PDF documents and save research relevant to your work product.

- With PDF Converter, you can turn PDFs into Microsoft® Word documents so that you can tap into the full functionality of Lexis® for Microsoft Office® and begin your research and analysis.
- Pinning enables you to quickly attach research, links and notes to your documents and emails for future reference or to send to others—for example, you can pin cases that support your position as you create an argument.

Use the PDF Converter for in-firm PDFs as well as those from opposing counsel.

After converting to Word, analyze documents for accuracy and completeness, and use Shepard's Signal™ indicators to gain quick insight into the validity of cited cases.

PDF Converter: Convert non-editable PDF files into Word documents, so you can use Lexis for Microsoft Office tools to analyze content and identify research holes in opposing counsel's PDF documents.

Pinning

The screenshot shows the LexisNexis interface. The main document displays a legal text snippet: "Rule 12(b)(1), 'Holt v. United States, 46 F.3d 1000 (10th Cir. 1995). Plaintiff's claim of federal jurisdiction is predicated on her FLSA allegations. In order to establish both federal subject matter jurisdiction and a violation of the FLSA, Plaintiff must establish that Gatsby's fulfills the definition of an 'enterprise' for the purposes of the Act, 29 U.S.C. § 203(s)(1). Thus, the jurisdictional claim and the merits of this case are intertwined. Because Gatsby's did not reach the minimum gross annual volume in the 2013 calendar year, this Court's does not have subject matter jurisdiction over Plaintiff's claims, nor has Plaintiff stated a violation of the FLSA. Therefore, the court must convert Defendant's motion to dismiss into a Rule 56 motion for summary judgment."
