

Configure, integrate and distribute timely updates and news about your suppliers with LexisNexis® Publisher

LexisNexis® Publisher gives supply management professionals an efficient and effective way to distribute timely updates and news about their supply chain across the enterprise for better intelligence and risk mitigation.

With LexisNexis® Publisher, your organization will gain access to targeted, real-time news via enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems, email, intranet, portals, website, RSS feeds and mobile devices. Get updates from thousands of respected newswires, newspapers, magazines, trade journals, etc., that track companies, industries, subjects, organizations, people and places.

Unlike other providers, LexisNexis doesn't rely on free content from the open Web. Publishers worldwide license their content directly to LexisNexis. That's why you get full-text premium publications not available via the Internet. And LexisNexis maintains the archives, so full-text information stays available without interruption or redirect. Your copyright requirements are covered.

With LexisNexis Publisher, supply management professionals can:

Anticipate and manage supply chain risk

Broadcast early warnings across your organization regarding potential supplier problems. Track potential business issues like litigation and bankruptcies that may affect suppliers—and your business. And ensure your team is among the first to know when negative news about suppliers breaks so they can react faster and ensure continuity of service. You can even monitor the industry better, uncovering trends and patterns to gain perspective on the market, cost drivers and other industry developments.

Compile better supplier intelligence—and a better common body of knowledge

Gain a better understanding of suppliers and share a more complete and consistent picture of your supply chain. LexisNexis Publisher lets you tap into a wide range of market intelligence information, including 26,000 national and international news and social media sources, such as respected newswires, newspapers, magazines, trade journals and more. You can track subjects, industries, companies (both large and small to midsize) and more, leveraging a range of sources you won't find on the open Web.

Articles are tagged by subject, industry, company and location so you can find the facts without worrying about adding name/topic variations to searches.

Work more efficiently, making the most of the resources you have

LexisNexis Publisher fits the way you work. by delivering updates through your choice of distribution channels: ERPs, email, intranet, website, RSS feeds, mobile devices and more. Add internal documents (such as press releases, executive announcements, memos, presentations), Web resources and a wide range of licensed content so your updates help colleagues make faster, more informed supply management decisions. You can also set up custom email alerts on topics of interest. It's all done with minimal keystrokes, managed by an editor/administrator you select. No dedicated headcount, IT management or special software required.

The image shows two overlapping screenshots of the LexisNexis Publisher interface. The top screenshot displays the 'Newsletters - Topics Today' creation page, which includes sections for 'Topic Selection', 'Design', and 'Recipients'. It offers options to create a newsletter using either a 'non-HTML Template' or an 'HTML Template'. Below this, there are 'Choose Design Options' and 'Presentation Options' (Fonts/Color Preferences). A 'Template Layout' section shows two preview icons, and a 'Show In Browser Link' checkbox is checked. A 'Header Logo' section features a carousel of images including an orange, a yellow cone, and a blue building. At the bottom, there are settings for 'Select LexisNexis Logo Size' (Small/Large), 'Table of Contents' (set to None), and 'Truncate Document Headline?' (set to Yes).

The bottom screenshot shows a 'Newsletter Issue - Topics Today (Sun, Nov 14, 2010 09:30 PM)' preview page. It has tabs for 'Article Selection', 'Layout', 'Recipients', 'Notes', and 'Preview/Send'. The preview displays a LexisNexis logo and a list of articles. The first article is 'Corporate Governance (Return To Top)' with the sub-headline 'Embracing the Changing Corporate Governance Landscape'. Other visible articles include 'Shareholder Activism (Return To Top)', 'Rating the ratings: How good are commercial governance ratings?', 'Corporate Governance, the Economist, and a Criticism without a Purpose', 'Buck stops with board of directors - watchdog', 'Speech by SEC Commissioner Troy A. Paredes: Corporate Governance and the New Financial Regulation...', and 'Hostile Takeover Litigation (Return To Top)'. Each article preview includes a small image, a title, a date, and a short excerpt of the text.
