

Compare:

Shepard's[®] at lexis.com[®] and KeyCite[®] at westlaw.com

Shepard's[®] Citations Service at www.lexis.com guides you to the best information—faster, easier and more reliably than other online services. Shepard's is your early warning system, alerting you to vital changes in the authorities you use as foundations for your work and leading you to newer, stronger cases to enhance your position. See for yourself.

You Need	Shepard's Citations Service at www.lexis.com	KeyCite at westlaw.com	Your Shepard's payoff:
Total history and treatment analysis, so you'll reach sound conclusions.	Shepard's experienced attorney-editors provide the full spectrum of history and treatment analysis, including "followed" treatment and "questioned by." Shepard's includes extensive analysis for cases, statutes, regulations, patents and other primary law sources.	No "followed" in KeyCite. "Positive" in KeyCite means no negative treatment.	With Shepard's , you'll know at a glance if your authority has been weakened or strengthened. You'll also quickly spot potential splits of authority. One case may stand for multiple issues, only one of which is overruled, while the others may be expressly followed. Or, just one jurisdiction may overrule a case while others may expressly follow it. Backed by a team of citation experts, you can be sure your authority will stand up to adversarial and judicial scrutiny.
The faster, easier way to find authorities relevant to your research.	One screen; one step; get results. Shepard's Summary provides key references, editorial treatment and information on LexisNexis [®] headnotes from your case that match text in the report's citing cases. Navigation tools allow you to go quickly to the parts of the report of most interest to you. Shepard's is organized by jurisdiction and court, so it's easy to spot citations relevant to your research The FOCUS [™] - Restrict By link lets you add custom restrictions by treatment, jurisdiction, date or LexisNexis headnote, or add focus terms.	Sorry, you can't limit by treatment type in KeyCite. And limiting by jurisdictions means more screens, more steps. KeyCite does not organize its answer sets by jurisdiction, making it hard to identify citations from your court.	Choose Shepard's and know in seconds. Quickly and easily narrow a long list of citing references to citations relevant to your research.
Additional authority to bolster your arguments—quickly.	Shepard's "followed" leads you directly to decisions that have followed your case. Start with one on-point case and move quickly to more recent decisions that may provide stronger support for your position.	Not possible. The best you can do is browse through every non-negative citing case.	With Shepard's , it's faster and easier to find additional authority for your arguments.
Assurance that your case stands on a firm foundation.	Are the authorities on which your case relies still good law? Shepard's Table of Authorities is the fastest way to find out. Shepard's TOA tells you which cases your case followed and which it differs from.	KeyCite Table of Authorities does not offer detailed analysis codes or "following" analysis, so you can't check the foundation of your case in a single step.	Uncover hidden weaknesses with Shepard's Table of Authorities.

Compare:

You Need	Shepard's Citations Service at www.lexis.com	KeyCite at westlaw.com	Your Shepard's payoff:
On-point cases dealing with your specific point of law.	Link on a LexisNexis headnote in Shepard's and move directly to the language in the citing case where the point of law in your headnote is discussed. Relevant words of the headnote are bolded for easy identification. There are multiple access points to the full text of cases within Shepard's. LexisNexis headnote links take you right to the discussion in the citing case of the issue identified in the case—the part of the case of interest to you. You'll only see a "restrict by headnote" link if a subsequent case has actually discussed that point of law. And the links are in the report itself complete with easy access to the full text of the headnotes.	Headnote numbers in KeyCite are not active hyperlinks. KeyCite links to the first place your case is cited, which may or may not be the part of the case you need. Words matching your headnote are not bolded, making it harder to spot relevant language. Headnote analysis is limited primarily to West® reporters. West editors write headnotes for relatively few unpublished decisions. West.com puts "citing references for this headnote" on every headnote even if it's not referenced and you get a statement report if there are no citing cases that match your headnote. The KeyCite Limit feature requires multiple steps.	With Shepard's, you'll get quicker access and more on-point references for the point of law you've selected.
To be alerted if anything changes.	Shepard's Alert® reports contain an easy-to-read summary of changes. Your alert can be easily updated and paused at will, without the need to change your pre-set update schedule. Use the History feature to look at changes that have occurred while the Shepard's Alert was active. Set up your customized Shepard's Alert in as few as 3 screens.	KeyCite does not offer Alert summaries. Set an update schedule with KeyCite Alert and any changes you make are permanent. No ability to pause or run an off-schedule update at will. No history tracking feature is available with KeyCite Alert. Setting up an alert can take up to 12 screens.	The Shepard's Alert feature is easier to use.

Comparison based on information available as of 01/12. Effective date: 01/10/12.

LexisNexis, the Knowledge Burst logo, Shepard's and Shepard's Alert are registered trademarks and FOCUS is a trademark of Reed Elsevier Properties Inc., used under license. Matthew Bender is a registered trademark of Matthew Bender Properties Inc. KeyCite and West are registered trademarks of West Publishing Corporation. © 2012 LexisNexis. All rights reserved. BMH00171-0 0312