Introduction

Welcome to the April 2024 edition of the LexisNexis® Channel Partner Newscast, a regular update on what's happening in the world of the LexisNexis Regulatory Compliance solution.

This newscast is designed to provide our channel partners with advice on what's happening with our existing content offering, any future changes that we're considering, and what we're doing to promote the Regulatory Compliance solution out in the wider world.

In this issue, we provide you the latest updates in new modules, technical updates affecting your customers subscriptions and marketing content you can share with your audience.

We hope you find this newsletter a useful tool for our partnership activities throughout the year.

New Modules

While we are committed to the process of continuing improvement in our existing content offering, here is a comprehensive list of newly launched modules for our customers in Australia, and New Zealand

Australia

It has been a busy few months for our global content team, expanding our offerings here in Australia at a rapid pace, while also supporting our newest markets in the UK and US. Last issue we had hinted to a few new modules that were COMING SOON for 2023. All of them have launched!

Energy - Wholesale Markets [Launched – October 2023]

Energy market participants must comply with significant requirements and procedures in accordance with legislation designed to ensure the quality of energy generation, distribution and transmission in Australia for consumers. Wholesalers including distributors, transmitters and generators, their employees and authorised individuals are expected to be familiar with the broad landscape of legal and regulatory obligations that apply, as well as more specific obligations relevant to the particular sector in which they are operating. The Energy Wholesale module equips customers with knowledge of their requirements under the National Electricity and National Gas Laws and Rules and the relevant systems and processes that should be implemented to ensure an effective compliance management system within their organisation.

Therapeutic Goods [Launched – December 2023]

The regulatory framework for Therapeutic Goods and Medical Devices in Australia involves a comprehensive process of assessment, registration, and post-market surveillance to ensure the safety, quality and efficacy of therapeutic goods. The Therapeutic Goods Administration (TGA) assesses, grants approval and lists/registers therapeutic goods on the Australian Register of Therapeutic Goods (ARTG). The ARTG acts as a comprehensive database providing information on therapeutic goods' safety, efficacy and quality to healthcare professionals, consumers, and other regulatory authorities. The TGA also conducts post-market surveillance to monitor the safety of therapeutic goods, enforces compliance with regulatory standards, and provides ongoing guidance and information to sponsors of therapeutic goods, including healthcare professionals and the public. This module provides a comprehensive overview of the regulation of therapeutic goods in Australia, covering key topics such as the classification of therapeutic goods, licensing and sampling requirements, advertising of therapeutic goods, and the responsibilities of sponsors in the import, export and manufacturing of therapeutic goods. The module also delves into risk management plans, pharmacovigilance and biovigilance systems, and reporting adverse events, offering a holistic understanding of therapeutic goods in the healthcare industry. It provides guidance on the necessary policies and procedures to ensure compliance with the organisation's legal responsibilities.

Water Supply Management (NSW) [Launched – December 2023]

The NSW Water Supply Management module provides direction and guidance to water suppliers, retailers and utilities on the procedures and processes necessary to ensure compliance with their legal obligations throughout the operational system. The management of New South Wales's water supply sector is regulated by various federal and state government departments which each have the responsibility for administering particular pieces of legislation. However, due to the complex nature of water supply operations, there are significant areas of overlap between departments. Accordingly, this module also covers the obligations of the regulators including what authority they have and how it is enforced.

New Zealand

While the New Zealand market continues to show a strong interest in the financial sector, our team continues to develop relevant content for the wider market.

Facilities Management [Coming in 2024]

The New Zealand Facilities Management module will provide guidance for New Zealand organisations that own, occupy or control workplaces, public premises, electrical installations and works, gas and LPG systems, water systems, waste systems and facilities, car parks, major hazard sites and heritage sites. This module will cover how facility owners, operators, and managers are obligated to coordinate with various government agencies to achieve compliance with applicable legislation. This includes working with WorkSafe NZ during investigations and inspections, providing evacuation schemes and other required information to Fire and Emergency NZ, collaborating with local councils for consent and certification processes and coordinating with regulatory bodies such as the Environmental Protection Authority when managing hazardous substances, or Heritage New Zealand for sites of cultural significance.

Energy – Wholesale Markets

Does your organisation understand the legal and regulatory wholesale energy obligations they must comply with?

This checklist has been designed to help organisations understand how to navigate and comply with the legislative and compliance requirements related to quality of energy generation, distribution and transmission in Australia for consumers. It has been developed in conjunction with LexisNexis Regulatory Compliance Legal Experts, Caren Klavsen, Special Counsel at Piper Alderman and Andrew Rankin, Partner at Piper Alderman.

Workplace Health and Safety Checklist

In today's dynamic business environment, maintaining a focus on workplace health and safety is not just a legal obligation but a strategic necessity. Tracking your obligations can be as complex as the reason the legislation exists, which is why we've developed this new checklist to help you forge a clear path to compliance.

Developed by our team of legal experts, this checklist provides you with guidance on your compliance obligations, to ensure your business is meeting its workplace health and safety requirements from first aid to risk and hazard management.

Technical Updates

Country and Industry attributes are now available for Modules for json, xml and csv output formats.

With the module consolidation initiative, we will be introducing a new module – Security Interests and Mortgages [887631]; impacted customers will have the module added to their subscription as part of the April monthly update. Please note as this is a new module, you will need to pull all content as its initial load.
