

Te Reo Māori switcher

When you log in for the first time, you will be asked to pick whether you wish to experience Lexis+ in (1) English or in Te Reo Māori.

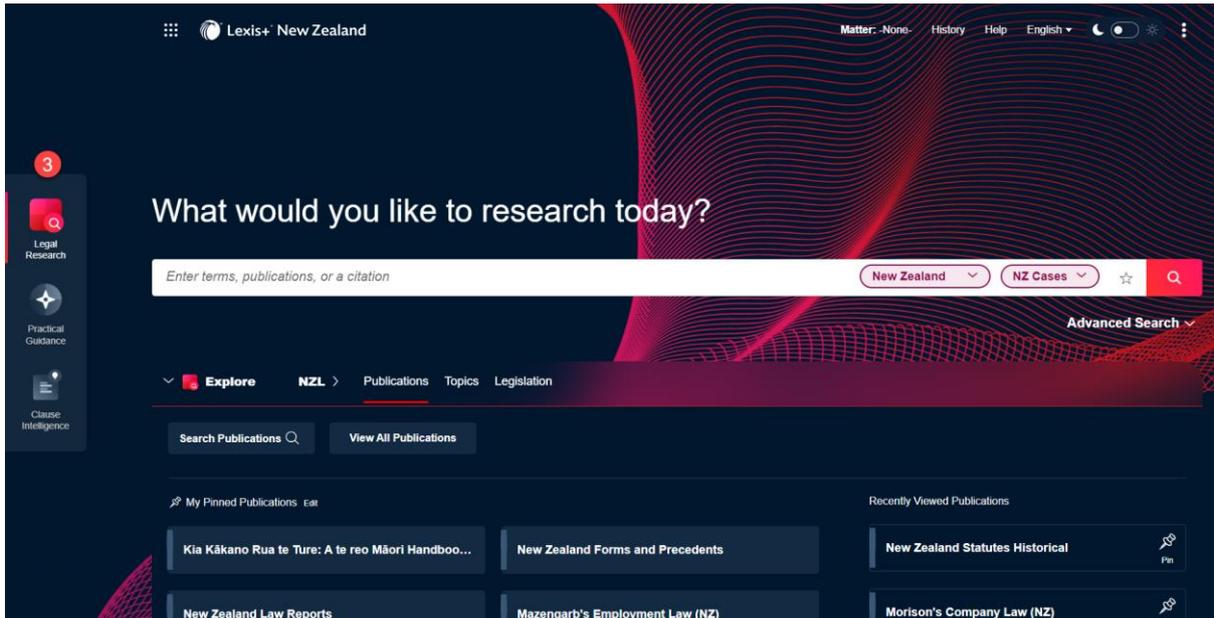

You will be able to toggle between these options at any point using the (2) dropdown menu at the top of the screen.

Please note that this feature is still being worked on and has known limitations for what it can translate currently. We will be adding translations progressively throughout the development process, but this will be for platform labels only, and the functionality will not extend to content. We continue to increase Te Reo Māori within our overall content offerings and this will still be available subject to subscription, but will not be translated by this feature. We are eager to gather your feedback on any further requirements you have in this area.

Lexis+ Design

Once logged in, explore the new Lexis+™ landing page, featuring a visually optimised design with starting points for all your legal workflows. Use the (3) Experience Dock to select your preferred experience.

Legal Research

The (4) Legal Research experience introduces an efficient and effective approach to research, featuring a single search for legal research, and practical guidance content. Access sources, documents, legal phrases, and suggested documents easily, directly from the (5) Search Bar, using either natural language or terms & connectors.
