

LexisNexis® Information Professional Update

The newsletter designed for law librarians

ISSUE 10
OCTOBER 2013

It's the best thing to happen to class and exam prep since highlighters and the 24-hour coffee shop: the case-law game from LexisNexis®

Back by popular demand! Now there's an updated version of Think Like A Lawyer, the case-law game from LexisNexis®. It's currently available to all law students at NO CHARGE.

The game is designed to help students spot and analyze issues while preparing for class or exams. Students can play using selected or random cases.

Law School Librarians often alert their students to this fun, free and informative tool. Check it out!

Play Think Like A Lawyer ►

1Ls can prepare for class or exams by testing their knowledge of case-law content based on areas of law they are learning about right now.

2Ls and 3Ls can prepare for class, exams—or even the bar—with five levels of questions that increase in difficulty.

Powered by the research technology of the Lexis Advance® service, Think Like A Lawyer is the fun, informative way to get ready for exams—no charge.

Students can compete against friends or find out how your school measures up against law schools across the country on the Think Like A Lawyer leaderboard.

Train Your Brain for Class or Exams. Play Now ►

Game Leaders

TOP 25 OVERALL

Click here to view how you rank among the overall leaderboard.

View Top 25 Leaders

University of Dayton School of Law TOP 25

Click here to view how you rank among the players at your law school.

Top 25 at Your School

LAW SCHOOL LEADERS

Your score contributes to your law school's rank. Check out this list of Law School Leaders to see how your school is doing.

View Law School Leaders

SUBJECT LEADERS

Select from the subject areas below to see how you rank within the different Case Question Subject matter categories.

Torts

Contracts

Criminal Law

Civil Procedure

Property Law

Constitutional Law

Download LexisNexis® Mobile Apps at www.lexisnexis.com/mobile